AIR RAID SIRENS SOUND

Tension Mounts On Formosa As Bombers Moved

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — Air raid sirens alerted the Chinese Nationalist Matsu Island garrison into full battle positions Saturday amid reports that Red China has moved bombers into coastal airbases threatening Nationalist China.

The sirens sounded when four communist MIG fighters were sighted southwest of Matsu, Nationalist China's northernmost offshore island group.

Nationalist troops on Matsu were ordered to battle posts but the Red planes disappeared without combat. The alert lasted for 10 minutes.

Similiar Air Alerts

Three similar air alerts had been sounded on Matsu, 12 miles off the Red China coast, within three hours Friday afternoon.

Authoritative sources, meanwhile, said the Chinese Communists had sent more Soviet-built MIG fighters to Lungchi Air Base, only 20 minutes' flying time from Formosa.

The sources also said the Communists had deployed additional bombers in recent days to airbases near Shanghai and in Lunchiao and Chekiang provinces.

The new deployments of communist warplanes were disclosed following a U.S. State Department charge that Communist China was building up its air strength opposite Formosa to "increase tensions and raise the specter of war."

Double Alert

Coastal gun positions and sentries on the Nationalist-held Pescadores Islands just off Formosa's west coast were ordered into double alert against a possible Red invasion attempt.

The United States is pledged by treaty to defend Formosa and the Pescadores, but a U.S. decision to defend the offshore islands can be made only by President Eisenhower.

All martial law enforcement agencies in Formosa were being disbanded tonight and their tasks placed under a single unified headquarters, the Taiwan garrison command. All military forces, police and civil defense units were on full 24-hour alert.

Union Board Votes Against Strike Action

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers International Executive Board voted Saturday to defer action on requests by the UAW's Chrysler, Ford and General Motors councils for strike action.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther said the union did not feel this was the time to call a strike.

He said the union wants to give the companies "one more chance to bargain in good faith before calling a strike."

Reuther said, however, "the day of decision is fast approaching," and the executive board would meet again before the last week in September and set a definite strike date and a target company if negotiations have not progressed more rapidly by then.

Contrary To Statement

The decision of the executive board was directly contrary to a statement made by Reuther before meetings of the international councils earlier Saturday. At that time, he said he expected the councils and the executive board to authorize strike action.

When asked about his earlier statement after the board decision Reuther said he intended to say that strike action ultimately would be authorized, but not necessarily Saturday.

"When we authorize a strike in the future, we will set a strike date and pick a target company," he said. "A strike will follow shortly after any strike date we set. We will try to minimize the hardships of a strike by striking only one company at a time."

When asked why the board delayed authorization of a strike at this time, Reuther said the union did not feel the time was ripe and wanted to set a specific date and a specific target when it authorized a strike.

"The time is not ripe now," he

Consideration Of Teamster Rival Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-NC) urged the AFL-CIO Saturday to consider setting up a rival to the giant Teamsters Union, which he said is run by criminals and gangster associates.

Ervin is a member of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee which last week heard Teamster President James R. Hoffa testify he has had more important things to do than take action against union officials with criminal records.

Members of the committee voiced astonishment at this attitude. Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) told Hoffa: "You surround yourself with criminals, and . . . you keep them there and intend to keep them there if you can have your way."

Promises Action

"There will be action taken in due time," Hoffa replied. "It's not right or fair for you to say there is something wrong with my leadership because I don't deprive people of a living."

Ervin told a reporter Saturday he believes "the AFL-CIO now must give serious thought to setting up a new transportation union to provide a place for honest Teamsters members to go—those thousands and thousands who won't want a union led by criminals, associates of gangsters and Fifth Amendment pleaders in whom they can repose no trust."

The AFL-CIO, while leaving the way open to take some such step in the future, has put primary emphasis on appeals to the Teamsters' rank-and-file to vote out of office any corrupt officials.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said 10 days ago he looks forward to the day "when members of the Teamsters Union who have been victims of shameless exploitation by some of their leaders will take the necessary steps within this union so that it can take its proper place in the AFL-CIO."

Chinese Honor Gen. Chennault

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist China Saturday remembered a man who came to help her fight during one of her darkest hours.

A memorial service at International House honored Lt. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, wartime leader of the Flying Tigers who died of lung cancer July 27 in New Orleans.

Union Agent Is Arrested In Arson Job

Suspect In Fire Which Killed Man

FLINT, Mich. (UPI) — A Teamster Union business agent was arrested Saturday as a suspected participant in the bungled arson job that killed another teamster business agent, Frank Kierdorf.

Jack Thompson, 41, described as Kierdorf's "closest friend" was booked on suspicion of arson. Both Thompson and Kierdorf were business agents of Teamsters Union Local 332 in Flint and worked together on organization. Both also went before the Senate Rackets Committee in Washington last November and were Fifth Amendment witnesses.

Kierdorf, 56, an ex-convict, died last Thursday from burns over 85 per cent of his body 3 1-2 days after stumbling into a hospital at Pontiac, 36 miles away, and telling a story of being set afire by two strangers.

Burned Setting Fire

State Atty. Gen. Paul Adams pulled together evidence that Kierdorf was burned while trying to set fire to Latreille's cleaning establishment in Flint and that he had two companions who pulled him from the fire that started prematurely, tried to treat his burns, then drove him to the hospital.

Herman Kierdorf, 67, Frank's uncle who disappeared after visiting his nephew at the hospital last

Condemn Ike On Ceremony Of Atom Sub

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Incensed congressmen Saturday roundly condemned President Eisenhower's failure to invite Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover to White House ceremonies celebrating the historic North Pole exploit of the atomic submarine Nautilus.

The White House insisted it was not a deliberate snub to Rickover, who is known as the "father of the atomic sub." Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said there was a shortage of space in the room where the ceremony was held and hence the guest list had to be restricted.

The explanation failed to convince or pacify key members of the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee. Rep. Melvin Price (D-Ill.) acidly pointed out that Rickover has been "slighted repeatedly" by Navy brass and high government officials.

Rickover has been in the ill graves of regular Navy officialdom for some time. He has twice been passed over for promotion. Unless he receives vice admiral rank by next year, he must retire automatically.

Made Calls

One Pentagon source claimed today that White House advisers made three telephone calls to Navy leaders suggesting the 58-year-old admiral be included on the guest list but that the requests were ignored. The Navy disavowed any responsibility in the matter.

Rickover's absence at the widely publicized White House ceremony where the President pinned the Legion of Merit on the Nautilus' skipper, Cmdr. William R. Anderson, was quickly noted.

Hagerty said that because of the space limitations, only heads of

BEAR GRABS GIRL, 7

Fails In Attempt To Save Daughter

EDMONTON, Alta. (UPI) — A heart - broken mother told Saturday how she tried to snatch her 7 - year - old daughter from a giant bear's jaws in a frantic tug-of - war in Jasper National Park. The child died from the mauling.

Mrs. Jack Coates, whose husband was away fishing, was summoned by the frantic cries of her 5 - year - old daughter, Allison Friday. Allison ran into the tourist cabin where the family was vacationing and screamed, "It's a bear."

The terrified mother ran out the back door and found Barbara lying on the ground. A full - grown bear stood over her, nuzzling her neck.

Mrs. Coates seized the child's legs and tried to pull her clear. But the bear clamped his teeth on Barbara's back and backed down a trail with the mother desperately trying to pull the child free.

About every 10 feet, Mrs. Coates said, the enraged beast stopped and looked at the mother. Then the animal would shake Barbara, who by then was unconscious.

After the bear had pulled back about 50 feet, Mrs. Coates said she lost her grip on Barbara. The bear dragged the child down the trail.

Three girls from a neighboring camp rushed to the scene and chased the animal away. It dropped Barbara's limp body as it fled down the trail.

Moments later, the tourist camp owner appeared and shot the bear.

Barbara died in an ambulance that was rushing her to a hospital. Doctors said she died of shock, internal bleeding and a fractured spine.

U.S. Shapes New Middle East Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration is shaping a new policy aimed at having the United Nations take over from individual great powers the job of making peace and keeping order in the Middle East.

The White House said Saturday that President Eisenhower at Gettysburg and Secretary of State Dulles here are working to complete their program for this week's emergency sesssion of the U. N. General Assembly.

From other sources it was learned that the program under consideration is to ask the U.N. to take over in the Middle East with full assurance of U.S. support.

Dulles Top Man

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said Dulles will head the regular U.S. delegation. He said Eisenhower might go to New York but if he did so it would be for only a brief time.

Actually, the present planning is to divide up the assignment. Officials said any speech by Eisenhower would deal in general terms with the Mideast problem and probably contain some big surprise plan—perhaps in the field of economic development. Dulles is certain to demand that the Soviet Union and the United Arab Republic of President Gamal Abdel Nasser stop using in the explosive area what Dulles calls indirect aggression.

In the Middle East itself the State Department found one encouraging fact and one worrisome element. Each of these may have an important impact on the mood of the 81-nation General Assembly meeting in New York.

Conditions in Lebanon are so far stabilized that a start may be made shortly on withdrawal of U.S. troops sent in in mid-July. This would show to the General Assembly a willingness to get the troops out.

Jordan Causes Concern

But a cause of increasing concern here is the state of affairs in nearby Jordan, which Britain undertook to protect after the coup which overthrew King Faisal in neighboring Iraq July 14. Jordan's King Hussein has little popular support.

His great supporter in earlier crises has been King Saud of Saudi Arabia. Evidence last week that Saudi Arabia and Nasser's U.A.R. government were negotiat-

Group Approves Extension Of IGY Program

MOSCOW (AP)—The committee of the International Geophysical Year Saturday formally approved a Soviet plan to extend the great scientific research program for another year, through 1959.

The committee's closing session also heard U. S. scientists voice regret that the Russians have not agreed to a full and automatic sharing of knowledge from their rocket and earth satellite experiments.

The decision for an extension of IGY must be ratified by the International Council of Scientific Unions, the parent body of IGY, but this is expected to be a formality.

60 Participating

Then it will be necessary to get the participating governments to agree to foot the bill. More than 60 governments are participating in the 18-month program which will end in December.

The extended program would be known as International Geophysical Cooperation 1959. The decision was accompanied by recommendations for many of the IGY studies of the earth, sun, and oceans to be

Point Man, 53, Shot To Death In Hay Field

FARMERVILLE (Special) — Frank Dyer, 53-year-old Point resident, was in the Union Parish jail last night following the hay field slaying of Ford Nolan, 53, also of Point.

Union parish Sheriff Jurd Stewart said Dyer had admitted killing Nolan with a .22 pistol about 3 p.m. yesterday.

Scene of the tragedy was a hay field at Point, about 15 miles southeast of Farmerville. Stewart said Nolan and Ollie Carter were moving hay into a barn near Dyer's home.

Dyer came over to the men and started talking with Carter. In a few minutes, Dyer attempted to talk with Nolan. Dyer told the sheriff that Nolan wouldn't talk with him and kept trying to walk off. Dyer then pulled the gun from his pocket and fired at Nolan's right side, according to Stewart.

Hears Shot

Carter said he was inside the barn but heard the shot and rushed out in time to see Nolan staggering toward the road and Dyer standing with the pistol in his hand.

Nolan was dead almost as soon as he reached the road.

Stewart said formal charges are pending completion of the investigation.

Final rites for Mr. Nolan will be held today at 2:30 p.m. at Providence Baptist Church with the Rev. Connie Ward officiating. Burial will be in the Acree Cemetery by Kilpatrick's Funeral home of Farmerville.

Survivors are his widow, of Point; a son, Rabon Nolan, Point; two daughters, Mrs. Louise White, West Monroe, and Miss Joy Nolan, Point; a brother, Russell Nolan, Point; two sisters, Mrs. Vada Jones and Mrs. Ira Antley, both of Point, and five grandchildren.

The body will lie in state at the Rabon Nolan home until time for services.

Two Killed, 3 Hurt In Wreck

CARTHAGE, Miss. (AP)—Two persons were killed and three others were injured when their auto smashed into a tree six miles south of here Saturday.

The dead were Mrs. Susie C. Clifton, 70, Mason, Tenn., and 10-month-old Ernest Calvin McGee.

The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. McGee of Lake, who were en route to Mason with Mrs. Clifton, Mrs. McGee's mother, and another son, three-year-old Guy Clifton McGee.

McGee, an employee of the state department of audit, was hospitalized in Jackson. Mrs. McGee and Guy McGee were taken to the Leake County Memorial Hospital.

ON MID-EAST CRISIS

Eisenhower May Speak At U.N.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said Saturday that President Eisenhower may personally address the United Nations General Assembly emergency session next Wednesday on American proposals for settling the Middle East crisis.

A firm decision will be made later, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who will head the U.S. delegation, spent Saturday with his aides drafting what was described as a "double-barrelled" peace plan for submission to the Assembly. He consulted on the details with the President, who was at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

The American program probably will be present to the Assembly Monday. It consists of two basic approaches:

Outlaw Indirect Aggression

To get immediate Assembly action outlawing indirect aggression and setting up a special U.N. commission to deal immediately with this and other political issues of the Middle East.

A proposal for U.N. efforts over the long haul to coordinate economic steps to increase the standards of living through the Mideast.

The approach represents a compromise between ideas advanced by Dulles, the White House and some members of Congress.

Dulles has insisted that the primary task is to deal with the threat of indirect aggression of the type which brought about American intervention in Lebanon.

The President, Vice President

High Cuban Reb Official Killed In Troop Clash

HAVANA (UPI) — The government said Saturday rebel group leader "Gallego Almeida," believed to be second in command at the insurgents' "second front" headquarters in Northern Oriente Province, was killed with 17 of his men in a clash with Cuban Army troops.

An Army communique said the clash took place at Purial De Jibacoa, in Oriente, with government losses confined to one soldier wounded.

A "Juan Almeida" has long been identified as having commanded a rebel raiding force in Northern Oriente before Paul Castro, brother of insurgent chief Fidel Castro, opened a so-called "second front" in that area.

Private reports from Oriente indicated Saturday that the rebels were on the offensive over a wide sector, and with considerable local success. Army forces were report-

Pair Trades Baby For Pickup Truck

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Child abandonment charges were drawn Saturday against a Pennsylvania couple who allegedly traded their 4½ - months old baby to a Missouri man for a pickup truck and a "pocketful of money."

Authorities jailed Mr. and Mrs. Richard Readdy of Shamokin, Pa., the baby's parents, and Jesse Lester Burger, 42, of El Dorado Springs, Mo.

Detective W. J. Cotton said he received a tipoff on the deal from Burger's sister, at 2:47 a.m. Saturday. She told him "Someone's giving a baby away."

Cotton sped to the address given and found Burger's wife, Mrs. Barbara Jean Burger, and his sister, holding a small baby. Then a taxi pulled up. Burger got out and came into the house.

"That brat is yours. You won't ever see them people again. I gave them my truck and a pocket full of money and started them out on Highway 66," Cotton said Burger told the two women, before he noticed the presence of the officer.

At that point, Burger stopped talking, but Cotton ordered him to go on. Resignedly, the Missouri man related that he and his wife were driving to Tulsa late Friday from Missouri. At Joplin, they picked up a man and a woman and a small baby, the Readdy family, who were hitchhiking.

Cotton said Burger told him he bought the couple something to eat on the way to Tulsa, and that when they approached Tulsa, the man told Burger "I'll trade you the baby for the truck."

"It's a trade," Cotton quoted Burger as telling the man.

Two Crashes Occur Within 4-Hour Span

WINNFIELD (Special)—A 2-car collision 12 miles west of Winnfield killed three construction workers early yesterday morning, and a one-car mishap about four hours later critically injured a brother of one of the earlier wreck victims.

Winnfield Sheriff R. S. Jordan identified victims of the first wreck as Joe Griffith Jr., 21, DesArc, Ark.; Wilburn B. Presnall, 36, Jonesboro, and Victor O. Gulley, 19, of Winnfield and a student at Northwestern at Natchitoches.

The second accident critically injured James Griffith, also of DesArc and a brother of Joe Griffith, and slightly injured Jerry Gorham, about 20, of Joyce.

Jordan said the first accident, which occurred about 12:10 a.m. yesterday, happened on a straight stretch of Highway 84.

Joe Griffith was driving one vehicle, Jordan said, with Presnall as a passenger. The Griffith car collided head-on with a vehicle driven by Gulley. Jordan said investigation had determined that Griffith's car was over the center line when the tragedy occurred. Gulley was alone in his car.

Second Wreck

The second mishap occurred between 2 and 4 a.m. yesterday 9 miles east of Winnfield, also on Highway 84. Jordan said James Griffith was driving a car which missed a detour bridge and plunged several feet into a creek.

The sheriff explained a new bridge was under construction and the car did not hit either bridge. James Griffith was in critical condition in a Winnfield hospital with severe head cuts and internal injuries last night. Gorham suffered cuts and had some teeth knocked out. He was treated and released.

Funeral services for Joe Griffith will be held in DesArc, about 60 miles east of Little Rock. His survivors include his wife and several step-children.

Presnall is survived by his mother, Mrs. W. O. Presnall, and a daughter, Miss Dorothy Presnall, both of Shreveport; and three

34 Killed In Crash Of Plane In Libyan Hills

BENGHAZI, Libya (UPI) — A Central African Airways Viscount airliner carrying 54 persons on a London - bound flight crashed in flames early Saturday in the Libyan desert hills six miles from Benghazi airport.

Report from the scene said 34 persons were killed, including four of the seven crew members. Some of the survivors were reported seriously injured.

Officials said the survivors included Sir Alfred Savage, former governor of British Guiana, his wife, four infants and the airliner's two hostesses. Sir Alfred is a "crown agent" who represents the colonial governments in London.

Almost All English

Almost all of the 47 passengers and crew of seven were English. Injured survivors were taken to the British military hospital at Benghazi.

The big silver-and-blue turboprop plane left Salisbury, Rhodesia, Friday en route to London. It had stopped at Wadi Halfa in the Sudan and was just six miles short of completing its next leg to Benghazi when it crashed in the hilly desert area.

'SENSELESS GIVEAWAY'

Sen. Ellender To Fight Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La), veteran critic of foreign aid programs, Saturday promised an all-out fight to slash the $3,518,092,500 mutual aid appropriations.

"I pledge to you that I will once again lead the way in an attempt to further cut this senseless give-away program," the Louisiana senator said in a radio program recorded for use in his state.

Ellender took part in the Senate drive that cut President Eisenhower's original authorization requests from $3,900,000,000 to $3,500,000,000.

Senate leaders expect to act on the money bill, which provides actual funds, Tuesday or Wednesday.

Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California teamed up to persuade the Senate Appropriations Committee to restore 440 million dollars of 807½ millions cut from the new foreign aid fund by the House.

Ellender said he will try to whittle out at least 100 millions from military aid funds on the senate floor.

Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.), a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview he expects the Senate to approve the money bill about the way it came from the Appropriations Committee.

"I doubt that efforts will be made on the floor to increase it," he said, "and I'm also confident that any efforts to cut it back will be defeated."

"All around us we can see the fallacy of our dollar diplomacy," Ellender said, "whereby an overflowing helping of American dollars is supposed to buy us enough friends to hold off the Communist tide.

"It is painfully evident to all of us that our dollars have not been buying us any friends."

Convict Girl Of Manslaughter In Boy's Death

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—An Arkansas girl who shot her boy friend after he threatened to quit her was convicted of manslaughter Saturday.

Bette Hope Johnson, 19, shapely blonde from Russellville, Ark., smiled happily after hearing the verdict.

She claimed she tried to kill herself (as the pair sat in a car in front of a Lamont drive-in restaurant with Harold Kenneth Horn, 21, with whom she had traveled west from Russellville.

She said the gun went off, killing Horn.

Judge Robert K. Lambert denied a defense request for a new trial and sentenced Miss Johnson to Corona Prison for Women. The conviction is punishable by from one to ten years.

The jury of three women and nine men deliberated almost nine hours.

Dist. Atty. Kit Nelson had asked the jury to find Miss Johnson guilty of first degree murder.

The girl smiled and waved to friends as she left the courtroom. "So long, kids," she said. "I'll see you in four to six weeks."

Building Spirals During 22 Years

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

During the last 22 and a half years, 8,004 buildings valued at $57,056,085 have been constructed in Monroe, according to a comprehensive survey completed yesterday by Mrs. S. W. McLean, who works in the office of Monroe Building Inspector, John E. Zufall.

The survey shows how many homes, housing units and apartments were constructed or repaired, the number of new buildings and building repairs, and the values of the construction and repairs from January, 1936 through June, 1958.

Building inspector during those years was Sam Awl, who retired in June.

The spiral in the cost of living, effect of war years on construction, and peak years are shown by the figures in the survey.

Although $57,056,085 worth of construction and $9,281,962 worth of repairs were totalled for the period, Monroe's assessed valuation for tax purposes stands at $45,613,007.00, far below the actual value.

During the 22½ years, 5,631 homes worth $32,162,235 were built, in addition to 349 multiple units including apartments and housing projects, valued at $3,200,593.

Repairs to 3,562 residences were valued at $2,536,725.

A total of 1,324 non-residential buildings, including businesses, industries, churches, restaurants, grocery stores, schools and service stations were constructed, with valuation set at $21,693,257.

Building permits were issued for 1,484 repairs to non-residential buildings, with the repairs valued at $6,745,227.

All 5,046 repairs are valued at a total of $9,281,952.

In 1936 it cost $188,943 to build 106 new homes. During the first six months of 1958, the cost of building 153 new homes stands at $1,593,238. That's only 47 more homes, but the cost is $1,404,295 more, evidence of the rise in labor and material costs.

Crucial Year

The United States entered World War II in December of 1941. During the first 11 months of that year, 139 homes, four multiple units, and 72 new buildings were started.

In 1942, only 61 homes, one multiple unit, and 33 new buildings were begun — the war cut down on manpower and construction materials. Labor forces entered the Armed Forces and winning the war became the nation's business.

Following World War II, construction increased each year ... until 1951, when we realized that the "Korean incident" was actually a full-scale war....and construction slowed again.

In 1945, the last year of World War II, 143 new homes were begun. The next year saw permits issued for construction of 298 homes; 1947 — 345 homes; 1948—402 homes; 1949—430 homes; 1950—545 homes ... and in 1951, construction dropped to 289 homes.

Best year for home construction was 1955, when 510 new residence permits were issued.

Good Year

Start of housing projects and apartments in 1951 made that the best year for multiple units, when 106 were started, at a cost of $287,368. However, two years later in 1953, the value of 55 multiple units begun then was set at $1,369,383.

After the slim war years when few new buildings were constructed, 1946 saw 146 new buildings, worth $300,290 and in 1947, 142 new buildings worth $1,666,017 were begun. Best year — according to value — for construction of new buildings in Monroe was 1953, when 79 new buildings worth $3,801,535 were started.

In 1950, the most homes—543 worth $3,988,500 — were started. Valuewise, 1955 was the best year for home construction, when permits were issued for 510 brick and wood residences valued at $4,476,315.

In 1936, 119 repairs to homes cost $51,372. During the first six months of this year, homeowners again put in 119 repairs ... but this time the cost was more than double — $104,319.

This is how costs have soared: In 1936, it cost $21,179 to put up four multiple housing units. So far this year, it has cost $85,354 for five multiple units. In 1936, 71 new buildings cost $49,925. This year, 44 new buildings have cost $941,049. In 1936, 49 repairs to buildings cost $55,263. This year, 26 repairs have cost $280,377.

And in 1936, the builders valued 106 new homes, four multiple units and 71 new buildings at $260,047 .....while this year, 153 new homes, five new multiple units, and 44 new buildings are valued at $2,619,641.

The survey proves it — your dollar was worth more 22 years ago.

FROM NEW SPACE CHIEF

Bold Program Is Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack said Saturday he looked for newly - appointed space administrator T. Keith Glennan of Cleveland, to give the nation a "bold program" designed to outstrip Russia.

President Eisenhower sent Glennan's nomination to the Senate Friday, along with that of Hugh L. Dryden to be deputy administrator.

McCormack, House Space Committee chairman, said the United States must overtake Russia's Sputnik - led efforts to conquer space "as a question of survival."

"We know that if the Russians achieve an over - all position in space they would use it for conquest," he told United Press International. "Therefore, we must achieve it for peaceful purposes."

McCormack and other committee members have been pointedly critical of the initial 343 million dollar space program put forth by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics — nucleus of the new National Aueonautics and Space Administration (NASA) and advisory committee director Dryden. They complained that it was a "pre - Sputnik model" that lacked imagination.

Signs Measure Authorizing Land Title

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has signed legislation authorizing the secretary of the army to reconvey to four persons title to 540 acres of land—part of the property acquired by the government for the Demopolis lock and dam project on Tombigbee River, Ala.—for $27,120.

The conveyance, subject to certain restrictions including that of flowage rights for the government, would be to four sisters who are the heirs of Milton H. Long.

Long, former owner of the property, was notified in January, 1956, that the property was no longer required for public purposes and available under certain restrictions for reconveyance. He filed application for reconveyance and executed a sales contract, posting a deposit toward payment of the agreed reconveyance price of $27,120.

Long died in November 1956 before the transaction was consummated. His will admitted to probate in Marengo County, Ala., indicated he was survived by four sisters. The government refunded Long's deposit to executors of his estate, the contract being terminated on his death.

Crossett Man Hurt In Wreck

A 70-year-old Crossett, Ark. Negro was rushed to Conway Memorial Hospital at 9 last night, after he was injured in a two-vehicle collision near Bastrop.

A Conway ambulance brought the injuried man here. State Police from Troop F were notified of the accident, but investigation will not be completed until today.

Three Charged With Gambling

Three Negro men were arrested by Monroe police at 10 of 8 last night, and charged with gambling.

Percy Lewis, 62, of 606 Adams, posted $500 bond on the charges, while Grant Brackens, 42, of 700 Adams and Wyatt Eaton, 59 of 109 South 22 St. each posted $250 bond.

All three are scheduled to appear in city court on August 11, to answer charges. They were taken into custody at 606 Adams St.

He will be tried on the charges on August 15 in the city court.

CHECK CHARTS ON HISTORIC VOYAGE — The Navy released this picture in Washington and said it shows Cmdr. W. R. Anderson, skipper of the atomic submarine Nautilus, and Lt. S. M. Jenks, left, checking charts during the historic trans polar voyage of the sub under the North Pole. The Nautilus completed its epic 1,830 mile journey under ice four days ago and news of the dramatic feat was announced by the White House Friday. Jenks is a navigator of the sub. (U. S. Atom Sub Shows Surge Forward

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The submarine Nautilus Saturday symbolized a great surge forward by the United States in countering Russia's lead in deadly long-range missiles.

Adm. Elton W. Grenfell, Pacific submarine commander, hailed the Nautilus voyage under the pole's ice cap as "America's answer to Sputnik."

The feat means that atomic-powered subs — and this country alone has them so far as is known —could bring most of Russia within missile-firing range while operating from under the Arctic ice pack relatively safe from detection.

Russia has a wide and acknowledged lead over this country in developing the continent-spanning, 5,000-mile range intercontinental missile. It boasts of having fully operational ICBM's while this country's equivalent, the Atlas, is still in the testing stage and not expected to become operational until 1960.

Proved Capability

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev recently made much of this lead in trying to frighten the United States into pulling its troops out of Lebanon.

But the dramatic Nautilus saga proved this country's capability of taking shorter-range, 1,500 - mile missiles to Russia's back door All of the Soviet Union spreads out like a great fan below the polar region.

The United States has six nuclear submarines built 13 more under construction, and seven more authorized.

Russia remained consciously silent on the Nautilus cruise although several communist newspapers in western Europe gave it prominent display.

Polaris Fired

The Navy already has demonstrated that its Polaris missile can be fired from a submerged submarine. This means that a craft such as the Nautilus could approach the Soviet Union under the polar ice cap, emerge and fire from beneath open water, then dart back under the protective ice.

The missile it fired, simply because it would cover a shorter distance, would be much more accurate than the longer-range ICBM.

Without an atomic submarine, Russia cannot match this capability. Only an A-powered craft has the ability to remain under the polar ice for long periods and move under it from great distances.

A submarine-borne missile also has the great advantage over a land-based missile such as Russia is putting its greatest reliance on at present: The former is fired from a launching site which can quickly "run," the latter must be fired from a fixed base.

Highly Praised

This military significance of the Nautilus' voyage was one of the principal reasons the USB's accomplishment was so highly praised by President Eisenhower, members of Congress and newspapers throughout the free world.

The president, in hailing the Nautilus' feat in pioneering the "northwest passage" sought for centuries, said the voyage pointed toward a new commercial seaway for nuclear-powered submarines moving between the Eastern and Western Hemispheres.

The Nautilus Saturday was en route from Iceland to Great Britain. The White House announced that it will go to Portland, England, for a five-day visit, arriving Aug. 12.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the White House was receiving "quite a lot" of messages from persons congratulating the Nautilus personnel. He said they came from individual Americans, apparently many former Navy men, who said "well done."

Jubilation over the Nautilus had one sour note. Congressmen were quick to note that Mr. Eisenhower failed to invite Rear Adm. Hyman Rickover, controversial Navy figure known as the "father of the atomic sub," to Friday's White House celebration of the voyage.

Hagerty insisted it was not a deliberate snub.

Suggest U.S. Citizens Leave

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The State Department Saturday warned American dependents in Jordan to leave unless there are compelling reasons for their presence in this troubled country.

A U. S. Embassy spokesman said the warning was not an order but more in the nature of a suggestion.

He said no immediate events were expected which would make evacuation necessary and added the action was "a catching up with events in Lebanon and Iraq."

ACTOR MARRIED

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gene Nelson, 38, film actor and dancer, and Marilyn Morgan, 26, a secretary, were married at the home of friends in nearby Sherman Oaks.

MET WITH OPEN ARMS

2,000 Americans 'Invade' Beirut

BEIRUT (UPI) — More than 2,000 American Marines, sailors and paratroopers "invaded" Beirut Saturday on their first liberty in Lebanon — and were met with open arms at shops, cafes and bars.

Restricted to battle - ready camps outside Beitut since the first American landings July 15, the U. S. servicemen swarmed happily into the "Gold Coast" seafront of the Lebanese capital.

Word of their coming spread rapidly. Merchants dusted off their souvenirs and removed the price tags. Everything was made ready for the biggest day of business since the Lebanese revolt broke out three months ago.

The 2,000 servicemen brought into town by officers and noncoms and permitted to wander freely from noon to dusk in the "on - limits" area represented 15 percent of the total American strength of 14,300 in Lebanon.

The U. S. military command, realizing that the men could not be kept restricted indefinitely to small areas without recreation, has authorized liberty passes issued to 15 percent of the manpower strength every day.

On Best Behavior

All the men given liberty were coached to be on their best behaviour. Heavy patrols of military police made sure the men stayed out of the rebel - held areas of Beirut and out of the Red Light district.

Lebanese businessmen welcomed the Americans. But Saeb Salam, leader of the rebels in Beirut, said: "It will lead to inevitable incidents between the population and the army of occupation on its soil."

Saeb claimed that supporters of the present Lebanese government were trying to stir up trouble by firing on the Lebanese Army, and that a blaze Friday night at a Lebanese dock warehouse was the results of their activites.

American officials said they did not know how the fire started, but they suspected it might have been caused by a stray bullet from firing in the Basta Moslem quarter held by Salam's Rebels.

The fire was put out by U.S. Landing Craft.

Other Mideast News

Elsewhere in the Middle East: The Iraqi revolutionary government announced a new law giving special military courts sweeping powers to try leaders and supporters of the former Baghdad Regime. A spokesman hinted that the trials would start within two weeks.

Cairo newspapers said that when U. S. presidential envoy Robert Murphy arrived in Cairo on Wednesday for talks with President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, Nasser agreed to see him only after ascertaining that "the United States would not continue its slander campaign aaignst the U. A. R." in the United Nations.

The Rome newspaper Giornale D'Italia said Nasser was likely to visit Italy at the end of September.

Jordan officially refuted reports that it was considering joining the Baghdad Pact.

Murphy Greeted By Explosion

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy flew into Athens Saturday. A few minutes later an explosion near the airport brought police cars shrieking to the scene.

Cause of the blast was a fire in a small store. It broke out as Murphy drove from the airport.

Murphy told newsmen he would report to the Greek government on the general Middle East situation. He is on a trouble-shooting tour of the Middle East.

4 Persons Cleared In Gun Slaying

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — Four persons sought in connection with the Wednesday night shotgun slaying of Saraland Mayor O. L. Driver were cleared Saturday and officers dug into a new lead.

Mobile County Sheriff Ray Bridges said it was determined that the two couples sought in a seven-state alert were in Houston, Tex., at the time of the slaying.

He said, however, "A new lead we are investigating could develop into something concrete. It is one of very few solid angles we have had to work with and it'll be explored thoroughly."

He refused to go into details, but it was believed the lead involved an ex - convict who may have been in the area at the time Driver was gunned down by two blast of a .12 gauge shotgun in his own yard by a killer who stepped from ambush.

Two female employes of a small loan company operated by the widow of the 61-year-old "personally popular" mayor and two men they drove to Houston with were cleared of any involvement.

Bridges said he confirmed the stories of Mrs. Doris Barnett of Mobile and Marvin W. Chattom, Chickasaw, and found that they were in Houston with Mrs. Betty Richardson of Mobile and Charles L. Chattom, Marion's brother, also of Chickasaw, Wednesday night.

It was learned from Mrs. Barnett and Marion Chattom that the two couples had driven to Texas Tuesday after the women quit their jobs.

Officers sought them for questioning after it was learned they had left without giving an explanation. Bridges said he confirmed the fact they were in Texas when the slaying occurred.

Bronx Negro Is Held On Attack Charge

NE WYORK (AP) — Armar Cade, 27-year-old Bronx Negro, was held in $1,000 bail Saturday for a hearing Aug. 13 on charges of participating in an attack on a policeman who tried to arrest a group of men who insulted his wife.

Cade was arraigned before Bronx magistrate Walter J. Gladwin on a charge of felonious assault.

Patrolman Joseph Stokes, 40, also a Negro, was assaulted last night near his Bronx home when he attempted to arrest young men who insulted his wife. They fled when he fired a warning shot with his service revolver.

Stokes was treated at a hospital for cuts and bruises of the face and head. His wife was unharmed.

Detectives arrested Cade in the neighborhood a short time later. The others—also Negroes—were not found.

'SENSELESS GIVEAWAY'

Sen. Ellender To Fight Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La), veteran critic of foreign aid programs, Saturday promised an all-out fight to slash the $3,518,092,500 mutual aid appropriations.

"I pledge to you that I will once again lead the way in an attempt to further cut this senseless give-away program," the Louisiana senator said in a radio program recorded for use in his state.

Ellender took part in the Senate drive that cut President Eisenhower's original authorization requests from $3,900,000,000 to $3,600,000,000.

Senate leaders expect to act on the money bill, which provides actual funds, Tuesday or Wednesday.

Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California teamed up to persuade the Senate Appropriations Committee to restore 440 million dollars of 597's millions cut from the new foreoign aid fund by the House.

Ellender said he will try to whittle out at least 100 millions from military aid funds on the senate floor.

Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt), a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview he expects the Senate to approve the money bill about the way it came from the Appropriations Committee.

"I doubt that efforts will be made on the floor to increase it, he said, "and I'm also confident that any efforts to cut it back will be defeated."

"All around us we can see the fallacy of our dollar diplomacy," Ellender said, "whereby an overflowing helping of American dollars is supposed to buy us enough friends to hold off the Communist tide.

"It is painfully evident to all of us that our dollars have not been buying us any friends."

Convict Girl Of Manslaughter In Boy's Death

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—An Arkansas girl who shot her boy friend after he threatened to quit her was convicted of manslaughter Saturday.

Bette Hope Johnson, 19, shapely blonde from Russellville, Ark., smiled happily after hearing the verdict.

She claimed she tried to kill herself June 1 as she sat in a car in front of a Lamont drive-in restaurant with Harold Kenneth Horn, 25, with whom she had traveled west from Russellville.

She said the gun went off, killing Horn.

Judge Robert K. Lambert denied a defense request for a new trial and sentenced Miss Johnson to Corona Prison for Women. The conviction is punishable by from one to ten years.

The jury of three women and nine men deliberated almost nine hours.

Dist. Atty. Kit Nelson had asked the jury to find Miss Johnson guilty of first degree murder.

The girl smiled and waved to friends as she left the courtroom. "So long, kids," she said, "I'll see you in four to six weeks."

Building Spirals During 22 Years

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

During the last 22 and a half years, 8,004 buildings valued at $57,056,085 have been constructed in Monroe, according to a comprehensive survey completed yesterday by Mrs. S. W. McLean, who works in the office of Monroe Building Inspector, John E. Zufall.

The survey shows how many homes, housing units and apartments were constructed or repaired, the number of new buildings and building repairs, and the values of the construction and repairs from January, 1936 through June, 1958.

Building inspector during those year.. was Sam Awl, who retired in June.

The spiral in the cost of living, effect of war years on construction, and peak years are shown by the figures in the survey.

Although $57,056,085 worth of construction and $9,281,962 worth of repairs were totalled for the period, Monroe's assessed valuation for tax purposes stands at $45,613,007.00, far below the actual value.

During the 22½ years, 5,831 homes worth $32,162,235 were built, in addition to 349 multiple units including apartments and housing projects, valued at $3,200,593.

Repairs to 3,562 residences were valued at $2,536,725.

A total of 1,824 non-residential buildings, including businesses, industries, churches, restaurants, grocery stores, schools and service stations were constructed, with valuation set at $21,693,257.

Building permits were issued for 1,484 repairs to non-residential buildings, with the repairs valued at $6,745,227.

All 5,046 repairs are valued at a total of $9,281,952.

In 1936 it cost $188,943 to build 106 new homes. During the first six months of 1958, the cost of building 153 new homes stands at $1,593,238. That's only 47 more homes, but the cost is $1,404,295 more, evidence of the rise in labor and material costs.

Crucial Year

The United States entered World War II in December of 1941. During the first 11 months of that year, 139 homes, four multiple units, and 72 new buildings were started.

In 1942, only 61 homes, one multiple unit, and 33 new buildings were begun — the war cut down on manpower and construction materials. Labor forces entered the Armed Forces and winning the war became the nation's business.

Following World War II, construction increased each year... until 1951, when we realized that the "Korean incident" was actually a full-scale war....and construction slowed again.

In 1945, the last year of World War II, 143 new homes were begun. The next year saw permits issued for construction of 298 homes; 1947 — 345 homes; 1948—402 homes; 1949—430 homes; 1950—545 homes....and in 1951, construction dropped to 289 homes.

Best year for home construction was 1955, when 510 new residence permits were issued.

Good Year

Start of housing projects and apartments in 1951 made that the best year for multiple units, when 106 were started, at a cost of $287,368. However, two years later in 1953, the value of 55 multiple units begun then was set at $1,369,383.

After the slim war years when few new buildings were constructed, 1946 saw 146 new buildings, worth $300,290 and in 1947, 142 new buildings worth $1,666,017 were begun. Best year — according to value — for construction of new buildings in Monroe was 1953, when 79 new buildings worth $3,801,535 were started.

In 1950, the most homes—545 worth $3,988,500 — were started. Valuewise, 1955 was the best year for home construction, when permits were issued for 510 brick and wood residences valued at $4,476,315.

In 1936, 119 repairs to homes cost $51,372. During the first six months of this year, homeowners again put in 119 repairs ... but this time the cost was more than double — $104,319.

This is how costs have soared: In 1936, it cost $21,179 to put up four multiple housing units. So far this year, it has cost $85,354 for five multiple units. In 1936, 71 new buildings cost $49,925. This year, 44 new buildings have cost $941,049. In 1936, 49 repairs to buildings cost $55,263. This year, 26 repairs have cost $280,377.

And in 1936, the builders valued 106 new homes, four multiple units and 71 new buildings at $260,047 .....while this year, 153 new homes, five new multiple units, and 44 new buildings are valued at $2,619,641.

The survey proves it — your dollar was worth more 22 years ago.

Signs Measure Authorizing Land Title

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has signed legislation authorizing the secretary of the army to reconvey to four persons title to 540 acres of land—part of the property acquired by the government for the Demopolis lock and dam project on Tombigbee River, Ala.—for $27,120.

The conveyance, subject to certain restrictions including that of flowage rights for the government, would be to four sisters who are the heirs of Milton H. Long.

Long, former owner of the property, was notified in January, 1956, that the property was no longer required for public purposes and available under certain restrictions for reconveyance. He filed application for reconveyance and executed a sales contract, posting a deposit toward payment of the agreed reconveyance price of $27,120.

Long died in November 1956 before the transaction was consummated. His will admitted to probate in Marengo County, Ala., indicated he was survived by four sisters. The government refunded Long's deposit to executors of his estate, the contract being terminated on his death.

The new law would permit conveyance to the sisters—Nettie L. Richard and Florence L. Morris, both of Demopolis; Tessie L. Marx, New Orleans, and Helen L. Levi, Evansville, Ind.

CHECK CHARTS ON HISTORIC VOYAGE — The Navy released this picture in Washington and said it shows Cmdr. W. R. Anderson, skipper of the atomic submarine Nautilus, and Lt. S. M. Jenks, left, checking charts during the historic trans polar voyage of the sub under the North Pole. The Nautilus completed its epic 1,830 mile journey under ice four days ago and news of the dramatic feat was announced by the White House Friday. Jenks is a navigator of the sub. (U. S. Atom Sub Shows Surge Forward

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The submarine Nautilus Saturday symbolized a great surge forward by the United States in countering Russia's lead in deadly long-range missiles.

Adm. Elton W. Grenfell, Pacific submarine commander, hailed the Nautilus voyage under the pole's ice cap as "America's answer to Sputnik."

The feat means that atomic-powered subs — and this country alone has them so far as is known —could bring most of Russia within missile-firing range while operating from under the Arctic ice pack relatively safe from detection.

Russia has a wide and acknowledged lead over this country in developing the continent-spanning, 5,000-mile range intercontinental missile. It boasts of having fully operational ICBM's while this country's equivalent, the Atlas, is still in the testing stage and not expected to become operational until 1960.

Proved Capability

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev recently made much of this lead in trying to frighten the United States into pulling its troops out of Lebanon.

But the dramatic Nautilus saga proved this country's capability of taking shorter-range, 1,500 - mile missiles to Russia's back door All of the Soviet Union spreads out like a great fan below the polar region.

The United States has six nuclear submarines built 13 more under construction, and seven more authorized.

Russia remained consciously silent on the Nautilus cruise although several communist newspapers in western Europe gave it prominent display.

Polaris Fired

The Navy already has demonstrated that its Polaris missile can be fired from a submerged submarine. This means that a craft such as the Nautilus could approach the Soviet Union under the polar ice cap, emerge and fire from beneath open water, then dart back under the protective ice.

The missile it fired, simply because it would cover a shorter distance, would be much more accurate than the longer-range ICBM.

Without an atomic submarine, Russia cannot match this capability. Only an A-powered craft has the ability to remain under the polar ice for long periods and move under it from great distances.

A submarine-borne missile also has the great advantage over a land-based missile such as Russia is putting its greatest reliance on at present: The former is fired from a launching site which can quickly "run," the latter must be fired from a fixed base.

Highly Praised

This military significance of the Nautilus' voyage was one of the principal reasons the USB's accomplishment was so highly praised by President Eisenhower, members of Congress and newspapers throughout the free world.

The president, in hailing the Nautilus' feat in pioneering the "northwest passage" sought for centuries, said the voyage pointed toward a new commercial seaway for nuclear-powered submarines moving between the Eastern and Western Hemispheres.

The Nautilus Saturday was en route from Iceland to Great Britain. The White House announced that it will go to Portland, England, for a five-day visit, arriving Aug. 12.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the White House was receiving "quite a lot" of messages from persons congratulating the Nautilus personnel. He said they came from individual Americans, apparently many former Navy men, who said "well done."

Jubilation over the Nautilus had one sour note. Congressmen were quick to note that Mr. Eisenhower failed to invite Rear Adm. Hyman Rickover, controversial Navy figure known as the "father of the atomic sub," to Friday's White House celebration of the voyage.

Hagerty insisted it was not a deliberate snub.

Suggest U.S. Citizens Leave

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The State Department Saturday warned American dependents in Jordan to leave unless there are compelling reasons for their presence in this troubled country.

A U. S. Embassy spokesman said the warning was not an order but more in the nature of a suggestion.

He said no immediate events were expected which would make evacuation necessary and added the action was "a catching up with events in Lebanon and Iraq."

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gene Nelson, 38, film actor and dancer, and Marilyn Morgan, 26, a secretary, were married at the home of friends in nearby Sherman Oaks.

MET WITH OPEN ARMS

2,000 Americans 'Invade' Beirut

BEIRUT (UPI) — More than 2,000 American Marines, sailors and paratroopers "invaded" Beirut Saturday on their first liberty in Lebanon — and were met with open arms at shops, cafes and bars.

Restricted to battle - ready camps outside Beitut since the first American landings July 15, the U. S. servicemen swarmed happily into the "Gold Coast" seafront of the Lebanese capital.

Word of their coming spread rapidly. Merchants dusted off their souvenirs and removed the price tags. Everything was made ready for the biggest day of business since the Lebanese revolt broke out three months ago.

The 2,000 servicemen brought into town by officers and noncoms and permitted to wander freely from noon to dusk in the "on - limits" area represented 15 percent of the total American strength of 14,300 in Lebanon.

The U. S. military command, realizing that the men could not be kept restricted indefinitely to small areas without recreation, has authorized liberty passes issued to 15 percent of the manpower strength every day.

On Best Behavior

All the men given liberty were coached to be on their best behaviour. Heavy patrols of military police made sure the men stayed out of the rebel - held areas of Beirut and out of the Red Light district.

Lebanese businessmen welcomed the Americans. But Saeb Salam, leader of the rebels in Beirut, said: "It will lead to inevitable incidents between the population and the army of occupation on its soil."

Saeb claimed that supporters of the present Lebanese government were trying to stir up trouble by firing on the Lebanese Army, and that a blaze Friday night at a Lebanese dock warehouse was the results of their activites.

American officials said they did not know how the fire started, but they suspected it might have been caused by a stray bullet from firing in the Basta Moslem quarter held by Salam's Rebels.

The fire was put out by U.S. Landing Craft.

Other Mideast News

Elsewhere in the Middle East: The Iraqi revolutionary government announced a new law giving special military courts sweeping powers to try leaders and supporters of the former Baghdad Regime. A spokesman hinted that the trials would start within two weeks.

Cairo newspapers said that when U. S. presidential envoy Robert Murphy arrived in Cairo on Wednesday for talks with President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, Nasser agreed to see him only after ascertaining that "the United States would not continue its slander campaign aaignst the U. A. R." in the United Nations.

The Rome newspaper Giornale D'Italia said Nasser was likely to visit Italy at the end of September.

Jordan officially refuted reports that it was considering joining the Baghdad Pact.

Murphy Greeted By Explosion

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy flew into Athens Saturday. A few minutes later an explosion near the airport brought police cars shrieking to the scene.

Cause of the blast was a fire in a small store. It broke out as Murphy drove from the airport.

Murphy told newsmen he would report to the Greek government on the general Middle East situation. He is on a trouble-shooting tour of the Middle East.

4 Persons Cleared In Gun Slaying

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — Four persons sought in connection with the Wednesday night shotgun slaying of Saraland Mayor O. L. Driver were cleared Saturday and officers dug into a new lead.

Mobile County Sheriff Ray Bridges said it was determined that the two couples sought in a seven-state alert were in Houston, Tex., at the time of the slaying.

He said, however, "A new lead we are investigating could develop into something concrete. It is one of very few solid angles we have had to work with and it'll be explored thoroughly."

He refused to go into details, but it was believed the lead involved an ex - convict who may have been in the area at the time Driver was gunned down by two blast of a .12 gauge shotgun in his own yard by a killer who stepped from ambush.

Two female employes of a small loan company operated by the widow of the 61-year-old "personally popular" mayor and two men they drove to Houston with were cleared of any involvement.

Bridges said he confirmed the stories of Mrs. Doris Barnett of Mobile and Marvin W. Chattom, Chickasaw, and found that they were in Houston with Mrs. Betty Richardson of Mobile and Charles L. Chattom, Marion's brother, also of Chickasaw, Wednesday night.

It was learned from Mrs. Barnett and Marion Chattom that the two couples had driven to Texas Tuesday after the women quit their jobs.

Officers sought them for questioning after it was learned they had left without giving an explanation. Bridges said he confirmed the fact they were in Texas when the slaying occurred.

Bronx Negro Is Held On Attack Charge

NE WYORK (AP) — Armar Cade, 27-year-old Bronx Negro, was held in $1,000 bail Saturday for a hearing Aug. 13 on charges of participating in an attack on a policeman who tried to arrest a group of men who insulted his wife.

Cade was arraigned before Bronx magistrate Walter J. Gladwin on a charge of felonious assault.

Patrolman Joseph Stokes, 40, also a Negro, was assaulted last night near his Bronx home when he attempted to arrest young men who insulted his wife. They fled when he fired a warning shot with his service revolver.

Stokes was treated at a hospital for cuts and bruises of the face and head. His wife was unharmed.

Detectives arrested Cade in the neighborhood a short time later. The others—also Negroes—were not found.

Mao Knuckles Khrushchev

Hints have been circulating in the news that Russia's "strongman," Nikita Khrushchev, may have been rapped sharply on the knuckles by Red China's leader Mao Tze-Tung. Apparently Khrushchev had to bow to Mao on his cherished plans for a summit meeting.

This gives rise to the question of whether Mao or Khrushchev is the real strong man in the red empire today. Khrushchev, bellwether in an on-and-off campaign since last December for a summit conference, now appears to have wrecked any chance for an early meeting of the heads of governments and seems to have done so on orders of Mao.

If Khrushchev actually has bowed to the will of Mao, he may be a good international politician but he is not an adequate successor to the late inscrutable Joseph Stalin, who took orders from no man nor nation and who demanded that all who wished to see him should come to him. The fact that Khrushchev made a hurried trip to Peiping to see Mao and then call off the summit conference makes it appear that the Russian leader is afraid of Mao and afraid of what would happen if he were to break off relations with powerful China. Compared to the mighty Stalin, Khrushchev is taking on the appearance of a small boy or an uncouth youth.

The suddenness of Nikita's trip to Peiping and the secrecy surrounding it suggested at once that something had gone wrong. The signs are now that the Soviet chief dashed to Peiping to appease an irate Chinese chief who has been assuming an increasingly powerful role in the leadership of world communism and who may eventually snatch that leadership from Khrushchev.

Apparently Khrushchev had to bow to Mao's terms, including abandonment of his cherished idea of a summit meeting with the western leaders.

This precedent has established a virtual Red Chinese veto over Russia's major policy decisions in the international field. The conclusion drawn from this development by diplomatic sources is that Russia, as represented by Khrushchev, can no longer go on alone.

Khrushchev clearly does not have the faith that Stalin had in his own immutable power and that of Russia. He thinks he must play politics on a give and take pattern, which Stalin never did on an international basis.

We are now forced to the conclusion that Mao and China, probably more than Khrushchev and Russia, hold the decision of war and peace in their hands. After Khrushchev has bowed to Mao's will it is doubtful if he would have the guts to declare war on any major country without China's approval.

Russia helped to set up the communist regime in China and assisted in driving Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and his followers to the island of Formosa but in doing so that nation may have created a collossus or Frankenstein which it is now unable to control.

Whether these things are good or bad for the western nations is a matter of conjecture but they seem for the moment to make the danger of war less imminent. If Russia waits for China's approval there are not likely to be any hair-trigger decisions.

China's half-billion people throughout most of the history of that nation have not been warlike. An aggressive war by that nation, aside from the squabble inspired by Russia in Korea, would upset the traditions of their ancestors for many thousands of years.

As far as the cancellation of the summit meeting is concerned, the western nations had had little hope of accomplishing any real good in such a confab. Their principle purpose in agreeing to a session of this kind was to indicate their willingness to seek a solution of international problems. There is little reason to believe that anything could have been accomplished that cannot be done as well at a meeting of the United Nations general assembly. Views of the nations can be presented as effectively before the U. N. as by the heads of the nations. Because of the fact that no act on taken at the U. N. meeting will be finally acted upon without top - level approval, there is reason to think that erroneous decisions are less likely to be made in the U. N. meeting than in a summit conference.

Cotton Bill's Fate

House Speaker Sam Rayburn adopted an arrogant attitude when he said: "We have been up and down this hill as many times as I care to go this year." When he said that he intended to sound the death knell for farm legislation this year.

It is not a matter of how many times the aging Texas wants to go up and down a hill but a question of whether or not the legislation should be passed. Apparently we have arrived at the point at which cotton production will reach a dangerously low level and congress is doing nothing about it.

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss) said that if no action is taken by congress at the present session it will be necessary to call a special session, as any action next year would come too late.

At stake for the cotton farmers is the farm bill's provision to prevent a severe allotment cut in 1959. The present allotment of 17.5 million acres for the entire nation will fall to about 14 million acres if congress does not act. The bill which has failed to win house approval would set a floor of 16 million acres.

One of the best features of the bill is that it would protect farmers with less than 100 acres by providing that no cuts in allotment could be made. Under an earlier provision presented by Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) it would also create a 300,000-acre reserve to prevent any reductions of more than 20 per cent.

A recent report on the 1958 cotton crop gave an estimate of 12,400,000 acres planted in cotton this year. Even if yields should reach 400 pounds to the acre—which would be extremely good—production will be less than 10 million bales or more than a million bales less than last year's disastrous crop. Rainy weather in the cotton belt may cut yields lower than that figure.

Ordinarily, the enactment of new laws is something that should be given the gravest consideration but the proposed cotton legislation would be merely a correction of faulty laws now in effect. Present laws make the reduction of the cotton acreage mandatory. The proposed bill would simply save the cotton farmers and the nation from the ill effects of those provisions.

The present system of handling the production of cotton is squeezing cotton to death. As production goes down and prices stay up the demand grows less. This constitutes a diminishing spiral in which the farmer must ultimately be hurled out through the small end of the horn unless the downward spin is stopped.

Forty years ago the cotton production in this country had topped 16 million bales. Since then, on one occasion at least, it has been about 17 million bales. A drop to less than 10 million bales would be approaching the halfway mark on what this country used to do.

Louisiana once had a cotton crop of nearly 2,000,000 acres and now has about one-fourth that many acres, although the production has not dropped in proportion, since the yield per acre is better.

Most members of congress and most farmers agree that farmers must have some sort of government protection or assistance but aside from that their views are at wide variance.

Farmers in states in which the production is small want still smaller acreages for the nation as a whole, along with higher prices. They are not worried much about the vanishing market, as some of them would just as soon abandon the production of cotton as not and probably would have done so years ago except for the benefits they have reaped from the government in payments for idle acres.

HOLMES ALEXANDER

Dulles Upholds Freedom At Meeting With Press

WASHINGTON, D. C. —Night baseball games and afternoon press conferences have something in common. They are very hard on aging pitchers. The last time I heard the Secretary of State in action was at a 3 p.m. meeting. Mr. Dulles wasn't as sharp as usual. He does better when he meets the press, which is customary, at 10 or 11 in the morning. That's when he's fresher.

The Secretary does not use his press conferences to impart information. He uses them — or so it seems — to enunciate policy, to fly trial balloons and to deliver himself of ringing battle cries of freedom. Taking these things one at a time:

A new policy? "There are plenty of good reasons why there should be greater unity among the Arab nations," said Mr. Dulles. "The United States encourages that. We were among the early nations to recognize the United Arab Republic ... There is no opposition on the part of the United States to an increased Arab unity which expresses ... the aspirations of the Arab peoples ..."

At least one reporter left this press conference wondering how much significance to give this utterance. Did it mean that American policy was being shaped to accept Colonel Nasser and his ambitions toward Pan Arabia? Did it foretell another deal to give Nasser his Aswan Dam? Everybody knows that among the "aspirations of the Arab peoples" is the liquidation of Israel. Presumably, the Secretary did not mean to go as far as that, but perhaps he did mean that we will soon call on Israel to return to its original borders and to give up its gains of aggression.

Since Secretary Dulles is a hard man to pin down, I asked his office for documentation of his policy about the Middle East. I was referred to his address before the Council of Foreign Relations, August 26, 1955. On that occasion the Secretary said:

"The existing lines separating Israel and the Arab States were fixed by the Armistice Agreements of 1949. They were not designed to be permanent frontiers ... they reflected the status of the fighting at the moment."

Here, perhaps, is the surest key to good relations with the Arab States — get Israel to withdraw from these conquered lands. But if the Secretary was hinting at a policy, it was clearly an opportunistic one. It might calm the raging Arabs, but it would certainly enrage the quiescent Israeli.

From one seat in the bleachers, it seemed that Mr. Dulles ought to do less of this curve-balling and throw a few straight pitches for a change. A straight pitch in this case would be to say that the Arabs and Israeli will eventually have to fight the thing out. The Middle East problem will never be solved by American policy.

A trial balloon? Mr. Dulles made several references to "indirect aggression," but he ducked an opportunity to give a definition of it. This was clever of him. If the Soviet Union has been indirectly trying to revolutionize the Middle East, it is no different from what the United States has tried to do in East Europe for many years. Our responsibility for inciting the Hungarian revolution by means of Radio Free Europe has never been admitted or satisfactorily explained. I was on the Hungarian airlift and talked with many revolutionists who had been led to believe the Yanks were coming to their liberation. Both the Communist World and the Free World go in for this sort of thing. It is only a question of whose ox is gored. At one point Mr. Dulles seemed to be proposing that both sides call off their game of incitation and accept the world's map, with its spheres of influence, much as it is. An end of "aggression" would mean a freezing of the status quo which, of course, includes a great deal of injustice. But Secretary Dulles seemed to see World War III as the only alternative. "...if the practices of indirect aggression ... are allowed to persist in the world ... I think the world is indeed in grave danger of war."

Battle cries of freedom? As usual, Mr. Dulles supplied some indignant quotations, this time when he denounced "the recent outrages and demonstrations occurring in Moscow, where great mobs attacked and defaced the American Embassy." Actually, these remarks were pretty much scenes are regarded in Washington as of little importance in the cold war struggle.

At no time in this conference did Mr. Dulles rear back and throw a fast, hard pitch through the heart of the plate. He whittled at the edges; he offered some tantalizing curves; he kept everybody guessing and off- - balance It was quite an exhibition of skill by a veteran performer — but somehow the time seems to cry out for something a lot more vivid and forthright.

Reporters gave Mr. Dulles more than one chance to say whether any good could possibly come of a Summit Conference on the Middle East at this time. The Secretary never quite said yes—and he never quite said no. He never threw the straight, uncompromising pitch.

SYLVIA PORTER

Food And Shelter Costs Are Greatest

It is gross exaggeration to contend that the latest increases in steel and aluminum prices are kicking off a new spiral in our cost of living. We are in a long-term inflation cycle; the odds are heavy that our cost of living will be higher in August 1959 than in August 1958.

But the forces pushing up living costs in our land go far beyond the steel and aluminum industries —vital as these industries are. To put the new price hikes in perspective at the start:

All types of durable goods take only about 12½ cents of our total spending dollar. A steel price rise averaging $4.50 a ton will have a comparatively minor impact on products absorbing steel. Actually despite the headlines, Washington price experts say flatly, "There'll be no immediate change in the consumer price index resulting from these moves."

If durable goods prices aren't as important as most people think to overall living cost trends, what are the key factors? These:

The prices of foods — which take 28.7 cents of our dollar;

The prices of services and shelter — which absorb another giant 35.7 cents of our spending dollar.

Food prices are heading for a seasonal drop this fall, and hopefully the drop will be big enough to offset price increases in other areas. But the probability is that whatever declines in food costs are recorded as 1958 rolls on will be only seasonal.

Service costs are still heading upward, and there are no signs that the prolonged climb in service prices is ending.

What's more, as evidence becomes more and more persuasive that business is on the uptrend again there will be a deepening resistance to price cuts on goods —soft and hard.

Of course, the steel - aluminum price increases are part of the inflation picture — but they are only part. The great story lies in what has been happening to the prices of the necessities — food, services and shelter.

Year after year since World War II prices have marched upward, as you are fully aware — in recessions as well as exuberant booms.

As the 1957 - 58 recession fades into history the official consumer price index is sticking at the highest levels of all time. Even if slashes in food costs this fall are translated into a moderate decline in the overall index, authorities feel the relief will be only temporary and the index will be on the way up again in 1959.

For insurance on autos is going up . . . Hospitalization rates are climbing all over the nation now . . . Railroad fares are being hiked, so are bus fares . . . Repair bills are more costly and because we have so many additional appliances we use repair services more . . . Rents and charges for utilities are heading higher . . . Personal care in general is more expensive . . . Costs of recreation are increasing, and we're spending a larger chunk of our dollar for recreation . . . Housing costs aren't coming down, nor are real estate taxes . . . So it goes . . .

The dollar which bought 100 cents of goods in the marketplace in 1939 buys less than 48 cents of those goods today.

In the past 10 years the consumer price index has risen more than 20 per cent. The index uses the years 1947-49 as a base of 100. The index is now around 127.7.

A taxpayer with a wife and two children who earned $3,000 in 1939 has to earn almost $7,200 today "just to stay even," according to some calculations of the effect of rising prices, rising personal and corporate income taxes on the dollar. He'd need a $12,500 income to maintain the standard a $5,000 income provided in 1939, a $47,600 income to maintain the standard a $15,000 income provided in 1939.

Aren't there ways to stop the upswing?

No one has come up with any "new" answers that seem acceptable to you — and you must approve the programs if they are to work. A money squeeze that would stop inflation by creating a real slump would not be tolerated.

Answers Prison Letter
Ferriday, La.

Editor, Morning World

On the editorial sheet of your Sunday edition of yesterday there was a letter titled "Angola Conditions" which was written by Mrs. Alphonse Swimley of Alexandria Louisiana.

I am sure that all of those who have the facts relative to incidents preceding the violent demonstration of the 27 inmates, who, at the time of their destructive violence were confined in the control cells at the Penitentiary Hospital are very sympathetic with Mrs. Swimley and members of the families and relatives of all the 27. We are all sorry that innocent and well meaning people have to suffer for the misconduct of their kin.

Mrs. Swimley's letter poses only questions and the questions are so worded as to reflect upon the justness and fairness of the Prison authorities who were forced to deal with the 27 who were, at least temporarily, incorrigible.

First, I want to say that I dislike answering a letter emanating under the apparent circumstances, and, I dislike engaging in a public discussion of matters that we would all prefer did not exist.

Now, I do not have the records of the inmates nor the particular reason each was placed in control cells in the hospital. Sometimes prisoners are removed from the big house and placed there for their own protection. In this case, I am informed by Warden Walker, a behavior problem existed with each and there was the suspicion of the use of contraband . . . After the contraband traffic was severed there was a violent demonstration in protest.

The planned violence resulted in the complete wreckage of the control cells in which they were confined. Lavatories were torn from the walls; commodes were torn from the floors and all windows were broken out. All fixtures were ruined and total damages were estimated at $1500.00 to $1800.00. Walls were scarred and particles of broken fixtures were hurled into the aisles. The affair lasted for about forty-five minutes during which time arrangements were being made to subdue the 27. Gas was finally used and wisely so, for the protection of the officers and free personnel necessitated its use. When the cell doors were unlocked the 27 came out swinging and they received just what they were trying to inflict.

After they were subdued they were carried to and locked in the maximum security cells of old Camp "E". A prison compound that has not been condemned as stated in Mrs. Swimley's letter.

It would have certainly been very unwise to take them to the only other maximum security cell block, the one in the big central building which houses about 2500 prisioners.

During their first two weeks in the cells of Camp "E", these men were given daily food containing 2100 calories for each. Since then they have received two full meals each and every day.

I have been told by a high official who certainly should know that these prisoners refused to have their hair cut and that they imposed upon themselves an untidy appearance.

Now, I agree with Mrs. Swimley that these men have been kept too long in these little cells and I can assure her that if they have not already been removed they will be immediately. But it is going to be up to them to accept and respect the many privileges accorded a good prisoner at Angola. The prison authorities are very considerate and tolerant but they will not be defied.

The fact that these men have been confined for too long is the result to an extent of the recent change in Wardens. I do not blame either for both are fair and just.

If the 27 punished prisoners object to inmate guards, they can only blame themselves for imposing an additional burden on the paid guards who work long hours and six days a week.

As a member of the Legislative Committee charged with the duty of investigating and reporting on the affairs of the Louisiana State Penitentiary, I deem it my duty to refute the idea projected and most probably unintentionally so in Mrs. Swimley's letter that cruelty has been inflicted in punishing the 27 prisoners who in defiance of prison rules acted very ugly on the evening of June 4. They got off very light.

The prison authorities are to be commended for their tolerance and their firmness.

With sincere respect for Mrs Swimley and the hope for the early restoration of her son to a respected place in society, I am,

Yours very truly,
BRENHAM C. CROTHERS,
State Senator, Vice Chairman, Legislative Committee.

Editor, Morning World:

The Middle East situation is a very serious problem and should be of concern to every church member. The situation is more than a political one. Nations who believe in freedom must understand what principles sustain freedom. I would think that the interest of the United States in the Middle East is one of Christianity versus Communism.

Jesus said, "Love thy neighbor as thyself." If your neighbor's house should catch fire and attract your attention, would you not call the fire department and expect proper and prompt action? The nations in the Middle East are our neighbors. Must we sit back calmly while their houses are burning and men, women and children are being killed?

The United States, I have been led to understand, sent Marine troops to Lebanon as the result of a request from the Lebanese President Camille Chamoun. I heartily approve the action taken by the administration in regard to sending the Marines to the troubles Middle East. We must not be overcome by communism no matter what is the cost, although I do not endorse reckless spending. A sound economy must be maintained, if we are to have insurance against communism.

The instigators of communism or socialism use every conceivable method they can think of (generally by propaganda, infiltration, and weakening the economic status) to undermine a nation.

I would compare the communist agents to serpents, spiders, and possibly foxes. Foxes have been described as being sly. Serpents and spiders are sometimes deadly; communism is also like cancer. Everyone who is well informed of the Middle East crisis knows that communism is spreading like cancer in Europe and Asia.

St. Matthew 21:12 - 13 "And Jesus went into the temple of God, and cast out all them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the money - changers, and the seats of them that sold doves, and said unto them, It is written, my house shall be called the house of prayer: but ye have made it a den of thieves."

"We then, as workers together with him, beseech you also that ye receive not the grace of God in vain."

2. For he saith, I have heard thee in a time accepted, and in the day of salvation have I succoured thee: behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation.

3 — "Giving no offense in anything, that the ministry be not blamed."

II Corinthains 6:1-3.

If we are christians, then Jesus Christ lives in our hearts. If Christ lives in our hearts, then we must carry him with us wherever we go. The scripture shows that Christ used force to cleanse the temple of God of the men who were using the temple as a house of merchandise. If Christ used force, is it wrong for a free nation strong in military forces to help a foreign free nation to protect its freedom?

In re: Your editorial, July 30, 1958, "Cheniere Must Be Saved For Future Generations."

I wish to take this means of expressing my appreciation for this fine editorial.

It is my opinion that you have thoroughly covered this matter, emphasizing the importance to this area of the project, pointing out the tragic potential loss should the movement to purchase the area fail, and its important relation to the general well being of our twin communities.

I have no way of knowing the individual writer of the editorial, but nevertheless sincerely appreciate this public expression of opinion which assists the project in which we are all interested.

TRIP IS COSTLY

ELIZABETH, N.J. (UPI) — It cost Kenneth Kline approximately $33.33 an inch Thursday for an automobile trip he made.

Kline, previously convicted of drunken driving, was fined $200 for disobeying a court warning not to drive again. Police nabbed him after he had only gone six inches.

COME EARLY

SAN LEONARDO, Italy (UPI)— Wine will flow like water out of a new fountain in this hamlet in north Italy when it is inaugurated on Sunday.

But it will be only for an hour during the inauguration ceremony. After the 220 gallons of wine is used up water will flow — indefinitely.

HE WAS WRONG

LONDON (UPI) — American teacher Alva Miller is one man who never again will travel without first consulting a map.

On his way home after a year teaching school in St. Helena, Miller told reporters here why he took the job on the lonely British island in the South Atlantic:

"I thought it was in the Mediterranean."

NATURAL SETTING

Miss. Converted Into Big Museum

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The entire state of Mississippi has been converted into a gigantic historic museum with exhibits displayed in their natural settings and identified by special descriptive markers.

More than 230 exhibits are scattered throughout the state, from the Gulf Coast to Tishomingo County and from Alabama to the Mississippi River.

Although the State Historical Commission and the State Agricultural and Industrial Board agreed in 1954 upon the need for a master map of the markers, no such map is available.

Each exhibit is identified by an identical aluminum marker bearing a magnolia flower, a title and seven lines of 24 letters each describing the exhibit. The lettering is gold leaf on a green background and the markers cost $100 each.

The 1948 Legislature established the historical commission with the duties of marking Mississippi's historic sites throughout the state.

Within the next two years, the commission erected 62 markers in ceremonies that included city, county and state officials and representatives of such patriotic organizations as the United Daughters of the Confederacy, Daughters of the American Revolution, Colonial Dames and others.

The first 62 markers stretched the length of the state, running from Brice's Crossroads, site of a Confederate victory in 1864, to Biloxi, founded in 1717 as the oldest permanent white settlement in the state.

To ensure that all markers bear uniform texts, the commission gave Dr. John K. Bettersworth of Mississippi State Unviersity the job of collecting and editing material to be placed on the markers.

Some markers appear to be erected in odd places, such as along a well - traveled highway whose speed limit is 60 miles per hour. Others appear in towns, in front of buildings, near creeks, almost anywhere.

In the early days of the commission, the Legislature appropriated $9,000 and $10,000 every two years. However, this dropped off to $5,000 since 1954.

Although the historical commission has final say over what sites shall be marked, anyone may file recommendatons.

Among the more important sites marked are these:

Toccopola in Pontotoc County: Grave of Betty Allen, Chickasaw Indian wife of John L. Allen, whose successful lawsuit in 1839 led to Mississippi's enacting the first law protecting the property of spouses.

Schoolhouse between Lexington and Pickens on Highway 17: In 1849, school teacher Robert Morris began the movement that resulted in creation of the order of the Eastern Star.

Columbus: Home of Miss Matt Morton where idea of confederate Decoration Day began in 1866.

Vaughan: Site of the 1900 train wreck in which Casey Jones died.

Hattiesburg: Site of the last official bareknuckle fight in 1889 when John L. Sullivan beat Jack Kilrain for the heavyweight championship. The fight lasted 75 rounds.

Pass Christian: Mississippi's first resort town. The South's first yacht club was formed in 1849.

Port Gibson: Union Gen. U.S. Grant said the town was too beautiful to burn during the Civil War.

Liberty: Condemned milk and Dr. Tichenor's antiseptic originated here.

Mound Bayou: Largest Negro town in the nation.

Columbus: Mississippi State College for Women, founded in 1884, is the oldest state-supported woman's college in the nation.

PROUD OF POP — Michael, 13, and William, 3, are the cockiest kids in the neighborhood today. Their pop, whose picture Michael holds, is navy Cmdr. William R. Anderson, skipper of the atomic submarine Nautilus which pioneered a transpolar underseas voyage. The youngsters were mighty proud at home in Mystic, Conn. while dad was being honored by President Eisenhower at the White House. (AP Wirephoto)

TRIAL SLATED

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — The newspaper Suluh Indonesia said Saturday the trial of American pilot Allen Lawrence Pope, of Miami, Fla., who is accused of flying bombing missions for the Indonesian rebels, would begin Aug. 27.

The paper said the sessions would be held in the Jakarta Court of Justice under a Judge Sardjono, and the prosecutor would be an Indonesian government Air Force officer.

APPOINTMENT

Believe Topic For Meet Is Recognition

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—More recognition for Southern Democrats at national conventions will be the apparent topic of a get-acquainted gathering of Southern Democratic leaders Sunday.

The meeting stems from a South Carolina Democratic convention resolution last spring urging plans be made for more recognition through conferences of Southern party leaders.

Hugh Clayton of New Albany, Miss., holding invitations for the closed meeting, said eight states were sending their National Committee members or state chairmen or their representatives.

Efforts of the South to work within the national party, rather than try a third party move, were underlined by the state convention in its resolution.

The state party hewed to the national party in 1956 and 1952 after a 1948 breakaway. The 1958 convention virtually instructed a hew-to-the-national-party line in 1960.

States sending representatives to the meeting include the Carolinas, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Virginia and Louisiana.

Skipper Of Atom Submarine Gets Souvenirs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The skipper of the U.S. submarine Nautilus brought back souvenirs of the epic polar journey for the First Lady, Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, who christened the atomic vessel.

The White House disclosed Saturday that Mrs. Eisenhower got a clock from the Nautilus' control room and a map of the historic journey under the North Pole personally signed by officers and men.

The clock was inscribed: "Mrs. Mamie Doud Eisenhower, our gracious sponsor, from officers and crew of the Nautilus."

Mrs. Eisenhower, the first President's wife ever to christen a submarine, cracked a bottle of domestic champagne over the world's first atomic warship at Groton, Conn., Jan. 21, 1954.

Cmdr. W. R. Anderson, 37, the submarine's skipper, brought along several gifts when he arrived Friday for the White House ceremony with President Eisenhower, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty reported Saturday.

Hagerty said he himself, had received a brass anchor plaque inscribed: "To Jim Hagerty, the best submarine backseat driver in the world."

Ellington Holds News Conference

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Buford Ellington, Tennessee's Democratic nominee for governor, said Saturday he planned to spend the next few weeks on a vacation "and try to gain back those 21 pounds I lost during the campaign."

Ellington held a news conference Saturday, making his first official statements since the vote in Thursday's Democratic Primary.

With 2,513 of 2,586 precincts already counted, Ellington had 210,098 votes. His next closest opponents, Memphis Mayor Edmund Orgill and Madison County Circuit Court Judge Andrew Taylor, had 205,073 and 204,453 votes respectively.

The fourth candidate, State Sen. Clifford Allen, had 55,817 votes.

'Humble And Grateful'

Former Agriculture Commissioner Ellington said he was "humble and grateful" for his nomination and added, "The race is over, the real work lies ahead."

He said he would work to solve "the many issues and problems that lie ahead."

Ellington termed Orgill, Taylor and Allen "worthy opponents" and praised them "for a campaign of fairness and integrity."

"I seek and believe I will have their help in the common task that faces all of us to assure an effective, harmonious state government for the coming four years," Ellington said.

Run As Independent

He said he had "heard nothing" of Orgill or Taylor running as independent candidates in the November general election.

Orgill said Saturday in Memphis that he "definitely will not" run as an independent, refusing to alter his statement despite the urgings of two of his campaign leaders.

But Orgill's Shelby County campaign manager, George Grider, said "If widespread election fraud is found, and if no remedy in the courts is possible, Mayor Orgill may run this November."

Vote To Oppose Right To Work Bills A 'Fraud'

CHICAGO (AP)—The Fraternal Order of Eagles voted Saturday to oppose right-to-work legislation as "a fraud upon the working people."

The resolution directed Eagles officers "to assist organized labor in every reasonable way in the struggle in the states where right-of-work bills are proposed, to the end that a fraud be not perpetrated upon the people.

"The trade union movement has always been the legitimate voice of the working people.

"Any weakening of the trade union movement would affect not only organized labor, but also act adversely upon the economy of our nation and thereby depress the standard of living."

The delegates heard Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore) say jobs of older workers should be protected by legislation.

"Older workers in our nation possess priceless skills and talents," he said. "It makes no sense to lose this reservoir of national strength because of cruel or anachronistic employment policies."

Tennessee U. Sophomore Sues For $25,000

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A University of Tennessee sophomore Saturday sued the University and an insurance company for $25,000 because of an injury he suffered while performing in Carousel Theater's production of "Stalag 17."

William Van Kidwell Jr., said his hand was cut severly April 22 when he jabbed a knife into a crate, as his part required.

The crate was supposed to be an orange crate with soft wood, the circuit court suit contended, but without Kidwell's knowledge a milk bottle crate with metal braces was substituted.

Eisenhower May Speak At U.N.

Richard M. Nixon and some members of Congress have wanted the United States to take a more "constructive" approach by offering to support enlarged economic assistance programs in the area.

High officials denied there had been any administration "split" on basis principles but said there was some argument over emphasis which now has been resolved.

While a final decision on details of the American program will not be reached before Monday, the outline approved by Dulles and generally endorsed by the president goes along the following lines:

1. The United States will suggest that the Assembly set up special U.N. commissions to deal with basic aspects of the Middle East problem such as "indirct aggression," economic development and, possibly, ideas for political stability based on a guarantee of existing borders against change except by negotiation. The idea, at present, is to get the emergency assembly to create the commissions to do intensive work on the specific problems without having the Assembly itself plunge into debate on how to solve them.

Call For Neutralization

2. The American delegation also is expected to seek some form of Assembly resolution condemning indirect aggression and calling for all members of the world organization to refrain from meddling in the Middle East while U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and the special commissions try to solve the specific problems.

3. The United States also may, if all officials agree it is wise, seek a specific Assembly resolution calling for the neutralization of Lebanon and continued U.N. responsibility for that country to protect its integrity against threats from any sources.

The United States apparently has decided against seeking any specific U.N. endorsement of President Eisenhower's action in sending American troops into Lebanon at the request of President Camille Chamoun. The view in high quarters here appears to be that any U.N. recognition of the responsibility of the world organization to increase its activity in Lebanon will constitute implied recognition that the United States was right in sending in its soldiers to protect that country.

American officials still had not produced any specific solution for the problem of Britain, which seeks some form of U.N. action to enable it to evacuate its forces from Jordan. However, the President and Dulles are under the compulsion to find some formula because they have promised London that the United States will not pull out of Lebanon in such a way as to leave the British in an exposed position in Jordan.

U.S. Shapes New Middle East Policy

ing to patch up their differences appeared here to weaken further Hussein's shaky regime.

U.S. officials hope it will survive as long as the British are in Jordan. They are extremely doubtful that it can be preserved if and when the British leave.

Administration planning embraces a broader scope than Lebanon and Jordan, however. It includes these main projects:

1. The U.N. should create a Middle Eastern Commission, preferably of small countries rather than great power representatives. The commission could visit the area and come up with specific recommendations for solving basic, long-range problems.

2. A new economic plan must be provided under the U.N., with contributions from the United States, other wealthy Western countries, and the oil-producing countries of the Middle East.

3. Arms control, which has been proposed by Moscow, is still vigorously debated within the administration. Some offlicials maintain the United States should take the lead in setting up principles and machinery to regulate the flow of weapons to all the Arab states and Israel. Most officials argue that control policies would be impossible to police.

4. A U.N. police force should be set up to give protection to any threatened countries.

Monday, is a definite suspect in the arson job.

A secret witness has told authorities he saw two men running from the burning Latreille place before midnight last Sunday, and hearing anguished screams from a third man inside. Thompson and Herman Kierdorf are believed to be the two men who ran from the building. Adams has admitted there is not yet enough evidence to warrant an arson charge against the missing Herman, but he still believes Herman was in on the job.

Adams ordered that Thompson be permitted to attend the funeral of Frank Kierdorf Saturday afternoon.

Authorities, searching for a motive for the burning of the Latreile cleaning establishment, questioned other cleaning store owners. Included was Herbert Harrison, whose plant is across the street from the Latreille pickup station. Harrison, who was questioned for about three hours, has the largest cleaning business in Flint. Latreille opened his pickup store across from Harrison's main plant eight weeks ago.

Among the theories the authorities were working on was one that Kierdorf may have been hired by one or more of many competitors. Another was that Kierdor was selling "protection" against union oranization to some Flint cleaners, and that the protection included discouraging new competition.

The search for the missing uncle of Kierdorf produced no results Saturday. Police took into custody Myron Weiss, who is believed to be the last man with Herman before he disappeared.

Weiss, an ex-convict with a record dating back 20 years, is believed to have picked up Herman Kierdorf after the latter sold his black Cadillac automobile to a dealer.

Before the contracts expired, the auto companies proposed a two-year extension with no change in terms. But workers would have received cost-of-living and annual improvement factor wage boosts during the extension.

put on a permanent or at least a long-term basis.

Resolutions called for a study of the possibility of permanent or long-term agencies to conduct research in the fields of space satellites, sun, and ionosphere.

Also approved was the starting of a world magnetic study in a few years to chart the earth's magnetic changes.

The International Council already has established special committees to put research in the Antarctic and oceanography on a long-term basis.

These decisions were the biggest accomplishment of the gathering of about 400 world scientists who have been meeting here for 10 days to discuss the results of IGY.

Soviet delegates, in urging extension of IGY, said the worldwide studies are yielding manificient results. But they said some of these—especially in the ionosphere, cosmic rays, and auroras — are not far enough along to bring maximum results.

The Rebel Radio said the bulk of a 600-man Army force was surrounded in the Estrada Palma area, and most of the men had "abandoned resistance." The radio called on the remainder to "surrender as quickly as possible."

The broadcast said an Army column under a Maj. Nelson Carraso had failed in a drive to relieve the trapped units and was reforming for another try.

The radio renewed its appeal to the International Red Cross to take several hundred prisoners and wounded off the rebels' hands.

Meanwhile, informed sources said the government had drafted or was draftling new legislation to put a permanent curb on freedom of the press when the present temporary censorship period ends.

The press and radio have been under strict government censorship since last April, when the government decreed a state of national emergency and suspended civil rights.

However, the constitutional guarantees suspended at that time are scheduled to be reestablished by September at the latest, so general elections can be held in November.

The new legislation, according to informed sources, was designed more or less to force publishers and broadcasters to maintain "self-censorship" when civil rights are restored.

Views Aired In Ouachita Board Race

Five members are to be selected from 13 candidates as members of the Ouachita Parish School Board in the primary election set for Saturday, Aug. 23.

C. P. Holloway of Ward 7 and Marvin Shipp of Ward 4 are unopposed in their races.

Other candidates are Ward 5—Ed Hislop, J. G. Rickerson, W. R. Deacon, Robert Rhoane and Mrs. George Chilton.

Ward 6—E. M. Finley and Clyde Garland.

Ward 10—Robert Bentz, Carl Slakter, W. J. McDonald and A. L. Smith.

Finley, Holloway, Shipp and McDonald are incumbents, with the Ward 5 incumbent, Hugh Balfour, not bidding for re-election.

Deacon, in a statement to the Morning World yesterday, said he believes one of the big problems is that of recreation in West Monroe, and Ward 5.

Recreation

"I believe that if the schools in Ward 5 could add to their recreational facilities and equipment, and then allow the school playgrounds to be utilized by the recreation department in the summer, a great juvenile problem could be solved," Deacon said.

He mentioned the value of guidance programs, and said a stronger curriculum in all our schools is needed.

Deacon also touched on teachers salaries. "It should be possible for a merit system to be set up locally for teachers salaries," he said. "This system has shown its benefits everywhere it has been used," he added.

A delegation of 22 local Hi-Y—Tri-Hi-Y leaders from the Twin Cities Y. M. C. A. left yesterday to attend the Blue Ridge Leaders Training Congress to be held at Blue Ridge, N. C. August 10 through 16.

Bill Robinson, local Y. M. C. A. youth secretary, will serve as workshop leader for the Blue Ridge Congress.

Workshops to be held will include club helps as interpretation, inductions, rituals, service projects, program building, club relationships, membership practices, devotional programs, methods and techniques.

Forman is the first vice-president of the Congress this year. He was elected over 600 delegates from 10 southern states last summer.

The delegation left Monroe by chartered bus yesterday morning and will arrive back in Monroe Sunday evening, August 17.

The Monroe Lions Club and the Monroe Rotary Club are assisting in providing delegates with transportation to and from the conference.

The estate, where the Congress will be held, has 1600 acres of land and more than 40 buildings, including hotel and cottages with accomrnodations for 700 guests.

It is located fourteen miles east of Asheville, N. C., and was organized in 1912. It is now owned and operated by the Y. M. C. A.'s of the south.

The Congress is designed for the leaders of the clubs from senior high schools. Its main objective is to prepare the club members and advisors for leadership in local Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs in the Hi-Y movement.

Special emphasis will be placed upon the following:

Interpreting what the Hi-Y movement really is; explaining the effects of different kinds of leadership; instruction in the specific skills needed by each officer; providing officers with an opportunity to practice these skills in actual club setting; demonstration of good club meetings; discussing club standards around organization, membership, program, finance and service; experiencing effective committee action; interpreting the spirit, meaning, and urgency of a teen - age group working to create, maintain, and extend high standards of Christian character throughout the school and community; building a rich experience of Hi-Y fellowship and friendship across the southern area, and acquainting club leaders with the outreach of the Hi-Y movement in the Y. House Leaders Hold Ground On Crop Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration and Democratic House leaders refused to budge an inch today in a "war of nerves" that threatens to inflict sharp planting cutbacks on rice and cotton growers.

Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson told a news conference Friday that these growers face "disastrous" cuts in their 1959 planting allotments unless Congress passes a new farm bill to prevent it. He said the legislation was "urgent."

But an aide said today Benson would rather have no legislation than allow House passage of the bill in the only way in which Democratic leaders said they would call it up—a procedure barring amendments and requiring a two-thirds vote for passage.

GOP Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. (Mass.), who engineered the bill's defeat when it was called up under that procedure last Wednesday, said he saw no possibility whatever that the administration would yield and permit the bill to be passed that way.

On the other hand, Democratic leaders rejected Benson's plea that the measure be called up under a procedure permitting floor amendments.

Chairman Harold D. Cooley (D-N.C.) of the House Agriculture Committee told a reporter, "That means no bill."

"If we don't have farm legislation, it is entirely the fault of Mr. Benson and the administration," said Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.).

The bill would (1) prevent acreage cuts of 22 per cent for cotton and 45 per cent for rice and (2) give Benson much of the power he seeks to reduce price supports for cotton, rice and corn.

Benson wants it opened on the House floor to administration-backed amendments which would provide for the somewhat bigger reductions in price props already approved by the Senate.

Rayburn said that "Benson's forces" on Wednesday prevented a Senate - House conference committee from working out a compromise of the Senate and House bills which would include "the better parts of both."

"Under these circumstances, I think it would be futile to have further consideration of a farm bill at this session of Congress," Rayburn said.

Four Indicted For Murder In E. Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE (UPI) — The East Baton Rouge grand jury wound up a two-day session late Friday handing down four murder indictments.

Norwood C. Gregoire, 40, will stand trial for the murder of his half-brother in a local tourist court last month.

"I gave him what he had coming," Gregoire told police after Russell Cambre of Texas City was found shot in the head with a.12 gauge shotgun.

An indictment was returned against Norwood Rogers, 58-year-old Negro who admitted slashing his married girl friend's throat because she refused to continue dating him.

The grand jury also handed down true bills against Alfred Hardison, held in the fatal shooting of Jessie E. Jones, and Manny Meyers Jr., held in the slaying of Isabelle Ross.

Hint Soviets Withholding Sputnik Data

MOSCOW (UPI) — American scientists at the International Geophysical Year's special committee meeting publicly hinted for the first time Saturday that Soviet scientists were withholding information on Sputniks and cosmic rays.

They expressed their dissatisfaction during the final session of the special committee's convention, which Saturday voted unanimously to extend most IGY research and observation into 1959.

Dr. John S. Simpson of the University of Chicago said it was "indeed unfortunate" that the cosmic ray group he heads had failed to achieve agreement on the exchange of information. Much cosmic ray information is gathered by Sputniks.

Dr. Homer E. Newel of the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory branded agreements reached in the rocket and satellite committee "too general." He said they "do no guarantee automatic and adequate flow of data."

Neither mentioned the Soviets by name, but many American scientists had privately blamed the Russians for reluctance to exchange information in the IGY program.

Saturday's meeting voted to name the IGY extension "International Geophysical Cooperation 1959." The IGY is scheduled to terminate Dec. 31.

Nasser Explains Robert Murphy's 10-Hour Wait

CAIRO (UPI) — Egyptian newspapers said today that President Gamal Abdel Nasser agreed to see U.S. trouble shooter Robert Murphy "only after U.A.R. authorities ascertained that the United States would not continue its slander campaign against the U.A.R." in the United Nations.

Al Goumhouria and Akhbar Elyom gave the Egyptian version of why President Eisenhower's special envoy had to cool his heels for 10 hours before Nasser agreed to see him Wednesday.

Al Goumhouria denied the action was a snub—as it had been interpreted by diplomats here and reported in the foreign press.

But its version was substantially the same as that circulating in informed diplomatic quarters.

The newspaper said that when the United States issued a statement Tuesday night saying it would call for an emergency U.N. session to discuss Lebanon's complaint against the U.A.R., Nasser decided to cancel his scheduled meeting with Murphy "until the position could be clarified."

FROM MONROE

Paper Describes Work Of Soprano

A New York newspaper recently devoted top space on its front page to the Chautauqua debut of soprano Margaret Kalil, native of Monroe whose mother, brother and a sister still live here.

MARGARET KALIL

Miss Kalil and tenor Grant Williams presented a joint song recital in the Ampitheater in Chautauqua on the evening of July 3. They had as their piano accompanist, John Challener. Opera arias and duets, French, Italian and English songs comprised the program.

The newspaper article states that Miss Kalil was recently chosen as one of the outstanding Concert Artists Guild contestants, and is scheduled to appear under the guild's aegis in New York City in November.

This past Spring, she sang the title role in Richard Strauss' "Ariadne auf Naxos," and appeared in Ravel's "L'Enfant et

Her oratorio appearances this past Spring have included Brahms' "Requiem," Honegger's "King David," Mozart's "Re- "Gloria Mass, and Rossini's Stabat Mater."

Last year, she appeared as soloist in Philadelphia, New York, and the South and West and was soloist in a performance under Vernon DeTar of Verdi's "Requiem."

Study Background

Miss Kalil received both her bachelor's and master's degree in music and music education from Columbia University in New York.

Daughter of Mrs. Ana S. Kalil of 811 North Fourth Street, and the late Fred Kalil Sr., Miss Kalil attended public schools in Monroe, learning to play piano without the aid of an instructor at an early age. As a student in Neville High School, she was a member of the glee club, and studied voice under Mrs. Clyde Sander later while a student at Northeast State College here.

Leaving Monroe she went to New York to study at Columbia. She also studied two years in Italy and other European countries.

It has been her practice to revisit Monroe about twice yearly, and on one such visit was presented the key to the city for outstanding civic work, and one day of the year was set aside as "Margaret Kalil Day" in Monroe.

Miss Gloria Kalil, a sister, and Fred Kalil Jr., also reside here, while two other sisters, Mrs. Abe (Frances) Shashy lives in Ocala, Fla., and Mrs. George J. (Dolores) Nomey, in Jonesboro, La.

No Accomplices In Shooting

NEW ORLAANS (AP. — Police said Saturday a lie detector test has confirmed that Clarence Edward, 23-year-old Negro ex-convict, had no accomplices in the fatal hooting of department store collector Samuel J. Katz.

Capt. William J. Dowe of the homicide bureau said the test showed Edward was alone when he fired the shot that killed Katz during an attempted holdup Wednesday.

Edward first contended he was acting as a lookout for two other men but later admitted he was alone.

LEGS ON PARADE

HONG HONG (UPI) — Girls with sharely legs will parade before a panel of judges Friday night for the first time in Hong Kong's history. The contest, sponsored by a motion picture organization and an airline, is to find the "nicest" pair of legs among 24 contestants.

Final Touch Is Added To Cleanup Drive

All 36 of West Monroe's merchant - owned street trash cans will be repainted and back on the streets within about two weeks, Chairman Roy Brooks said last night.

Brooks is head of the civic improvement committee of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce. The committee just completed a 2-week clean-up campaign in the city.

"We want to thank all of those who cooperated with us in making this drive such a big success," Brooks said. "The beauty of our city has been greatly enhanced."

Painting of the trash cans was just one phase of the committee's drive. They also urged the cleaning of vacant lots and neutral grounds.

"Some owners of vacant lots are planning to have them cut next week, even though the drive is officially over," Brooks pointed out. "We are glad to see this manifestation of pride," he added.

Peace Plan Is Studied Around World

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI) Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold's broad outline for peace in the Middle East sent foreign ministries all over the world into deep study Saturday.

Washington's announcement that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles would head the U.S. delegation when the General Assembly reconvenes Wednesday and that President Eisenhower might make a brief appearance gave it extraordinary session more of a "split level" appearance than ever.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and a delegation of 30 were expected Sunday. Gromyko arrived in Copenhagen today en route to New York.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, United Arab Republic Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi and Canadian External Affairs Minister Sydney Smith were due later in the week.

Guarded Reaction

Japan was deciding whether to send Foreign Minister Aiichiro Fujyama.

Most delegations were guarded in their reaction to the suggestions put before the Assembly by Hammarskjold at the opening of its emergency session on the Middle East Friday.

The Hammarskjold plan's main points:

Called for Arab reaffirmation, in a solemn declaration, of mutual respect, non-interference and non-charter of the Arab League.

Suggested that a permanent U.N. force might be necessary to protect Lebanon's independence and hinted at neutralization of Jordan through expansion of the U.N. truce supervision's organization's activities.

Proposed "proper institutions" to oversee production and pipelining of oil in the Middle East and full an dequitable utilization of the area's vital water supplies.

Said the fate of some 900,000 Palestine Arab refugees must await settlement until the Middle East is stabilized politically and economically.

U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said Hammarskjold's plan was a "constructive approach" to the Middle East problems but there was no further U.S. comment on it pending a detailed study by the state department.

Arab quarters found Hammarskjold's speech a comprehensive effort but complained it contained no definite proposals.

BILL JACKSON

Jackson Gets Dealership For Rambler

Jackson Motors, 319 North Third street, has announced the addition of Rambler sales and service, a move heralded by agency owner Bill Jackson as "our effort to stay among the top sales leaders in the industry."

A veteran of 27 years in automobile sales and service, Jackson declared Rambler "the hottest bargain in the industry today. It offers the travelling public American big car room and comfort with European small car economy and handling ease," Jackson said.

"Evidence of Rambler popularity is reflected in the climb it has made. Rambler has moved from 12th place in sales to where it now ranks with the top seven in the nation," according to Jackson.

Jackson, among the sales leaders in the industry for years, pointed out that by accepting the Rambler dealership "we can stay among the top sales leaders."

Jackson pointed out that one of the big features of Rambler that makes it in public demand is that its manufacturers have practically eliminated squeaks and rattles by employing single unit construction in the body and frame. American Motors, manufacturer of the Rambler, pioneered single unit construction several years ago. Builders of some major heavy line, high priced cars have copied the unitized type construction.

The American Motors' Rambler is designed and engineered for economical maintenance as well as economy in operation. United Oil Company called the Rambler "an acknowledged economy leader that holds more official economy records than any U. S.-built car."

In addition to sales and service facilities for the Rambler, Jackson will continue to maintain a complete line of parts and factory trained personnel to service other cars. "We look forward to giving continued service to our old customers and invite any new customers who need first class automobile maintenance service," Jackson said.

3 Regional Campaign Meets Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three regional campaign meetings in September were announced Saturday by the Democratic National Committee.

Chairman Paul M. Butler said the meetings, to be attended by National Committee members, state chairmen an dothers, will be last minute refresher sessions in campaigning and political organization.

The first will be held in Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 10-11. Twenty-two states and the District of Columbia will be represented. The states are in the East and South, plus Ohio and Kentucky.

The second meeting will be held Sept. 13 at Omaha, Neb., at the end of the Sept. 11-12 Midwest party conference. Fifteen states participating will be those of the Midwest plus Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas.

The final meeting wilt be in Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 17-18 Representatives from 11 states of the Far West, Alaska and Hawaii will attend.

Butler said he also will invite Democratic governors, senators and representatives and all Democratic candidates for these offices.

$25,000 Robbery Is Investigated

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Authorities here are investigating the $25,000 robbery of a jewelry store early Saturday morning.

Louis H. Shapiro, manager of the Rogers Jewlery Store, said the store had been "cleaned out" and that the loss was uninsured. Shapiro said the burglars took almost all rings and watches in the store and in addition made off with $200 in cash.

Included in the more than 300 items taken was one ring valued at $2,000, Shapiro said.

Authorities said the burglars apparently entered the store by tearing the lock from the front door with a wrench.

HAIR TODAY, GONE TOMORROW

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Matthew's Hairdressers in suburban Jamaica sure wish the would-be blonde with no hair (if that's the answer) would move to another neighborhood. In the period of one year the shop has been robbed three times — with nothing taken except four blonde wigs.

JANE RUSSELL

Stage Set Here For Film Queen

Jane Russell will arrive in Monroe late Monday and become the center of a whirlwind of activities revolving around the organization of a local chapter of WAIF-ISS until her departure early Wednesday.

No formal appearances are scheduled Monday and Wednesday but Tuesday is packed. At 11 a.m. a television interview is scheduled, 11:30 a.m. a press conference will be held, 1:45 p.m. another TV interview, 3:30 p.m. will be christening of a boat in Bayou DeSiard in front of the Bayou DeSiard Country Club at the dam near the intersection of Forsythe and Loop Road, 6:25 p.m. will be a third television interview, and a 7:30 p.m. an organizational meeting of WAIF will be held at the Rendezvous.

The general public will have two opportunities to see the sultry film star — on her arrival at the Selman Field Airport at 7:58 p.m. Monday night and at the boat christening at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Miss Russell will christen "Lovely Louisiana," a boat so named depicting the beauties of nature a tourist can find in Louisiana.

Prime Purpose

But the prime purpose of Miss Russell's visit will be in aiding Bobby Pappas, chairman of WAIF, organize a chapter in Monroe, the first one in the state.

WAIF-ISS was founded by actress Jane, who has been its dedicated leader and continues to give much of her time, talents and financial aid to the program.

"WAIF-ISS started as a gnawing thought in my mind some five years ago," states Miss Russell. "It was a need — a need I fellt keenly — because my husband and I were among those many couples in America seeking children to adopt. We too had our name on local agencies' lists and we waited and hoped in vain."

The fact is there just aren't enough American orphans for the many childless couples seeking them. Two per cent of institutionalized children in our country are adoptable. Granted we have many orphanages filled with youngsters but most of them are kept there by authority of either a parent, some near relative or a guardian.

Went to England

In 1951, Miss Russell went to England for the Command Performance. While abroad, she went to Germany, France and Italy with the hope of finding an orphan there that she could take into her home. It was a well-known fact that a great number of half-GI children were being cared for in their native countries, having been abandoned by their American fathers. Jane found a little boy in Frankfurt, Germany; healthy, alone and available for adoption. Our own immigration laws and Germany's over - subscribed quota prohibited her from bringing him home at that time.

JANE RUSSELL

She returned to America determined to "do something" for the many orphans she had seen; to cut the red-tape keeping these children and America's thousands of childless homes apart.

In 1952, Jane visited Washington D.C. to do what she could to encourage the passage of legislation to permit children who were properly processed to enter the United States on a non-quota basis. This was realized with the passage of the Refugee Relief Act of 1953 which permitted 4,000 orphans into this country.

Through her tireless efforts to find the right way to help these children, Jane Russell contacted many people and finally was directed to International Social Service's New York office. This organization, with its physical setup was ideal to handle the mechanics of finding and processing orphans for American homes and were only impeded insufficient funds.

They promptly invited Jane to organize her group and work with them in this field. Thus, with the organization the following months of an Executive WAIF committee in the fall of 1954 this Los Angeles group joined ISS.

Today, with access to funds raised by WAIF, the ISS adoption program has grown from its original two per cent before WAIF to 68 per cent of their work and funds.

In the past three and one-half years, more than 6,000 orphans homes through the WAIF-ISS program.

It is the goal of the WAIF-ISS organization to establish itself nationally and to one day solve the emptiness and problems of two desperate human needs — the childless home and the homeless child.

Seek Identity Of Convict In Kidnaping

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — Authorities Saturday were seeking to identify the escaped convict who allegedly kidnapped and stabbed a wealthy New Orleans candy manufacturer releasing him only after getting $300 ransom and a promise not to notify authorities for 24 hours.

Caswell P. Ellis III, 41, in fair condition with stab wounds of the back here, told police his kidnapper was hiding in his car Wednesday night when he returned from a highway restaurant near Meridian, Miss., after buying a soft drink.

Ellis said the unidentified man bragged to be an escaped convict from Kilby Prison, Montgomery, Ala., and was armed with a pistol and knife. Ellis said he was forced to drive up a small country road.

His hands and feet were then tied and he was stabbed, Ellis said, and the kidnapper threatened to take his life, but was put off with an offer of $300. Ellis said the man then brought him here where he wired his business partner for the money.

The man threatened to kill him again after the money arrived, Ellis said, but he promised not to notify police for 24 hours.

A. F. Lee, assistant director of the Alabama prison system, said there were two escapees currently at large from Kilby prison.

One was the notorious prison breaker Ralph Cozzolino, 34, who broke out July 24th with two other prisoners who were recaptured.

William E. Cross, described by Lee as a trusty with a "perfect" record, escaped Thursday with only 10-months of a seven-year sentence to serve.

Officers said Ellis described his kidnapper as in his 20's, a long scar on his left cheek, medium build and dressed in khaki pants and olive drab jacket.

Lee described Cozzolino as rather stout with a scar on his chin. He said Cross could not have been the kidnapper since he escaped after the kidnapping occurred.

Montgomery deputy sheriff H. W. Mitchell said the alleged kidnapper might be Benton Stone, 29, who fled an Albany, Ga., work camp and eluded an Alabama dragnet that caught his three companions.

Ex-Actress Dies After Long Illness

MONTREAL, Que. (AP) — Barbara Bennett, former actress and ex-wife of singer Morton Downey, died here Saturday after a long illness.

The nature of her illness and her age were not announced.

She was a sister of actresses Constance and Joan Bennett. Their father was Richard Bennett, long a stage star.

Miss Bennett is survived by her husband writer Laurent Surprenant, with whom she had lived here for the last year.

Downey was her first husband. Their 11-year marriage ended in a 1941 divorce. She later married a film cowboy, Addison (Jack) Randall, who was killed in 1945 in a filming accident.

In October 1951 Miss Bennett lost a suit for custody of the four children, a daughter and three sons, born to her and Downey.

A native of Palisades, N. J., she attained recognition as an actress at 15 by appearing on Broadway with her father in "The Dancers."

A year later she turned ballroom dancer and toured Europe for three years with Maurice Mouvet. Then she entered films, playing with Mary Pickford and later as leading lady to western star Buck Jones.

Techsters Tour Far West In Bus

RUSTON (Special) — To combine pleasure with study, 39 Louisiana Tech students and two professors started a 6,700-mile journey into the west early Sunday morning aboard an air - conditioned chartered bus.

The Techsters will spend 23 days visiting such points as Denver, Cheyenne, Spokane, San Francisco, Hoover Dam, Grand Canyon, Carlsbad Caverns, Dallas and part of Canada.

Students making the trip will be able to receive six hours of college credit — three hours in history and three hours in geography. Instructors accompanying the students are Dr. G. W. McGinty, head of the department of social science and a professor of history, and Dr. R. O. Trout, a professor of geography and sociology. This is the eighth annual Tech study tour.

Miss Ina Smith of Minden, a retired teacher, was described as the "star pupil" aboard the bus. She is making her fourth consecutive trip with the Tech travelers.

Two of the tourists are making the itinerary for the third time, Dr. McGinty said. They are Clifie Olmstead of Monroe and Mrs. E. D. Slay of Gibsland.

Six now on their second run are Mary Alice Turbeville, Shreveport; Mrs. R. D. Harper and her daughter, Sannie, of Winnsboro; Gloria LaBorde, Alexandria; Velma Jones, Heflin, and Myrtis Saint, Hilly.

Others on the long Tech trek were listed as follows:

Frankie Norman, Minden; Sue Smith, Ruston; Barbara Flanagan, Chatham; Katherine Harlan, Maplewood; Marie Smith, Ruston; Betty Wilder, Ruston; Carolyn Reeves, Ruston; Marguerite Thrasher, Shreveport; Tina Burns, Ruston; Mrs. A. W. Wilkins, Monroe; Betty Claire Rhea, Minden; Frances Gilmore, El Dorado, Ark.

The bus driver is C. C. Arnold.

REARMAMENT PLANNED

BOSTON (UPI) — An $8,000 clean-up program was begun recently at the site of the Battle of Bunker Hill. Among other things, the project will provide a new bronze sword for the statue of Col. William Prescott. The old one had been stolen some time ago. It was Prescott who said at the Battle of Bunker Hill in 1775: "Don't fire until you see the whites of their eyes."

Two Experimental Houses Planned

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Two experimental houses scheduled to go on display next month will preview the money-saving, comfort-making new materials and construction techniques of home and tomorrow.

Builders and engineers claim the new materials and methods will reduce the initial and maintenance costs of houses, make everyday living more comfortable and lighten milady's housekeeping chores.

The two experimental houses will be built in South Bend, Ind. and Knoxville, Tenn., under the sponsorship of the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB). Co-sponsoring the Knoxville house is the Masonite Corp. of Chicago.

Souped Up Models

The houses will not be production prototypes. They will be "souped up" models incorporating a host of new features—more than are likely to be found in a conventional family home of the future.

Officials hope to have the two dwellings ready for public inspection by Sept. 6, the start of National Home Week. Site work on the South Bend house began last Monday while construction of the Knoxville house is scheduled to start next Monday.

Innovations in both houses, officials stress, will accent what home buyers can expect to find in the next few years, not what the "space house" of the 21st Century will look like.

A key feature of both dwellings will be a foam plastic core between inside and outside walls. This type of panel, known as dylite expandable polystyrene, has never been used in a residential building before officials say. The panel was developed by the Koppers Co. of Pittsburgh.

Technical experts at NAHB headquarters in Washington claim the foam plastic will give extra strength to a house while providing insulation. It also is expected to offer better protection against absorption of moisture from outside air.

Cut Construction Costs

In a medium-priced house, officials estimate, use of the foam plastic panels will cut overall construction costs up to 5 per cent. Volume production is believed possible within 12 to 15 months.

Other new aspects of the new houses include:

—A carport with side walls that will permit future inexpensive conversion into additional rooms.

—Extra - long - wearing outside paint that will require repainting less frequently.

—Decentralized heating by means of electric coils in ceilings which will warm duct-conducted air. This will permit temperature variation from room to room and will eliminate cluttering of the basement with a furnace or oil burner.

Thick Paint Wrinkles

If a paint job wrinkles, it means you have applied too thick a coat. Thin coats of paint are better, and all paint finishes should be brushed out properly.

Gay Days Of Salt Water Pool Recalled Here

Popular Center On Gusher Site

By FRED McDOWELL
Staff Writer

The lady in the high - neck, ankle length bathing suit poised daintily at the top of the "chute-the chute," slid down and splashed into the salt water swimming pool here.

Crowds of straw-hatted men, women in cloche hats and children in knee length hose and short pants thronged the pavilion and zoo bordering the pool.

It was a typical Sunday afternoon at the recreation site. Electric streetcars disgorged passengers seeking a place to cool off and relax.

The concession stand did a rousing business in cold lemonade, popcorn and peanuts.

The bathhouses, two each for men and women, were crowded with bathers. Roars from the lion cage in the nearby zoo added a tinge of excitement to the shouts and laughter of the people splashing in the water.

Before Cages

Families stood before the cages in the zoo and marveled at the "wild" beasts. An old lion stared placidly back at them and emitted a half-hearted roar now and then. Chester, Min and Andy Gump, a family of Bison named for the famous comic strip characters, roamed in their enclosure. Alligators sunned themselves in their own private pool shared only with an old logger-head turtle.

Oldtimers recall a vivid assortment of birds voiced their calls endlessly. Monkeys "of every description" screamed for peanuts and attention from the gay crowd.

The time was 1920; the place was Monroe.

The old pool was made possible through an accident. Drilling for gas in Forsythe Park about 1903, Louis Locke hit a gusher. A gusher of salt water, according to Will Atkinson, former commissioner of streets and parks for Monroe.

Finished in 1905, the pool was fed by the strong flow of high density salt water from the well through an underground waterline which ran under the site of Riverside Drive, Atkinson said.

Built Park

Elected commissioner in April, 1923, Atkinson built Forsythe Park and added an extensive street system to serve the expanding city. The park was named for former Mayor A. A. Forsythe in 1920 when the land was set aside for the park, the former commissioner said.

"That golf clubhouse still being used by the city in Forsythe Park was built with bricks taken from the old paving on DeSiard Street. Organized labor here furnished the work and building hardly cost the city a cent," Atkinson recalls. DeSiard Street, once paved with the bricks, was torn up and new paving laid while he was commissioner.

"The water in that pool was so salty, a bather could take a dip, dry off and find himself covered with salt." Jack Blanks, a life guard at the old pool recalls.

Blanks, now director of Swayze Natatorium, said there actually were two large pools, both fed by the same spring.

Pool Depth

The oldest pool, he explained, was only 1½ to 6½ feet deep. Another pool was constructed at the north end, the dividing wall knocked out in the center and the two pools were joined. The hole in the center of the wall left two concrete partitions about a third of the way across on each side.

An arch provided a walkway for strollers and permitted a flow of water from one pool to the other. Both pools had sand bottoms and concrete sides.

"We had a sliding board sloping from 65 feet in the air into the shallow pool, but we had to knock it down. Too many people picked up splinters from the wooden slide," Blanks mused.

"There was a smaller one about 35 feet high in the deep end, but that finally had to be dismantled even though the slide was metal."

The recreation site attracted people from miles around Monroe.

The combined length of the pools amounted to about 300 feet, Blanks pointed out. The width, he said, was about 150 feet.

For comparison, the Swayze Natatorium is 250 feet long and 125 feet wide. The old pool was about the length of a football field.

Cleaning Methods

How did they clean such a big pool without modern methods?

"We hooked two mules to a scoop - like slide and removed all the old sand from the bottom. The sides were concrete, but the bottom was river sand. Then we'd go over to the sand bar on the river and get clean sand for the pool," Blanks said. "This was an annual occurrence."

There was a diving platform about 13 feet long out in the middle of the shallow pool. At one end was a regular diving board and at the other a double board. Blanks explained that a diver would run off the short part of the board, drop onto the second part and spring off into the air.

This is considered too dangerous today, he added.

"You know," he said, "that park site stretched from 'J' street to Park Avenue. At one end, reaching to Park Avenue, there was the zoo. At the other end was Lake Beulah."

Beulah was a natural lake and took the overflow from the pool. It was more than six blocks long with only a narrow strip of land separating it from the Ouachita River. The whole site was across the levee on the river side.

Plans Made

Plans were once laid to sand down that narrow strip of land and make a resort area of the site. Oldtimers say an artist's drawing was made showing the area with beach umbrellas, white sands and hundreds of bathers.

But the flow of natural salt water began to diminish and nothing came of the idea.

Clorination, needed in addition to the force of the water to keep the pool clean, was accomplished painfully. Now the purifying chemical is added through a filter plant supplying water to the pool. But, in the old days, clorination was performed by dragging a 50 pound steel drum of liquid clorine around the pool.

"We had two guidelines attached to the drum and we pulled it around the pool by hand," Blanks said. Green streaks, he added, measured the rate of progress. The method was crude, but effective.

Later, he continued, a filter system was installed at the southeast corner of the old pool.

A huge skating rink pavilion, round in shape, almost as big as the present swimming pool, provided a constant source of entertainment. A fire destroyed the edifice and a smaller one was built in its place.

Both pavilions were near the southwest corner of the old pool. The new pavilion was 80 feet long and 40 feet wide. It was the site of band concerts, wrestling matches, dances, (not the same thing) and Fourth-of-July orations which lasted for hours.

Casey might have danced with the strawberry blonde in such a pavilion.

Tin Lizzies'

A road leading from the slight hill where the levee is now curved between the zoo and the pool and wound around behind the bathhouses to the parking lot. Traffic wasn't as bad then as it is now, but the lot was often full of "tin lizzies."

When night came, the festivities did not end. The pool was lighted by gas light torches placed on high poles all around it. Even though the age of the electric light bulb had already arrived, the gas lights were more romantic.

The gay crowds surged back and forth between the lake and the concession stand . . . to the pavilion and the zoo . . . the parking lot for a nip at a jug of "shine."

Striped blazers and straw hats, knee length chemises, lip rouge and forbidden cigarettes — an age of freedom and restraint, wisdom and giggles. It was the prohibition paradox.

But Progress, like Time, marches steadily, or unsteadily, onward. The powerful spring began to fail and the flow of salt water began to diminish. The force of the water was no loner able to clean the pool.

The water began to stagnate despite clorination. Aside from the stagnation of the water, however, two floods had shown the city council the wisdom of moving the recreation area.

The high water of 1927 and 1932 had completely covered the pool. The zoo was moved to its present site in 1932, according to Atkinson, and named for Mayor Arnold Bernstein.

A levee was being constructed to protect the newly settled area north of Louisville Avenue about then and the dirt wall was built right through the middle of the pool.

In 1936, Swayze Natatorium was begun. Before it was finished, Commissioner of Streets and Parks R. D. Swayze was killed in a house fire when he entered the blazing building to rescue his grandchild. Swayze died trying to find the youngster who had already been led to safety.

So the new pool, finished in 1938, was named for the heroic commissioner.

When the water is low in the Ouachita River you can still see a few bleak outlines of the old pool. A dreary reminder of a gay period.

SALT WATER POOL—The old Monroe salt water swimming pool attracted gay throngs to the city. Bright lights on poles are gaslights in upper right corner. The strip of lights between the two poles is an electric light bulb sign reading "The Water is Free." This picture was taken about 1927.

FORSYTHE PARK — This pasture, pictured in 1920, become Forsythe Park, named for former Monroe Mayor A. A. Forsythe. Pictures are from the collection of Will Atkinson.

GROUP AT SECOND CAMP MEETING in August 1900. The Rev. W. M. D. Gaar, center, with beard and holding child in arms, was the organizer.

NEAR DODSON

Hudson Holiness Camp Is Conducting 59th Session

By MRS. J. M. GAAR
(Dodson Correspondent)

DODSON (Special) — In the hot, dusty summer of 1899, a handsome, bearded young man laid the groundwork for an institution, the annual session of the Hudson Holiness Camp meeting.

In July of that long ago summer, The Rev. W. M. D. Gaar called together a group of religious workers underneath a huge hickory tree. He outlined to them his plans to build a tabernacle and camp site for a revival meeting.

The plan met with the wholehearted approval of the men, who quickly followed talk with action.

On a wooded 40-acre plot 100 yards southeast of the hickory tree, the men went to work to erect a tabernacle for the Lord.

The Rev. Gaar and J. B. (Brack) Payne donated the land, and sawed all the lumber used in the construction of the House of the Lord. Other laymen donated labor and the only cost was for nails. From July to October they labored.

The huge church was erected on top of a hill, commanding a view of the countryside.

With the work done, a revival was called. It was held in October with the Rev. R. M. Guy of Mississippi serving as an evangelist and J. L. Payne directing the song services.

In the chilly, smoke - hazed days, people came on horseback, in wagons and buggies and on foot to hear the Rev. Guy deliver inspiring messages nightly. Many came from such a distance they did not return home at night but camped on the site, some remaining for the two weeks, others just camping out for several nights. Some brought tents, others slept in their wagons.

This led to the leaders constructing cabins in the following years.

As the preacher preached his long sermons, mothers bedded down their children on quilt pallets on the sawdust covered floor.

Several services were held each day and "grove prayer meetings" were held in the morning and afternoon.

Many years have passed since the bearded minister gathered his flock together and erected an institution and 1,500 to 2,000 have attended yearly. The revival still continues. It is being conducted now with the Rev. John Abernathy of Houston, Tex., evangelist and J. R. Hall of Natchitoches as song director. Miss Pat Perryman of Shreveport is the pianist.

The first president of the organization was Dr. D. H. Caldwell with the Rev. J. E. Gaar serving as secretary. Charter members were the leader, the Rev. W. M. D. Gaar, W. R. Gaar, W. R. Stewart, Dan Waters, S. J. Dickerson, J. W. Gaar, J. A. Gaar, J. B. Payne, J. L. Payne, Joel T. Payne and W. T. Walker.

Present officers are I. B. Payne, president, and Morris Simmons of Ruston, secretary.

The Hudson Holiness Camp meeting is an interdenominational organization and all are welcome who wish to attend.

Find Fountain Of Youth In Ice Cream Cone

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Young kids" over 60 are turning back the hands of time with ice cream cones.

So say some experts who have analyzed the buying habits of customers in a chain of 3,500 ice cream stores across the nation. Statistically, they found that the lion's share of cones are being ordered by folks whose hair has turned to silver.

When the experts asked the grandmas and grandpas "why so many cones," the explanation, surprisingly, was not "grandchildren."

The answers indicate that the senior elders see a "fountain of youth" image in ice cream cones.

For there's how some of the older folks explained their crush on cones:

"An ice cream cone always stood for fun when I was a little girl, and it still does."

"I still like nibbling the cone around the edges and biting the end off, just like when I was a kid."

Integration Progresses But Resistance Is Strong

(This is a dispatch by a veteran Southern journalist assessing the progress — or lack of it — of racial integration in the South's public schools since the U. S. Supreme Court ruled four years ago that all schools be opened to children of all races.)

By AL KUETTNER
United Press International

ATLANTA—(UPI)—The school buildings are empty for the summer. The children are at the beach or down at the old swimming hole. It's a good time to take a calm look at our biggest school problem, racial integration.

What's the situation? What's ahead? Have we found any answers in the four years since the Supreme Court ruled that children no longer could be kept out of a particular school because of race?

The situation is this:

In a nation that had 17 states practicing classroom segregation four years ago, all but seven have made some move toward compliance with the integration mandate. At the close of school in June there were 74 school districts in the South where integration was the practice. But this included none in Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina or Virginia.

In the so - called border states, the policy of integration has been developed without much pain. It has come with more difficulty in Arkansas, North Carolina and Tennessee.

At the moment, Virginia is the state to watch, with some side glances at Arkansas and Florida.

The situation in Virginia is this: During the past year, federal courts have ordered five localities — Arlington, Charlottesville, Newport News, Norfolk and Prince Edward County to integrate their schools. Fresh legal stumbling blocks probably will postpone the issue in two of the spots, but Arlington, Charlottesville and Norfolk apparently are headed for the showdown.

Under Virginia's massive resistance laws — the plan devised by Gov. Lindsay Almond to keep the schools segregated at all costs — public schools will be closed in any area where integration is imminent.

Despite standby plans for operation of the South's first private school system, Virginians seem to be coming around in growing numbers to the realization that this would lead to one giant headache. There is now serious talk of a special session of the legislature to reconsider Almond's program.

Officials admit there aren't enough private schools in the state to care for a fraction of the pupils. Several church groups have come out strongly against use of church property for classrooms. An attempt to try out a "model" private school in Arlington is snarled in local zoning and health regulations.

"The only aid and comfort I can give," Almond said recently, "is to call on the people of Virginia to stand with us and the general assembly to resist any mixing of the races in the public schools."

Here Almond stands. He plans to go right ahead with his private school plan, unless the state assembly changes it. Even the governor acknowledges he has no certain knowledge of how it would work. Still to be decided are the mechanics of disbursing millions of dollars to parents in the form of "tuition grants" to pay for private education — if and when the private schools can be found.

Almond still says, however, that the crash program should begin—and not when Negroes appear at a white school but as soon as they are assigned to a white school.

The governor believes this precaution would "avert and avoid fanfare" and forestall the influx of "outsiders" — the element that helped fan the flames of agitation in Little Rock and in Tennessee.

But there is mounting sentiment at the top level in Virginia to find an answer to the problem that will not involve closing the public schools.

"Somehow and some way we are going to educate adequately our youth," is the way Lt. Gov. A. E. S. Stephens puts it. Attorney General Albertis S. Harrison feels that the "cause of public education will suffer if and when it becomes necessary to embark on a policy of private or partly private education."

Colgate W. Darden, a former governor who is now president of the University of Virginia, puts it even more strongly. "Public education is the greatest development of our times and to destroy it would be a tragedy," he says.

As for Florida, the first "crack in the dike" may come this autumn. The courts have ruled, and the university has agreed, that qualified Negroes will be admitted for the first time to the University of Florida graduate school. The state government apparently will not intervene. There is one applicant so far, but he probably will be rejected on strictly academic grounds. Prospects were for two others to register before the deadline.

It's not clear at this point what may occur in the Little Rock controversy. The latest decision on the explosive situation there is from U. S. District Judge Harry J. Lemley who granted a suspension of integration at Little Rock's Central High School until January 1961. The NAACP has asked that the suspension order be held up pending an appeal and wants quick action so that a final decision will be handed down before September.

Racial integration of the South's public schools is spreading. It's slow and it's not popular, but it's spreading.

To be sure, there has been absolutely no break in the color line in some of our Southern states. These include Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, Mississippi, and, for the present, Virginia.

These states have adopted in the past four years a labyrinth of laws and technicalities to ensnare those who tamper with segregation policies. When one law is cut down, two more seem to take its place.

On the other hand, some noteworthy cracks have shown in the dikes of the solid South since the Supreme Court's desegregation decision of May 1954.

Take Nashville, Tenn. Last year, the first grades were integrated. After a rowdy start, things settled down to normal. This September the grade - a - year integration plan approved by the federal courts moves to the second grade and officials estimate 230 Negro children will be eligible to attend integrated classes.

And there's Clinton, Tenn., where two autumns ago Gov. Frank Clement called out the National Guard to quell a riot over the planned integration of the local high school. No trouble there this past year although seven Negroes attended all sessions. The same number will be back in September.

In North Carolina six Negroes were admitted to white schools in Greensboro, four in Charlotte and one in Winston-Salem. There was unpleasantness, but the token integration went with general smoothness. To date 79 Negroes have applied for transfer to white schools this fall. None accepted as yet.

In Virginia, the state's "massive resistance" program is still in force and plans are going ahead under direction of Gov. Lindsay Almond to close the first school threatened with integration. But there is mounting pressure in Virginia for a special legislative session to consider undoing the governor's program and substituting a local option plan that would permit individual communities to make their own decisions on integration.

Florida has a different but highly significant situation. Until now the southernmost state has been staunchly segregated. But the courts have ruled, and the University of Florida has agreed, that qualified Negroes will be admitted for the first time to the university graduate school this fall.

The attitude on the Florida campus as a result of the new open door policy brings into play an interesting situation. Here is a university that draws most of its student body from the home state and from neighboring Southern states. Old South tradition is ivy-and-drawl-deep. Yet, there seems to be complete calm and cooperative acceptance of the probability that Negroes soon will be on the campus.

A firm hand on the wheel seems to be at least part of the reason.

"I am convinced that, regardless of personal opinions or emotions, it is the desire of students and faculty that, in carrying out the order of the court, it can be done with calmness and good taste," says Florida President J. Wayne Reitz.

His student leaders echo the sentiments and seem pretty determined there will be no incident on the Gainesville campus such as hit the University of Alabama a few years ago. When Autherine Lucy, a Negro, attempted to enroll at Alabama following a similar court order, riots ensued.

"I cannot believe there will be any violent resistance from the university community," commented Don Bolling, a law school student from Jacksonville. "Violence is the very antithesis of education."

"There are a lot of students here not in favor of integration," student body president Tom Biggs, of Georgetown, Fla., acknowledged. "However, their feeling and attachment to the university will prevent them from actively participating in anything that might harm the school."

What makes it possible for integration to take place peacefully in one spot and not in another? It used to be felt that the main factor was the proportion of Negroes to whites in a state or a school district. That's still a big item, but it doesn't seem to be the real answer.

Looking back over the last four painful years of implementing federal court decisions on this touchy subject — or resisting them, as the case may be — it worked smoothest in areas where two conditions have been met:

First, where agitation from "outsiders" has been cut to a minimum or eliminated; and, second, where local leaders really want integration to work.

Bartender On Mars Express Have Big Job

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—The bartender on the Mars Express will have his hands full. But he will have one advantage: his dry martinis will really be dry.

If he's not careful, they'll be so dry the gin will be floating on one side of the lounge and the vermouth on the other.

The root of the problem is weightlessness in space. If no satisfactory answer to this phenomenon is found before man begins traveling from one planet to another, the bartender's union will probably be lobbying for prohibition.

For instance, what will the barkeep do about his ice cubes? They won't stay in the conventional bucket if they have no weight. He'll have to keep them on a leash to prevent them from wandering across the bar and mixing with the customers.

And how do you pour gin out of a bottle if the liquid would just as soon go up as down?

You could work the gin to the neck of the bottle and then, with a professional wrist motion, pull the bottle away from the gin, leaving just enough for one martini.

Clumsiness, of course, would not be fatal. The gin would just hover there, and a real particular customer could whip out a ruler and insist that the bartender lop off any excess and herd it back into the bottle.

Next comes the vermouth. The problem is similar, but the solution could provide a bartender with a grand opportunity for demonstration of skill.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The summer heat may leave you little thought about the nearness of football, but just the same such coaches as Bill Ruple, Bob Ellen, and Cecil Pirkey and their staffs and all those young athletes who expect to play football for Neville, Ouachita or West Monroe High this fall have the sport very strongly occupying their attentions. In fact, they'll all be ready to plunge into the pre-season practice grind before another week is gone.

West Monroe, junior member of the Twin Cities high school circuit, weans away from Monroe stadiums this fall when the new Rebel stadium in West Monroe is opened for games. Ouachita, never with a stadium actually its own, also is getting a new field. The Lions formerly used old Forsythe Park, the city stadium used until the early '30's when the local college field became "home base" for the Lions, and before Neville got its own stadium in 1940 and three schools were calling Brown Field their home stadium, Ouachita even used the old Casino Park for a game or two when the schedule became crowded.

While West Monroe and Ouachita are looking forward to new athletic plants, Coach Ruple at Neville is trying to find replacements for all but three regulars from the 1957 team that won seven and lost three and will open with a half new coaching staff. Except for tackle Ross Nolan, halfback Gene Howard, and quarterback Joe Cage, Ruple will need eight replacements. Promotion of assistant coach Gus Petterson to a junior high principalship, and resignation of Jim Coats to join the Northeast State coaching staff, left Ruple with only freshman coach Charlie Brown. Joining the varsity staff is Brown, while Danny Hoak, a Northeast product, has been named to replace Brown as freshman coach, and "Chick" Childress, former Ruston High and Northeast State star, has been a late addition to the varsity staff.

Ouachita and West Monroe have lesser coaching staff adjustments. Jim Gray has left as an aide to Coach Ellen at Ouachita to accept a position selling graduation supplies, working out of Longview, Tex. And J. R. Akins has joined the Ouachita Junior High staff. Reports have it that Jackie Martin, former Haynesville High and Louisiana Tech athlete, will join Tommy Wilson and Pat Patterson on Ellen's staff. West Monroe some time ago had announced the addition of Lloyd Williams, Greenville, Miss., and former Northeast grid guard, to Coach Pirkey's command.

The Neville Tigers, who have been used to camping trips for the past few years, will work on their home field in training this season. The Tigers get their physical exams, have their pictures taken for the football programs Friday, Monday week they'll start two-a-day workouts at 9 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Ouachita is scheduled to issue equipment Friday and depart next Sunday for Camp Ki-Ro-Li to get in their training grind.

West Monroe's gridders return to Camp Singing Waters, near Hammond for their training encampment that will include "visitors' day" on Sunday, Aug. 24, practice games with Baker, Istrouma, and Bogalusa, before returning home Thursday, August 28, the night before the West Monroe Jamboree that will include Ouachita, Crowville, Columbia, and Bernice for the season opening grid event on August 29—less than three weeks away.

The Ruston Contractors take a 22-1 season record into the Louisiana state championship finals of American Legion Junior baseball tomorrow evening against New Orleans at Municipal Park in the Crescent City.

Coach Clyde Berry has developed a mighty good team that's actually an all-Jackson-Lincoln parish outfit drawing its athletes from Jonesboro, Hodge, Quitman, Bernice, and Simsboro in addition to Ruston. Sponsored by the T. L. James Construction Company, this Ruston club bids fair to be a tough or tougher in another year regardless of whether or not the boys pass the New Orleans test this year. Understand the Contractors lose only three or four members from the squad of this year.

New Orleans will be in Ruston for the second game of the series Wednesday. If a third game comes up it will also be played in Ruston.

The whole Fifth District is behind its Ruston team of Charles Fuller, Stewart Toms, John Porter, Troy Bryant, T. L. Brooks, Donnie Brunson, Bo Dick Smith, John Bailey, Ronnie Marrus, Roy Young, and others who make up Coach Berry's squad.

DODGERS' BIG EIGHT GRAB — Tommy Wells (center), six-foot-one 19-year-old hurler with the Bastrop Barons of the Big Eight League has signed a pro baseball contract with the Los Angeles Dodgers and will be assigned to St. Paul of the American Association, it was announced here yesterday by Bob Carter, left, ex-Dodger property. Carter of Monroe and Tony Johns, right, Baton Rouge, officiated in behalf of the Dodgers at midwest scout of the Dodgers earlier had looked Wells over. The 185-pound youngster is from Murray, Ky., and was coached the past year by Johnny Regan, former Northeast coach now at Murray State. Wells has won five and lost three for Bastrop.

The time trials will start at 1 o'clock this afternoon to determine the lineup for events to follow. Whitlock set the track record of 27.9 for time trials last week over the half mile track leaving a good mark for future qualifiers to shoot at.

The racing events are scheduled for a 2 o'clock start.

PLAY TOMORROW

Baptist Rivals In Meet Finals

First Baptist Church of Monroe deadlocked the Twin City Softball Tournament by edging past First Baptist Church of West Monroe 1 to 0 in a game going eight innings before being decided.

David McKenzie, West Monroe, and Danny Sullivan, Monroe, locked up in a pitchers' duel with both pitchers giving up a few base hits but with men on base they both tightened down. Sullivan gave up seven hits while Monroe was reaching McKenzie for eight safe blows.

The deciding blow came in the bottom of the eighth inning when George Bryan came through with his third safe blow, a double to right centerfield with no men out. Guy Gannaway then struck out and, with Billy Sanford at bat, two straight pitches by McKenzie got by his catcher, Tuffy Antley, and Bryan scored on the second one to win the ball game.

Bryant was the leading hitter for Monroe Baptist, getting 3-for-4 and Ralph McNabb got 2-for-3 to help support Sullivan. Bill Hunt and Tommy Wren of West Monroe Baptist each hit safely two times for three trips to the plate.

West Monroe Baptist moved to the finals with wins over Italian Village and defeated Monroe Baptist 9 to 7 in 13 innings Friday night with L. V. Norris receiving credit for the win over Danny Sullivan.

Monroe Baptist moved to the finals with wins over Trinity Baptist, Italian Village and then lost to West Monroe, defeated Trinity Baptist yesterday afternoon 9 to 4 with Red Campbell receiving credit for the win over Jack Dalby, to earn another shot at West Monroe Baptist.

West Monroe Baptist and Monroe Baptist will meet again Monday night at 7:30 at Legion Stadium with the winner receiving the right to represent the second district in the state tournament starting at Bossier City next Friday and running through Sunday. The Monroe team will play Bossier City at 5 p.m. Friday to open the tournament.

David McKenzie or L. V. Norris will probably pitch for West Monroe and Monroe Baptist will use either Danny Sullivan or Red Campbell.

Phillies Again Spike Braves By 5-4 Count

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies, sparked by pinch hitter Wally Post's home run, rallied for three runs in the ninth inning to defeat Milwaukee 5-4 before 24,943 in Connie Mack Stadium Saturday night. It was the second straight game the Phils won in the ninth against the league-leaders.

Dave Philley smashed a line drive hit with the bases loaded to score speedy Richie Ashburn with the winning run after two men were out.

College Coast League Folds

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Pacific Coast Conference was put quietly and quickly to death Saturday.

Faculty representatives of the nine member schools voted unanimously to dissolve the conference effective June 30, 1959, arranging to distribute $175,000 expected to be on hand in the treasury at that time.

Still to be decided is the question of the Rose Bowl contract with the Big Ten and the Tournament of Roses Assn.

Chancellor Glenn Seaborg of the University of California, who acted as conference spokesman with the press, said there was no talk of reorganization this morning. He said the Rose Bowl contract definitely is to be discussed, but he declined further comments on possibilities of a new league.

The faculty representatives, accompanied by the schools' athletic directors, wasted no time. Stanford representative Rixford Snyder introduced the dissolution motion 25 minutes after the morning session started. It was seconded by Emmett Moore of Washington State College and passed unanimously "with no discussion," Seaborg said.

The resolution to distribute the assets—according to the existing conference formula of five per cent to Idaho and 11.87 per cent to each of the other eight conference members—was introduced by the University of Washington and seconded by Oregon State. It was passed, 8-1, with only Idaho voting no.

The conference treasury has been increased in recent years by funds withheld from Rose Bowl receipts as penalties assessed against three California schools and Washington.

The 43-year-old conference began crumbling in 1956 when fines were imposed on Washington, California, Southern Cal and UCLA because of illegal aid to athletes.

FINAL ROUND TODAY

Middlecoff Forges Third Round Lead In Milwaukee Tournament Of 3 Strokes

By CHUCK CAPALDO

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Crafty Cary Middlecoff of Hollywood, Fla., burst into the 54-hole lead of the $35,000 Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament Saturday with a 13-under par 197, thanks to a course record 29 on the back nine.

The third leading money-winner in golf history with $235,711 in 11 years as a pro made sure he would tee off Sunday on the final round with a comfortable lead of three strokes.

Middlecoff, 37-year-old former dentist from Memphis, Tenn., who has not won a major tourney since 1956 when he bagged the U.S. Open carded four birdies and an eagle on the final nine at the par 35-35—70 Tripoli Golf Club. He canned a 40-foot putt for the eagle three on the 475-yard 11th hole.

Three strokes behind Middlecoff heading into the final round at the sun-drenched, breeze-swept 6,355-yard Tripoli layout were Bill Casper Jr., of Apple Valley, Calif., and Bob Goalby of Belleville, Ill. Both shot 66s for 54-hole totals of 200.

Sharing the 201 bracket were Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., and Paul Harney of Worcester, Mass., the 29-year-old pro who was tied with Middlecoff at the end of 36 holes with 131. Conrad took a 66 while Harney, who equalled the course and tournament record with a 63 in the opening round, needed an even par 70.

All alone at 202—eight strokes under par—was Bob Rosburg of Palo Alto, Calif., who also fired a 66.

Middlecoff, whose 29 was the third of the current pro tour, took a 2-over 37 going out. But coming in was a different story.

Middlecoff won the first Milwaukee open in 1955 at Bluemond with a 15-under-par 265.

The big, good-natured Casper, second leading money-winner of the year with $32,123, came up with five birdies to scramble from the pack and stamp himself as a prime contender for the $5,300 first prize. His longest birdie putt was a 30-footer on the 10th. He had a 32-34.

Goalby, 27, also carded five birdies as he made a bid for his first title since the Greensboro Open this spring. Goalby finished with a 34-32.

The best round of the day was a 30-34—64 by Milwaukean Manuel De La Torre who wound up well back with a 207. De La Torre's round included nine birdies. He required only 21 putts, including a record of seven on the front nine.

De La Torre came within a hair of setting a new single round course and tournament record. Jackie Burke Jr., Ed Furgol, Harney and Jim Turnesa share the record with 63.

SOME REBUILDING

Coach Rowan Calls Indians Gridders For Work Sept. 1

The Northeast Louisiana State College Indians will report for practice on September 1 for the coming football season. They'll have just 12 days to get ready for the season opener with Southern State at Magnolia, Ark., on September 13.

The Indians will have 17 returning lettermen and 27 squadmen, junior college transfers and freshmen, announced Jack Rowan, head football coach and athletic director.

This will be a building year for Northeast, filling starting berths vacated by graduation and losses due to scholastic reasons.

Missing from the roster this year because of graduation will be such stalwarts as Nathan "Zeke" Zametto, last season's quarterback and co-captain, who was named outstanding back on the Indian squad; Gerald Elkins, right guard and voted All-Gulf States Conference and most valuable player on the team; Harvey Ferguson, left tackle and co-captain; Lloyd Williams, left guard; Tony Hartsell, right halfback.

Other losses include right tackle, Jim Britt, and Frank Brocato, guard, both because of scholastic reasons. Brocato was voted outstanding freshman and was expected to fill one of the guard slots this fall.

On the brighter side of the Indian outlook is the return of ends, Jim Knox and Joe Driskill, who hold two of the tri-captain titles. Knox, left end, made honorable mention and outstanding blocker on the All-GSC '57 team, and Driskill, right end, All-GSC. Center Bill McGraw and fullback Robert McGough also will be counted on to give additional power to the Redskins.

The roster includes squadmen Joe Brent, guard; "Chuck" Gordy, halfback; Dale Hoover, end; Robert Randel, quarterback; Tommy Reeves, quarterback; Norman Pearah, tackle; Gulley Taylor, center; Bob Tatum, center; John Wood, guard; Travis Richards, halfback; Bob McGough, halfback; Levie Redden, quarterback.

Junior college transfers who will report for work September 1 will be Jim Broom, end, Walley Cox, guard, both from Kilgore Junior College; Roger Coats, fullback; Stewart Stover, fullback; Jackie Wilson, tackle, all from Murray A & M; Dennis Brown, end, Eastern A & M.

High school graduates entering the Indian camp include John O'Conner, quarterback from Rayville, who was All-State Louisiana; Eddie Loveless, quarterback from Atlanta, Ga.; Eddie McGowen, quarterback from Ouachita Parish High of Monroe, who was named outstanding back in the Twin Cities; and Willie Ragan, halfback from Neville High of Monroe.

Little Boys Aim For Dixie Series

The Southside All - Stars of West Monroe today are pointing for the Little Boys Baseball League's Dixie Series at Columbus, Miss., after their sweep to the Louisiana state championship at Ferriday Friday night with the whitewashing of Alexandria in the deciding game, 22-3.

Earl Duncan, president of the West Monroe Little Boys League, and league official greeted managers June Thatcher and "Chubby" Johnston with their state champs on their arrival home yesterday, led a parade through downtown West Monroe to the city hall where the huge state championship trophy was presented to Mayor J. West Monroe hammered three Alexandria pitchers, Coons, Boudreaux, and Daige, for 23 hits with everybody on the ball club getting into the hitting act.

Willie Rogers was the leading batter with four - for - five, including a double, but Charles Van Zile and Seehler came in for some lusty blows.

Van Zile, hitting 2-for-5 in the game, made both his hits home runs to give him six homers for the tournament. Seehler, also hitting 2-for-5, made one of his blows a slam homer.

Johnny Williams poled 3-for-4, including a double, and Wayne Peddy hit 3-dor-5.

Alexandria's leading batter was Rosenthal, hitting 2-for-4, including a double.

Bucs On 10-Hit Spree, Tag Reds

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, again bidding for a spot in the National League pennant race picture, whipped the Cincinnati Redlegs 5 - 2 Saturday on fine pitching by Curt Raydon and a 10-hit attack that included rookie Harry Bright's first major league home run.

Raydon chalked up his sixth victor yagainst three defeats. He allowed only four hits until the ninth when the Redlegs put together a single and a double. But relief ace Roy Face checked the threat with only one run scoring.

The Redlegs achieved the distinction of ending the string of zeros served up by Pittsburgh hurlers in friendly Forbes Field at 45 2-3 innings.

Bright's homer came in the second with Bob Skinner on first after a single, and gave the Pirates a lead Cincinnati never overcame.

MANTLE NOT ENOUGH

Bosox Use Power Hitting To Measure Yankees, 9-6

NEW YORK (AP)—The Boston Red Sox showed 67,916 Old-Timers' Day fans some modern power Saturday, packing three doubles and two homers into a 10-hit attack that whipped the New York Yankees 9-6.

Mickey Mantle slugged his 31st home run and drove in four runs for the Yankees.

Mantle's one-man show wasn't enough, however, as Gene Stephens and Frank Malzone hit pinch homers, Jimmy Piersall drove in two runs and Jackie Jensen batted in his 97th run before the largest crowd at the Yankee Stadium in seven years.

The huge throng turned out to see the annual Old-Timers' Day festivities, this year featuring an exhibition game between the Red Sox' pennant winning team of 1946 and the Yanks' 1947 world champions.

The "Old" Red Sox won the two-inning preliminary, 2-0, then turned loose the current edition for only their third victory in 10 meetings with the runaway American League leaders.

Despite a 7-0 lead after five innings, they almost didn't make it—needing relievers Leo Kiely and Murray Wall to choke off late Yankee threats, the last with the tying run at the plate in the ninth.

Trailing 9-5 entering the ninth, the Yankees scored once on a walk, a single by Tony Kubek and Mantle's third hit, a single, and had runners on third and first when Wall induced Elston Howard to put into a game-ending double-play.

The victory went to Dave Sisler, 7-5, who beat the Yanks for the seventh time in 10 lifetime decisions while his dad, Hall of Famer George Sisler, watched from the stands. The loser was Duke Maas, 6-6.

Two walks, a single by Jensen, Piersall's sacrifice fly and Ted Lepcio's double produced three Red Sox runs in the fourth and four scored after two were out in the fifth on Stephens' eighth homer, Malzone's 11th, doubles by Jensen and Pete Runnels and Piersall's single.

The Sox added two unearned runs in the eighth.

Mantle's homer, tying him with Jensen and Roy Sievers for the AL lead, came ahead of Howard's single, a triple by Norm Siebern and a balk for three New York runs in the sixth. Mantle drove in two more in the seventh with a single following a walk and an error.

UNBEATEN TEAM

Wildcats Of '31 To Hold Reunion

By OTIS B. HASSELL

WINNSBORO, La. (Special) — Members of the undefeated Winnsboro High School Wildcat football team of 1931 will hold a reunion at the V.F.W. Home here Friday, August 22. The group is scheduled to meet at 4 p.m. for conversation and visitation, with dinner being served at 8 p.m.

The nine members of the team of 27 years ago who live in Winnsboro, will host the event. Cass Busby was elected chairman of the reunion committee. Winnsboro team members are Busby, J. P. Nelson, Veron Nelson, Carey Kincaid, J. C. Bankston, Shay Bankston, Nolan Moore, Howard Shirley and Sammy Davis.

Only two members of the team are deceased. They are Oral Hassell, who died in Winnsboro in 1950, after an illness of more than a year, and Coy McKaskle, who died in Tallulah from the result of burns received when a light flare he was placing on a landing strip at an army camp in Miss., where he was stationed during the early days of World War II, exploded. These two men were guards on the 1931 team and this first reunion will be dedicated to their memory.

Team members invited to the get-together are Jesse Peyton, Houston, Tex.; Willie Fore, Shreveport; Allen Francis Prickett, La Jolla, Calif.; Gayle Hooper, Baytown, Tex.; Everett Kincaid, Fort Worth, Tex.; Teddie Price, Baton Rouge; Tillman Crutchfield, Baton Rouge; Brewer Godfrey, Mosroe; J. B. Evans, Jr., Ferandina Beach, Fla.; Clyde Bankston, Baton Rouge; John Reynolds, Shreveport; and William Wallace, Carthage, Tex.

Coach Elgin Boggs, who guided the team through the undefeated season, and who is now in business in Monroe, and W. B. Glover, retired Franklin parish superintendent of education, of Winnsboro, the principal in 1931, will be special guests at the reunion.

J. C. Bankston was captain, and Brewer Godfrey, alternate captain, of the 1931 edition of the Wildcats. The line averaged 160 pounds and the backfield 135 pounds.

The hard-driving team defeated Bonita, Dodson, Olla-Standard, Tallulah, Wisner, and Crowville, but a 12 to 12 tie with Delhi kept them out of the playoff for the state Class B championship even though they had 15 first downs and Delhi only had 5.

TAG TITLE TILT

Laye, Menace To Face Curtis Kin

Jack Curtis and Bill Strong, shorn of their southeastern mat circuit tag team championship last week by Charlie Laye and the Black Menace, found the rest of the Curtis family mighty anxious for revenge, so brother George and son Jack Jr. will be in Monroe tomorrow night attempting to take the freshly won crown from the villainous Laye and his masked partner.

Promoter Gus Kallio last night said George Curtis, who has been wrestling in Georgia and Alabama in recent weeks, had offered his services in teaming with brother Jack in an effort to win the title. Likewise Jack Jr., currently making mat dates in Texas, wired his pop he'd come back to help out.

Now, what the brother and son don't know is that Jack Sr., appreciating the rallying of his clan, has decided to sit this one out and let Jack Jr. team with his uncle George try dethroning Laye and the Menace.

Jack Curtis told Kallio he would probably be here to see the match.

The match will be over a 90-minute time limit route, two falls to win. A pair of preliminaries involving main event talent will start the show at 8:15 o'clock.

Regular prices will prevail except for customers presenting the "lucky dollar" saying, "In God We Trust." A lucky dollar gets a ringside seat and 10 cents change, the usual general admission price.

Aroused Indians Whip A's, 3 To 1

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Rookie Gary Bell firenailed the Cleveland Indians to their 10th victory in their last 12 starts, 3-1, Saturday over the sagging Kansas City Athletics.

It was the fifth straight defeat and the eighth in the last nine games for the Athletics. The win boosted the Indians to the .500 mark for the first time since May 30.

Bell, who scattered five hits, was locked in a 1-1 duel with Ralph Terry until the sixth inning when Bob Avila's double and Mickey Vernon's single pushed Cleveland ahead, 2-1.

The Indians added a cushion tally in the eighth on Billy Hunter's double, Bell's sacrifice and another sacrifice bunt by Avila that Terry mishandled in an attempt to nail Hunter at the plate.

The A's tied the score in the second when Bell hit Mike Baxes with a pitch, walked Bill Tuttle and then served up a single to Roger Maris.

It was the sixth victory of the year against five losses for Bell and Terry's ninth setback against seven victories.

No More Racing For Silky Until Winter Meeting

DEL MAR, Calif. (AP)—Silky Sullivan is out of action until the Santa Anita meeting next winter, says trainer Reggie Cornell.

The horse who likes to run way back of the field and come on with a rush at the finish has been fired in both front legs because of ankle and pastern trouble. Firing is a process for drawing out infection.

Silky has been plagued with minor troubles ever since his Santa Anita Derby victory. Cornell said Friday the firing job was a precautionary measure.

Richardson, Anderson In Tennis Final

SOUTH ORANGE, N.Y. (AP)—Ham Richardson of Arlington, Va. and Mal Anderson of Australia Saturday gained the final round in men's single play of the Eastern grass court tennis championships.

Richardson, seeded No. 3, turned back Alejandro Olmedo of Los Angeles, 12-10, 13-11, 6-4, while Anderson, the second-seeded foreign netster, stopped his Davis Cup teammate, Neal Fraser, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

Richardson had to fight for almost every point to beat the transplanted Peruvian. There were only five service breaks in the total of 36 games. Richardson was broken only once, that was the 16th game of the first set.

Richardson went ahead 8-7 in the first set when he put Olmedo in trouble with a service break. But in the next game Richardson faltered and the score was even.

Olmedo again got in difficulty when he lost the 21st game on love. The National Collegiate ace netted the ball twice in this game and double faulted twice to give Richardson the game.

The second set again saw Richardson in command. However, Olmedo preying on his service managed to hold his own, especially when he would win the crucial points on his service.

Anderson, the current U.S. singles champion, played extraordinarily well. His volleys were clean and crisp and he could steadily count on winning an important point with a startling down-the-line placement.

Wimbledon champion Althea Gibson of New York and Sally Moore of Bakersfield, Calif., won the women's doubles title by beating Mrs. Dorothy Knode of Forest Hills, N.Y., and Karol Fageros of Miami, Fla., 6-2, 6-1. The winners will meet Sunday for the singles crown.

O'MALLEY'S HEADACHE

Silver Has Dodgers Over Barrel' In Ravine Battle

By CHARLES MAHER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Like a king in the counting room whose leg is broken by an avalanche, Walter O'Malley doesn't quite know whether to giggle or groan.

His Los Angeles Dodgers are coining money in Memorial Coliseum. But his fond hopes for the future are blighted by dark legal clouds.

If there is a silver lining, O'Malley hasn't seen it. What Silver he has seen is Phill Silver, a Hollywood attorney who is no kin to the famous comic and who—even if he were—would be in no danger of making O'Malley laugh.

You can't really call Silver the man who beat the Dodgers. That's happened too often. But Silver was one of the principal players in the courtroom drama that ended when Judge Arnold Praeger ruled the Dodgers' contract for a stadium site in Chavez Ravine illegal, null and void.

Chagrined, O'Malley is taking the decision to the District Court of Appeals.

And that, says Silver, "will be the greatest blunder Mr. O'Malley has made in his entire life."

Silver, a short, pudgy, nervous, wire-haired man of 51, sees himself as a righter of wrongs, a battler for the underdog. He cocked a suspicious eye at the Dodger contract almost the minute the city council approved it last fall. Then he set to work, determined to jerk the city's welcome mat out from under O'Malley.

"I have been actuated by a religious feeling that this is a cause and work that God wants me to do," he said. "I've tried to look at him and say 'Is this the right thing?' and I've tried to look to him for inspiration."

Silver, a member of the orthodox Jewish faith, has been practicing law since 1931. He was born in Lynn, Mass., the son of a poor factory worker, and worked his way through college as a tintype photographer. He completed his studies at Southwestern University here.

Silver lives with his third wife in a duplex apartment just off Wilshire Blvd. He has three children.

"In the last three years," he said, "I've devoted 80 per cent of my time to fighting public causes without remuneration. I'd estimate that I've devoted $5,000—in out-of-pocket funds — to these cases."

Silver entered the Dodger contract fight on his own by filling a taxpayer's suit without any urging from the citizen's committee which opposes the deal.

The contract would give the ball club 315 acres in Chavez Ravine in return for Wrigley Field and other considerations. In the ravine the city actually owned only 169 acres, ootained from the Federal Government several years ago with the deed provision that it be used for public purposes only. The city planned to buy additional land, then sell it to the ball club.

Silver noted that, under the contract, the Dodgers were to set aside 40 acres of the land for a public recreation area. He argued:

"The city . . . cannot agree to sell land when the ordinance approving the contract of sale shows on its face that a substantial portion of the land is required for the use of the city and is to be used by the city as a recreation area."

Then, noting the city intend to buy additional land and sell it to the Dodgers, he contended:

"The city . . . cannot enter into an agreement to sell land it does not own . . ."

Noting further that the city planned to spend up to two million dollars to place the land in proper condition for transfer, and that the ball club was to say how the money should be spent, Silver argued:

"The city cannot delegate to a private corporation the manner in which municipal funds shall be spent."

He was upheld on all these points by Judge Praeger in the actions brought by Silver and another attorney, Julius Ruben.

"I enjoyed working on this case as much as I have ever enjoyed working on any case," Silver said. "I would say that this is the most rewarding decision I have ever had. But I'm still not entirely satisfied."

"The danger that O'Malley faces, and it is a real danger, is that if he files an appeal I have the right—and intend to, and will—file a cross appeal on the various points the judge ruled against me.

"If the court of appeal holds that the public purpose clause is binding against the city, then O'Malley can never buy this land.

"I can appeal without endangering the ground I've already won. He can't.

"Here's another danger O'Malley faces: We have several federal questions involved in this case . . . I could go on and up to the U.S. Supreme Court on the federal points on which the judge ruled against me.

"Which means that O'Malley is inviting three years of litigation before he could ever start negotiating for a new contract."

If O'Malley goes two seasons without finding a stadium site—in the Ravine or elsewhere — he will have to get National League permission to stay another year at the Coliseum.

Frank Selvy Reconsiders Retirement

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Frank Selvy was undecided about his pro basketball future today after the St. Louis Hawks team physician told him his knee injury is minor and can be cured without surgery.

Just a week ago the former Furman All-America announced his retirement from the pro game. But Hawks owner Ben Kerner persuaded him to come here for an examination by Dr. Stan London.

After the doctors favorable report, Selvy said he will take up exercises to improve the knee and would join the Hawks in training only if he feels he can play a top-flight game.

The $10,000-a - year backliner played only infrequently last year and was the subject of an open break between Kerner and Coach Alex Hannum.

Hannum since has stepped down as coach, although the Hawks won the National Basketball Assn. championship last season.

"I want to play basketball and I want to play with the Hawks," Selvy said.

"But if I can't play regularly or play well, I'd rather not play at all. I don't want to go through another season like last winter."

Selvy had feared the knee would require surgery.

But Dr. London reported there was nothing functionally wrong with Selvy's knee and called the trouble "relatively minor."

He plans to lift weights to gain strength in the muscles.

'Buddy' Lancaster Block High Coach

JONESVILLE, La. (Special) — Arthur "Buddy" Lancaster, Northwestern State College All-Conference football star, has been employed as coach of the Block High Bears of Jonesville by the Catahoula Parish School Board. Lancaster, who is considered a local man here in as much as he is a native of Ferriday and married to the daughter of Catahoula parish Sheriff George McGee, comes to Jonesville from Minden where he was assistant football coach at Minden High for the past three years, two of which were under Coach Daugherty, now at Louisiana Tech as assistant coach under Joe Ailet.

Coach Lancaster is a graduate of the 1944 class of Ferriday High where he played left halfback on the Bulldog football squad. Ferriday was in the state playoffs in Lancaster's senior year and he was named all-state halfback that year.

In 1945 Lancaster entered Southwestern Louisiana Institute and was drafted into the armed forces six months later.

Completing his first tour of duty with the armed forces he enrolled at Northwestern State, majoring in physical education and industrial arts.

At Northwestern, Lancaster continued to blaze a name for himself in state football circles playing left halfback. He lettered each year in football and track and won top honors when he was team and later won Little All-American honors.

Although considered a native of Louisiana, Arthur was born, through an act of providence, in the state of Mississippi. The big event took place in May of 1927 during the time of the disastrous flood which covered Catahoula and Concordia parishes that year.

Arthur's parents had fled to Mississippi, former home of the elder Mr. Lancaster, to escape the high water, when he was born.

Lancaster succeeds Ronald Dry who recently resigned as coach here to enter private business at Baton Rouge.

25TH CLASSIC

Pros Favored As Usual In Friday All-Star Tilt

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP) — A gilt-edged prologue of the coming football season, the silver anniversary All-Star game pits an underdog, but ambitious collegiate squad against the Detroit Lions in Soldier Field Friday night.

The Lions, champions of the National Football League, are better than 13-point favorites over the cream of the 1957 collegiate crop in this 25th All-Star Game which will be televised nationally via ABC beginning at 7:30 p.m. (CST).

ABC also will have a radio broadcast of the contest, a colorful spectacle under the floodlights of the huge arena on the Lake Michigan front.

Confronting the Lions will be a hand-picked crew of 52 collegiate stars, selected by a pro-seasoned staff, headed by Otto Graham, former star quarterback of the Cleveland Browns.

Graham, making his All-Star head coaching debut, gets an acid test in trying to whip together an array of individual young stars for a showdown against a well knot pro championship organization. But he knows his problem, and already has had his All-Stars rub noses with the Chicago Bears of the NFL. In a scrimmage last Tuesday, the All-Stars lost to the Bears, 24-7, but gained a liberal football education.

On paper, the All-Stars appear to have the horses to give the Lions a rousing battle. Graham has strapping linemen, four fine quarterbacks and some of the fastest, hardest-hitting backs from the 1957 collegiate scene.

For the All-Stars to beat the coordinated pros is something like catching lightning in a bottle. But it has been done seven times before with two deadlocks against 15 pro victories. The last All-Star triumph was a 30-27 verdict over the Cleveland Browns in 1955. Last season, Curly Lambeau's All-Stars bowed to the New York Giants 22-12 in a rain-drenched contest.

The game will be played under professional rules, entailing offensive and defensive platooning. This, of course, precludes any demonstration of the new collegiate two-point conversion rule. This fall, the collegiate grid forces will be able to kick for one extra-point, or run or pass for two points after a touchdown.

The burden of outsmarting the Lions rests on quarterbacks Jim Ninowski of Michigan State, King Hill of Rice, Tom Forrestal of Navy and Ray Brown of Mississippi.

The outcome may hinge on how well the collegiate quarterbacks match the passing arms of Detroit's Bobby Layne and Tobin Rote. The All-Stars have able receivers in Fred Dugan of Dayton, Bob Jewett of Michigan State, Jim Phillips of Auburn and Jim Gibbons of Iowa, among nine fast and rugged collegiate ends.

The All-Star backs need no introduction to college football fans throughout the nation. They include Jim Pace of Michigan, Bobby Mitchell of Illinois, Dick Christy of North Carolina State, Walt Kowalczyk of Michigan State, Len Lyles of Louisville, Clendon Thomas of Oklahoma, Phil King of Vanderbilt, and Jim Jones of Washington.

The All-Stars are well-stacked at tackles and guards with an average weight of 234 pounds among some 17 contenders. On the basis of workouts since the All-Stars started drills at Northwestern University in Evanston July 25, tackle Lou Michaels of Kentucky and linebacker Chuck Howley of West Virginia are defensive kingpins.

Another thorn in the side of the Lions may be Michigan State's great center, Dan Currie.

Graham's All-Star coaching staff includes Don Paul, Don Doll, Pete Pihos, John Sandusky and Ara Parseghian, Northwestern's head coach, all of whom have played pro ball.

"We may be playing by memory come Friday night," said Graham, "but we know what to expect. The question will be whether our boys can off-inexperience with determination and aggressiveness."

DONOVAN COASTS

Lollar Slammer Fires White Sox

By DAVE DILES

DETROIT (AP)—Dick Donovan coasted to his sixth straight pitching triumph and battery mate Sherm Lollar supplied a grand slam home run in the Chicago White Sox' 9-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers Saturday.

Lollar drove in six runs with his second bases-loaded smash of the season and a pair of singles. His home run was his 16th and tied his major league high for one season.

Donovan, who has yielded only four earned runs in his last 39 innings, pitched his seventh complete game in his last eight starts. The most damaging of 12 Detroit hits was Gail Harris' 11th home run that led off the fourth inning.

The Tigers scored another run in the fourth on a pair of singles and an infield out after Harris homered into the right field seats, but Chicago regained the lead with a five-run fifth-inning rally highlighted by Lollar's drive into the left field seats.

Lollar drove in a first-inning run after Nelson Fox walked and stole second. In the fifth, Detroit starter Herb Moford got into trouble with three bases on balls and a single before Lollar hammered his four-run drive into the seats.

The Sox added two more in the sixth on singles by Luis Aparicio and Billy Goodman around Al Smith's double, and Lollar drove home the final run in the ninth after Fox singled and stole second.

Al Kaline, who has hit safely in 11 games, reached Donovan for a two-out double in the fifth and came across with Detroit's final run when Charlie Maxwell punched a single to center.

After a poor start Donovan has hiked his record to nine victories against 10 setbacks.

Meeting Of Fox Hunters Slated Near Alexandria

ALEXANDRIA, La. (Special)—A meeting of the Central Louisiana Fox Hunters Association is scheduled for next Saturday evening with a basket supper at the association's campsite west of Gardner on the Leesville highway.

The meeting, last before the annual Fall Hunt, will be devoted to subjects on how to improve the Fall Hunt. A well-bred fox hound puppy, two months old and from Homer Barrett's "Pat" by James Washburn's "Rex Maupin," will be given away during the meeting.

Pies and cakes will be auctioned by ladies attending the meeting, J. B. Douglas will cook up a big pot of chicken and rice, which, along with the basket suppers brought in, and the soft drinks and coffee to be sold on the grounds by the association, will make the "feed" a big one. Meeting time is 7:30 p.m.

A report published by the U. S. Public Health Service discloses that in 1957, 11,131 communities had sewer systems servicing 98.4 million persons — increases over 2,200 communities and 24 million persons since 1945. The National Wildlife Federation, however, points out that almost 22 million people still discharge raw sewage into the nation's waterways and wastes from an additional 1.9 million are given only minor treatment.

CARDS WIN

Flood's Homer Beats Cubs, 3-2

CHICAGO (AP) — Curtis Flood hit his third late inning homer to carry the St. Louis Cardinals to a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs Saturday. It was St. Louis' ninth straight win over the Cubs and the Chicagoans' fourth consecutive defeat.

Previously Flood used a ninth inning homer to defeat Pittsburgh and homered in the 14th inning to defeat Milwaukee.

Saturday's tide-turning homer was the 20-year-old freshman's eighth of the season. It came with two out in the 10th.

St. Louis scored its first run in the first on successive errors by Ernie Banks and Al Dark, who made all five of the Cubs' miscues. They scored again in the fourth when Flood walked with one out and completed the journey on Sal Maglie's sacrifice and Don Blasingame's single.

Both Chicago runs were the result of Banks' 32nd homer, a first inning drive after Dark reached first as a bit batsman.

Phil Paine, working the last three innings, picked up his fifth victory to give the rebounding Redbirds their sixth straight win.

Bill Henry, who also entered the game in the eighth, drew the loss —his second against four victories.

The setback was the Cubs' seventh in nine extra-inning games thus far and their 19th one-run defeat in 40 such matches to date.

Swoon's Son Grows Richer In Equipoise

CHICAGO (AP) — Swoon's Son became turfdom's fourth highest all-time money winner Saturday by capturing the $133,150 Equipoise Mile in Arlington Park before 27,474 fans.

Calumet Farm's comeback-trying Bardstown was second, a half length behind, while Indian Creek was third.

Round Table, the richest thoroughbred now racing, finished fifth in the field of 10 after going off a 4-5 favorite.

Swoon's Son, ridden by Dave Erb, ran third most of the way and then battled off Bardstown in a hot stretch fight.

The Erb-Swoon's Son combination won the Equipoise last year, carrying the heaviest impost in the history of this race—132 pounds. This time Swoon's Son was in at 129 pounds.

Swoon's Son, grabbing a winner's purse of $87,675, raised his career earnings to $938,604. This put the 5-year-old son of The Doge-Swoon some $20,000 ahead of Stymie, who previously held fourth place in the all-time money winning list with $918,495.

Swoon's Son, overlooked at 8-1 odds, returned his backers $18.00, $9.80 and $6.00. Bardstown, making only his second start in more than a year, returned $8.80 and $6.00. Indian Creek, coupled with stable mate Hoop Band, paid $5.60.

Swoon's Son was clocked over a fast track in 1:34 4-5, a new mark for the stakes event, but still behind the track's mile record of 1:34 2-5 set by Equipose in 1932.

Round Table, only second behind Nashua as highest all-time money winner, just failed to get running.

Willie Shoemaker, the nation's leading rider, was aboard the star Travis Kerr colt and he explained:

"The horse just couldn't get running on the back stretch. I don't know what happened. Once he got underway, he was all right and he didn't get beat too far."

Travers Won For Jeffords By Piano Jim

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—Piano Jim, in the green and white stripes of Walter M. Jeffords, was a driving winner over Windfield Farm's Grey Monarch Saturday in the 89th running of the $46,800 Travers Stakes.

In a stretch battle that wasn't decided until the final yards, Piano Jim edged Grey Monarch by three-quarters of a length. The time for the mile and a quarter on a good track was 2:05 4-5.

Three and a half lengths further back, Mabel C. Scholtz's Warhead finished a tiring third in front of C. V. Whitney's Flamingo. The original nine-horse field was reduced when Merrick Stable's Wing Jet was a late scratch.

Brilliantly ridden by Bob Ussery, the winner, coupled in the betting with stablemate Candace returned $4.40, $3.20 and $2.60 as the favorite of the 22,140 patrons.

3 BIG INNINGS

Orioles Wallop Senators, 12-5

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles packaged all their scoring into three big innings Saturday as they snapped their 11-game losing streak by defeating Washington 12-5.

Joe Taylor, Bob Nieman and Gus Triandos homered for the Orioles.

Triandos' homer, a frosting-on-the-cake shot with none on in the ninth, was his 22nd of the season and broke Gus' all-time club record of 21, set in 1956.

Arnold Portocarrero received credit for his 11th victory with Billy Loes lending help in relief over the final 2 2-3 innings. The Orioles smacked out 13 hits and bunched them well, scoring four runs in the third inning, five in the seventh and three in the ninth.

The Senators rapped out 12 hits, had the benefit of 11 bases on balls, one hit batsman and an Oriole error but couldn't get the big hit when it counted. Fifteen Washington runners were left.

Starter Camilo Pascual, chased in the third, was tagged with his seventh defeat against six victories.

Portocarrero swung a heavy bat in his behalf. After walking his first time at bat, the right-handed castoff from the Kansas City A's punched two singles and a double. He drove in two runs.

The Orioles batted around in their four-run third with Willie Miranda's two-run single the big blow. Taylor's first Baltimore homer led off the five-run seventh as Truman Clevenger later walked two of the runs across.

Off Jim Constable in the ninth, Nieman whacked a 430-foot homer with one on. It was Bob's 10th. Triandos followed with his homer.

Clint Courtney paced the Senators batters with two singles and a sacrifice fly. Courtney knocked in two runs.

Cotton Futures Erratic

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures traced an erratic course this week and closed mixed.

Despite wide price swings in the first few days of trading, net changes at week's end were small. Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange finished $1.50 a bale higher to $1.95 lower.

Deliveries from October 1958 through May 1959 covered a range of $2.60 to $1.80 a bale during five-day trading period. Positions from July through December 1959 in wider arcs, covering a range of $5.60 to $3.75.

Strongest influence on the market was concern of traders over the outlook for new farm price support legislation. Prices firmed early in the week when Washington developments suggested there was little chance of any new farm legislation being enacted at the current session of Congress. Later some traders inclined to the view that some sort of stopgap legislation might be passed if the Senate-approved farm bill failed in the House.

On Friday the government's latest official crop forecast triggered a wave of selling. The official estimate — 11,583,000 — topped private forecasts by several hundred thousand bales.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture forecast indicated the average yield per harvested acre would reach an all-time high of 466 pounds. The previous record — 417 pounds per acre — was set in 1955.

After the close of trading Friday, the Agriculture Department announced that the loan rate on the 1958 crop would be 33.08 cents per pound, basis middling one-inch upland cotton at average location, or 81 per cent of the mid-July parity price plus a premium of 3.85 cents per pound over ⅞-inch staple. Thus, it was pointed out, the final loan rate for middling one-inch cotton will show an increase of 0.48 of a cent a pound over the previously announced guaranteed minimum of 34.60 cents a pound. Many traders had thought the final loan rate would be higher than 35.08 cents.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 105,000 bales, against 77,000 the previous week and 70,000 in the like 1957 week.

Exports for the new 1958-59 crop year, which started Aug. 1, were estimated at 47,000 bales as of Aug. 5 vs. 2,000 at the same time last season.

See Little Danger Of China War

HONG KONG (AP)—Tension rises over Formosa Strait, but U. S. and British sources said Saturday they see little danger of a shooting war between Red and Nationalist China.

Most U. S. and British quarters privately assess the claims and counterclaims that each side is preparing for an invasion as only talk but talk with a purpose.

The Nationalists claim the Reds are threatening an invasion of the offshore islands and moving in MIG jets to bases opposite Formosa.

Increased tension might mean new jets and other increased military aid from the United States for the Nationalist stronghold of Formosa.

The Communists are believed to be operating on the principle that increased tension would aid the Soviet propaganda cause at the U.N. General Assembly meeting on the Middle East.

Nationalist China would be pictured as planning an invasion backed by the United States, a theme already introduced by Communist propaganda.

Moscow has been saying the purpose of an attack on the Red mainland would be to divert attention from what the Communists call U. S. and British aggression in the Middle East.

The Chinese Communists also may be trying to get the United States to indicate whether it will defend the offshore islands.

The U. S. 7th Fleet guards Formosa from Red invasion. But the United States has agreed to intervene in any Red invasion of the offshore islands only if President Eisenhower considers this a prelude to an assault on Formosa itself.

Beneficial Has 30th Anniversary

Leon F. Surrat, manager of Beneficial Finance Company in the Bernhardt Building said Saturday the 30th anniversary of their operating an office in Monroe was observed last week.

The firm specializes in personal loans. It also is a pioneer in the field of consumer financing plans and, with Pan American Airways, originated that company's "Pay Later" plan of financing air travel.

Surratt said the Monroe office is one of more than 1100 offices the firm maintains in the United States, Canada, Hawaii and Alaska.

Associated in the local office with Surratt are: Charles G. Puckett, Lucille Collie, Frances Danna, Vita Marie Williams and Dorothy Lowry.

RECEIVED FEW JOLTS

Stock Market Advances For 7th Straight Week

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market received a few jolts from Washington and other points this week but managed to post its seventh straight weekly advance.

Gains at the beginning and end of the week were enough to carry the Associated Press average to high ground for 1958.

There were declines Tuesday and Wednesday, reflecting a hike in stock margin requirements and other bearish news.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $2 during the week to $185.30. This, incidentally, was the closing average both Monday and Friday and represented a high in the index since July 26, 1957.

Key event of the week was the Federal Reserve Board's move in lifting stock margins from 50 to 70 per cent. This means a man who buys stock on credit can now borrow only 30 per cent instead of half.

The board clamped on the tighter rules Monday night after a day in which stocks scored the biggest gains in seven months.

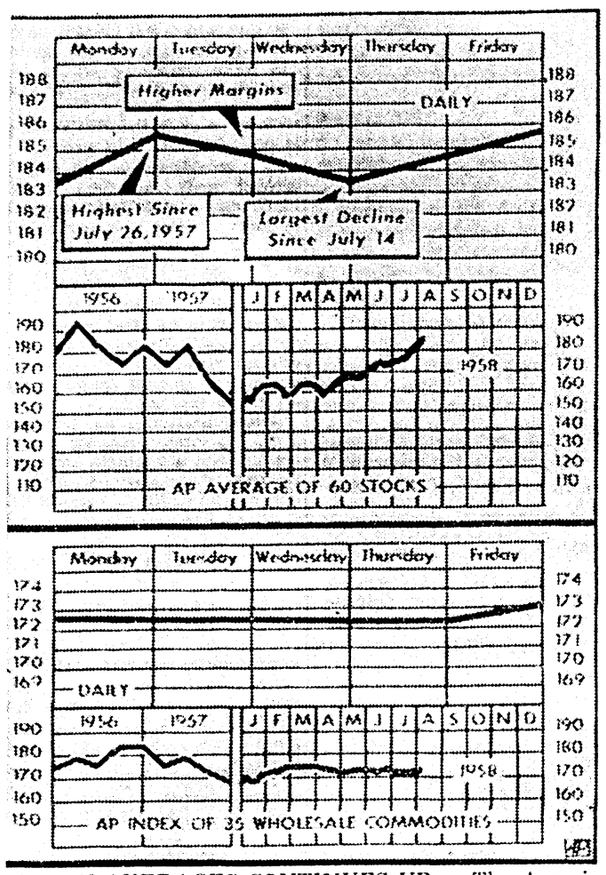
The action was interpreted as a gesture that the board would not stand for any inflationary splurge on Wall Street.

In the past, a boost in margin requirements often has meant a decline in volume. This appeared to be the case again this week. After four-million plus share days Monday and Tuesday, turnover was down considerably the next three days.

The week's volume totaled 18,523,120 shares compared with last week's 18,760,460 shares.

There were other developments which brought caution. President Eisenhower told his news conference that business should go easy on price increases or consumers would rebel. U.S. government bonds dropped sharply. Custom smelters, who raised copper prices last week, cancelled the boosts.

But Wall Street still had an abundance of bullish sentiment. Some brokers said the market was going up partly because of increasing confidence in business recovery and partly because of fear of inflation.



STOCK AVERAGES CONTINUES UP — The Associated Press average of 60 stocks pushed higher for seventh straight week, to around the highs of July, 1957, when it closed this week at 185.8 from 183.8 a week ago. Paced by industrials, the commodity index advanced for the fourth week in a row, closing at 173.0 from 172.7 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Grain Futures Beaten Back During Week

CHICAGO (AP) — Except for one feeble show of resistance, grain futures were beaten steadily but slowly backward on the board of trade this week.

A few contracts never once hit the plus side of a previous close and those that did were not over far or for very long. Hedging on wheat and oats probably accounted for the weakness of those grains but buyers generally backed away from soybeans and other grains in almost all sessions.

Wheat was the most resistant to selling and withstood hedging surprisingly well, traders said, but it was buoyed somewhat by renewal of a good volume of export business and some mill buying.

Of major disappointment to the trade was the fact that while commercial supplies were on the increase the receipts included only a small percentage of the high quality required by flour miller.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1¼ cents a bushel lower to ⅛ cent together with the July contract the only gainer. September $1.84⅛-⅜; corn 2¾-3 cents lower, September $1.26¾-27; oats unchanged to 1¼ lower, September 63⅞; rye 1¼-2½ lower, September $1.25; soybeans 2½-3⅜ lower, September $2.25-25⅛, and had 7 cents a hundred pounds higher to 27 cents lower, September $12.72.

The major bearish influence was weather and a private forecast which said the outlook is for somewhat larger yields than those estimated by the Department of Agriculture in its July report.

But while futures traders found the corn market weak, the cash traders who deal only in the actual grain came to the end of the week bidding higher and higher for supplies.

On Friday, for example, some cash traders were paying as much as 11¼ cents a bushel over the September future while commercial stocks in Chicago continued to dwindle.

Soybeans weakness was related to prospects for the largest crop of record and assurance that present supplies are adequate to meet whatever commercial demand might come along during the next several weeks.

Still Alive Because He Lit Cigarette

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—James L. Prevo, 28, is still alive, although seriously injured, because he forgot and lit a cigarette.

Detective Jordan Jones said Prevo had made elaborate preparations to commit suicide in a downtown hotel room Saturday. He had stuffed all the door and window cracks with newspapers, written a suicide note addressed to his estranged wife, then turned on the gas in a small heating stove.

Prevo apparently was sitting in a chair, awaiting death, Jones said, when he absent - mindedly started to light a cigarette. The ensuing explosion wrecked the room, shattered the windows and blew Jones through the doorway into the hall. He was taken to a hospital for treatment of second and third degree burns. Attendants gave him a 50-50 survival chance.

POST-LABOR DAY PICKUP?

Rosy Glow On Economic Scene

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—Prospects of a post - Labor Day pickup cast a rosy glow on the economic scene this week.

Merchants counted hopefully on a sharp upturn in employment to put more cash in customers' pay envelopes.

Even now, you could see signs of a faster economic tempo.

Production of automobiles, steel, crude oil and paperboard inches upward. Distribution of electric power set a record high.

Looking toward autumn, the construction industry braced itself for a boom in new highways, new apartments and new houses.

The auto industry, retooling for bigger, finnier and more powerful 1959 models, got set for a massive production spurt. General Motors said it planned to call back 100,000 workers by mid - October. From the Detroit point of view, only a strike could delay an earlier than usual production start on the first 1959 cars.

The stock market, betting heavily on inflation, survived tighter curbs on margin buying and bounced back to its best level of the year.

Federal monetary officials, in a reversal of policy, began to tighten the reins on credit.

With the U. S. Treasury sinking deeper into the red, Congress approved a $39,600,000,000 military spending program — highest ever for a peacetime year. It includes huge sums for jet bombers, long range missiles and atomic powered,missile-firing submarines.

Price increases spread in the steel industry. By week's end practically all basic steel products ranging from bars, rods and structural items to oil drilling pipe carried higher price tags. There was talk in Washington of an anti-trust crackdown, but steel industry sources said the price boosts would stick.

President Eisenhower, taking note of inflationary undercurrents, urged business and labor to go easy on price and wage increases. If they don't, he said, the consumer will rebel.

What's new in the job situation? Not much. That's the gist of the government's latest official report on employment.

The number of the nation's jobless declined 143,000 last month to 5,294,000. It usually shows a bigger drop in July. Employment increased 196,000 to 65,179,000. It usually increases more.

Briefly over the business scene:

Financier Louis E. Wolfson said his associates and relatives have a short position of 132,000 shares in American Motors Corp. stock. . . Good news for food shoppers: Wholesale food prices as measured by Dun & Bradstreet made their sharpest decline in two months this week. If the trend continues it should show up in lower retail price tags soon. . . Montgomery Ward & Co. is opening a new department store in Denver's lakeside shopping center. It's the company's first invasion of the shopping center field. . . Buick starts production of 1959 cars next week.

Stock sales in the latest week numbered 18,523,120 shares compared with 18,760,460 in the previous week and 9,422,297 shares a year ago.

Bond sales had a par value of $30,445,600 in the latest week against $27,283,600 the previous week and $16,326,600 a year ago.

44 Arrested For Gambling

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—A one-time plush night spot was raided by state and local police early Saturday and 44 persons were arrested on gambling charges. Some $19,000 in cash and a quantity of gambling equipment were seized.

Police Chief Jerry Sullivan said it was the first major raid of its type here since 1940.

The three-story frame building, situated less than a block from the boardwalk, is sandwiched between two of the largest beachfront hotels—the Ambassador and the Sheraton Ritz-Carlton.

A roulette wheel and dice game equipment were seized.

Sub-Summit Meet Is Expected

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A sub-summit conference of foreign ministers with U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold is expected at the General Assembly's emergency session on the Middle East, a reliable source said Saturday.

The informant said Hammarskjold wants to bring together Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, Soviet Foreign Ministers Andrei Gromyko, Mahmound Fawzi of the United Arab Republic, and others concerned with the private talks.

Any such meeting would be a lower scale substitute for the government heads conference on which the big powers recently failed to agree.

Gromyko is due in New York by plane Sunday. Lloyd and Fawzi are coming later.

Abdul Mawgoud Hassan, spokesman for the U.A.R. delegation, told a reporter Fawzi would be here "to lend himself to meetings" with as many other ministers as possible. He said whether Fawzi enters into any conference would depend on what was to be discussed and how.

Hassan and Hammarskjold give "a good report of great importance" when he addressed the opening of the emergency session late Friday.

"It has touched on basic problems in the area," he said. "It requires serious study."

Hassan was the first Arab representative to speak approvingly Hammarskjold proposed that Middle Eastern countries pledge noninterference in one another's affairs and that the world community—meaning the big powers — assure those countries they can shape their own destinies.

He also proposed Middle Eastern economic cooperation and continued or strengthened U.N. safeguards for Lebanon, Jordan, and the U.A.R.-Israeli frontier.

After hearing the plan, the 81-nation Assembly agreed to begin debate Wednesday morning and adjourned until then.

ARRIVES AT CAPE

First Airlift Of Titan Completed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Air Force completed the first airlift of a Titan Intercontinental ballistic missile Saturday when the first stage vehicle of the mighty rocpet arrived at the Cape.

Air Force officials declined comment. But it was learned that the 50-foot first stage was delivered from the Denver headquarters of the Martin Co., prime contractors for the missiles development.

The second stage was flown in by a giant C-124 last Saturday.

The first Titan probably will not be a launching rocket, but will be used as an engineering guide in the final phase of construction of four huge service towers at the northern end of the Cape.

The 100-foot towers house the missile prior to liftoff.

The first test-firing of a Titan probably will come late in September.

The Titan, about 92-feet tall, is a more powerful version of the present Atlas ICBM, the nations only test operational 6,000 mile range ballistic missile.

The huge Martin war weapon weighs about 200,000 pounds. The first stage engine generates about 300,000 pounds of thrust on liftoff, with an additional 60,000 pounds coming from the second stage.

Martin officials say the missile could carry a satellite weighing as much as three tons. The missile also has been touted for use as the first manned space rocket sometime in the future.

The Titan has completed a series of highly successful engine ground tests a Martin plant in the Rocky Mountains near Denver.

Sweeping New Powers Given Iraq Military

BAGHDAD, Iraq (UPI) — The revolutionary government of Iraq announced a new law Saturday giving special military courts sweeping powers to try leaders and supporters of the old regime.

The five - man courts were empowered to pass sentences ranging from fines, confiscation of property and removal from public office to life imprisonment.

They were also given the right to try persons under any provision of the old penal code, which would include treason punishable by death.

Among those liable to prosecution were Iraqis who attacked "heads of state" of other Arab countries "in international circles."

Aimed At Critics

(Observers in western capitals said this provision appeared to be aimed against criticism of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.)

The "special high military courts," each to be headed by an officer holding the rank of colonel or higher, were empowered to hold secret hearings whenever necessary and dismiss defense witnesses who prolong trials.

The new law was announced by Guidance (propaganda) Minister Seddik Shanshal, who said it was decreed by the Revolutionary Council on Thursday. Shanshal hinted that the special trials would commence within two weeks.

The new law concerned itself mostly with past or present elected or appointed officials. At least 10 former government ministers and many more members of the former Parliament are known to be under arrest and awaiting trial.

Law Wide-Sweeping

But the provisions of the law were so sweeping as to make any supporter of the old regime liable to trial if the present authorities decided that he was impeding the progress of the July 14 revolution, observers believed.

Thus, any Iraqi may henceforth be brought to trial for the enactment or support of any law or action deemed contrary to the nation's security or leading to governmental corruption.

One provision was interpreted as being directed specially against persons who received favors from the old government. It said persons "who have abused their connection with a public authority shall be held responsible for the corruption of the government."

'TEN COMMANDMENTS' — Moses, portrayed by Charlton Heston in Cecil B. DeMille's production "The Ten Commandments," now showing at the Star Drive In Theatre, is seen here at the time the great lawmaker led the Exodus out of Egypt.

Remarque's Great War Story Coming

Erich Maria Remarque's "A Time to Love and a Time to Die" which starts at the Jim Theatre Friday, is one of the great tragic love stories of war in motion picture history.

This magnificent Universal-International production surpasses the famous Remarque film classic of World War I, "All Quiet on the Western Front," by counterpointing a memorable romance against spine - chilling battle sequences and the heart - rending devastation by bombing of entire cities. The poignant story of two ill - fated young lovers, caught up in a backwash involving one of civilization's greatest crimes, brings to the screen the two most exciting romantic discoveries in many years — John Gavin and Lilo Pulver.

Just as an unknown named Lew Ayres skyrocketed to top stardom in "All Quiet," so Gavin the most sensational newcomer since Rock Hudson, will be the national heartthrob in the dramatic department when box office lines start forming for "A Time to Love and a Time to Die."

This handsome young giant with classic features and the brooding dark eyes, brings to the role of the disillusioned soldier who returns from the front to find "the victorious fatherland" a heap of rubble, the finest talent for dynamic characterization that has come out of Hollywood in the past decade.

Though this is Swiss star Lilo Pulver's American debut, she is one of the top five actresses of the European continent and her talent definitely overshadows any of the film industry's more exotic foreign imports. This favorite of Germany, Italy and France has an earthy gamin-like quality of sex which will give a rare tingle to the blood of male moviegoers. In the role of the bewildered young girl who marries Gavin during a brief three - week leave. Lilo guarantees a faster pulse beat whether you are laughing or crying with her.

In one of those rare, unprecedented strokes of top showmanship, U-I cast the writer himself, Erich Remarque in the important role of the underground professor.

Among others in the cast who give indelible performances are Keenan Wynn as a friendly, cynical behind - the-lines hospitalized sergeant; Thayer David, an American recruited for the picture in Germany to play the part of a loose - living Nazi party leader; Jock Mahoney as a disillusioned German soldier, and a number of top - ranking European performers, including Dieter Bersche, Dorothea Wieck, Charles Regnier and Christina Maiback.

Director Douglas Sirk, who gave us "Magnificent Obsession," "Written on the Wind" and "Battle Hymn," teamed with producer Robert Arthur in filming the entire picture in and around occupied Berlin. The added realism given to the Russian battlefront sequences by cameraman Russell Metty makes "A Time to Love and a Time to Die," not only the most touching love story of the season but the most exciting.

Couple Wed In Afternoon At First Baptist Church

In the late afternoon yesterday in the First Baptist Church, Ann Janet Humphries became the bride of Larry Wayne Seab.

The former Miss Humphries is the daughter of Mr. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Humphries, and her groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clyde K. Seab of Roxie, Mississippi.

The Reverend James T. Horton officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. Wayne Miley, organist, presented the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. J. Norman Coon, soloist.

The altar of the church was banked with large arrangements of white gladioli and fern trees and white tapers burning in branched candelabra were placed about the chancel. The candles were lighted by Richard Drew and Keith Nix.

The bridal party, Miss Pat Hudson, maid of honor, and Miss Linda Humphries, sister of the bride, Miss Alice Woods and Miss Eunice Sims, bridesmaids, preceded the bride down the aisle.

Their frocks were of pink tissue taffeta made with harem back skirts and circlet necklines. The bodices of re - embroidered chantilly lace had empire lines with princess front and they wore flowered half hats and carried orchid gladioli in a basket effect.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie re - embroidered with D. Argentan lace. The close fitting bodice was trimmed at the square cut neckline with bands of D. Argentan lace. The sleeves were elbow length. Appliqued garlands of the same lace entwined the sides of the full dome shaped skirt which finished in unpressed pleats falling into a cathedral length train at the back. She wore a mantilla of Brussels lace and carried a white orchid mounted on a white Bible surrounded by stephanotis and tied with long white satin streamers.

Sue Seab, sister of the bridegroom, acted as flower girl. She was dressed like the honor attendant. Tommy Humphries, brother of the bride, the ringbearer.

Murray Seab was his brother's best man. The ushers included Joe Hortman, Wayne Miley and Richard Seab, cousin of the groom.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Humphries were hosts at a reception at the Cameo Room of the Virginia Hotel, which was decorated with numerous bouquets of white seasonal blooms and arrangements of glossy magnolia foliage.

Mrs. Humphries selected a Persian blue Chantilly lace dress embroidered in silver for the occasion and Mrs. Joseph K. Seab, aunt of the groom, wore a blue silk crepe trimmed in white. They both wore corsages of white pom pom chrysanthemums.

The tiered wedding cake, embossed in tiny pink rose buds, centered the table covered with a white cut work cloth over pink and garlanded with swags of string smilax. At either side were Tri-Lites set in bouquets of pink carnations and stock. The punch table held an arrangement of white asters and smilax and a memory candle burned on the bride's book table.

Mrs. Bert Gambrell assisted with the mostess courtesies and with her were Mrs. James T. Horton, Miss Carol Faulk, Miss Margaret Varnado, Mrs. R. M. Drew, Miss Loette Stedman, Miss Merrily Flacy, Miss Pat Seab, sister of the groom and Mrs. Doyle Hamilton registered the guests.

NEW WOOD NEEDS SEALING

In preparing new wood for painting, first use a special knot sealer over knots or sappy streaks, then apply a primer coat. If this is not done, the sap may bleed through the final coat of paint.

A Plantation Setting Provides Shower Theme Feting Miss Youngblood

In a unique setting of an old plantation home, Miss Ann Youngblood, popular bride-elect of Dickie Crowe, was honored at a kitchen shower in the home of Mrs. Bobby Pappas on Loop Road. Co-hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Pappas, Mrs. A. P. Kimmig, and Mrs. Hoyle Kite. The theme was cleverly portrayed with a life - sized Creole mammy doll presiding over a wheelbarrow filled with numerous and varied gifts. The Pappas home was beautifully decorated with artistic arrangements of caladium leaves, yellow roses, and multi - colored chrysanthemums.

Cookies and cake made from original old Kentucky recipes looked delicious on the kitchen table which was adorned with a miniature Creole mammy doll on a white imported linen table cloth. The treats were served by Misses Betty Hemphill and Carolyn Cummings. Miss Martha Jane Burns presided at the punch bowl.

The hostesses presented Miss Youngblood with an automatic deep fryer.

The honoree wore for the occasion a dress of white Italian silk. The sheath had many folds of tiny tucks and was trimmed in bride's lace. The dress was accented by an unusual red and yellow carnation corsage cleverly arranged with kitchen utensils, which was presented to her by the hostesses. Mrs. Youngblood wore a white sheath of silk trimmed with blue lace.

Those enjoying this occasion with the bride - to - be were Ann's grandmother, Mrs. B. W. McDonald and Mrs. Oris Welch from Lisbon. Other guests included were: Mesdames Tom Inskeep, Fred Johnson, Malcom Keith, Howard Lance, John Lewis, Jack Masur, J. P. McDonald, Richard Pierce, Bob Burns, O. O. Cummings, F. W. Dawson, Abe Dryer, John Guerriero, C. W. Dodgen, H. A. Genung, Howard Young, Ed Hemphill, Curtis Seamon, James Ussery, and Miss Jackie Masur. Miss Anne McDonald, Miss Donna McDonald, Miss Martha Burns, Miss Carolyn Cummings, Miss Dottie Dawson, Miss Lori Harris, and Miss Betty Hemphill.

Miss Youngblood was honor guest at a shower given by Miss Carolyn Cummings in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Cummings on Point Drive. Co-hostesses for the Saturday affair were Miss Dottie Dawson and Miss Sally Ryan.

Purple Wandering Jew and liriope formed the house decorations and in the dining room the centerpiece for the table was of rubrum lilies combined with tube roses. The honoree chose a trousseau frock of beige cotton made with full skirt and embroidered with pearls. Her white orchid corsage was a gift from her hostesses.

The guests included Miss Louise Gray, Miss Martha Burns, Miss Jackie Masur, Miss Donna McDonald, Miss Mary Lou McClendon, Mrs. Lynton Culpepper, Miss May Marston, Mrs. F. W. Dawson, Mrs. Bob Ellen, Mrs. Clifford Reeves, Mrs. Thomas Youngblood, Mrs. M. W. Crowe and Mrs. Louis Kusin.

Miss McKenzie Weds In Early Evening Ceremony Garden Reception Follows

In a ceremony at 6:30 o'clock this Saturday in St. Matthew's Catholic Church, Miss Monya Ann McKenzie was married to Dominick Anthony Merle.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fink and Mr. Merle is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Merle of Utica, New York.

The Reverend Dennis A. Curren officiated and Mrs. Della Williamson at the organ, presented a program of nuptial music. She accompanied Irving Ziedman, of Shreveport, soloist. White gladioli and asters filled the altar vases and baskets of the same blossoms with added touches of greenery were placed in the chancel.

Wearing a gown of white silk net and lace, the bride was given in marriage by her father. The close fitting bodice of lace featured long tight sleeves ending in points over the hands and a low rounded neckline. Tiers of net edged in Chantilly lace formed the billowing skirt. A coronet of pearls and sequins held her short veil of illusion. She wore a single pearl on a platinum chain around her neck and carried a pearl prayer book mounted with a bouquet of white orchids, fleur d'amour and tuberoses.

Miss Linda Faye McKenzie was her sister's maid of honor and Mrs. Billy Caldwell of West Monroe and Mrs. Robert DeCrosta of Baton Rouge, the bridesmaids. Their taffeta dresses were made with large balloon skirts with bodices in a deeper shade of velvet with Dolphin bows at the back. Their shoes were the same shade as their gowns and in their hair they wore matching bands of chiffon.

The honor attendant was dressed in pink and carried an arm bouquet of pink rosebuds. The bridesmaids wore blue and carried bouquets of pink glamelias. Rhonda Allbritton, dressed in a short white frock with wide bertha collar and tied in the back with a satin bow, acted as flower girl. Herbert Fink, Jr. was ringbearer.

Robert G. De Crosta served as best man and the groomsmen and ushers included Jo Dean, Tom Romeo, of Baton Rouge, Robert Cooper and Roland Coates.

A garden reception at the Fink home on Bayou DeSiard followed the ceremony. The entrance to the garden was marked by an arch entwined with smilax from which hung a large white wedding bell. Indirect lights in the trees and hurricane lamps placed about the lawn cast a soft glow over the colorful flower beds banked with white and pink caladium leaves. Adding beauty to the setting were strings of white Japanese lanterns and blue love birds in white cages.

Receiving with the bride and groom were their mothers and the bride's attendants. Mrs. Fink was dressed in turquoise lace with matching chiffon back panels. With this she wore a small pearl hat and bag with a corsage of white tuberoses. The groom's mother wore hyacinth blue chiffon designed with flowing skirt accented at the back with a large chiffon bow. Her accessories were white and she wore white rosebuds pinned at her shoulder.

The bride's table, with its handsome cut work cloth, was centered with the tiered wedding cake, embossed in pink and blue, and topped with a miniature church. The punch table held a large centerpiece of blue and pink blossoms in a silver container further carring out the blue and pink color scheme. The bride's book with a memory candle was placed on a lace covered table near the entrance.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Arkansas, Mrs. Merle was wearing a biege linen frock with biege and brown accessories and the orchid fror her bridal bouquet. On their return they will make their home in Beaumont, Texas.

Among the out - o f - town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Merle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oriole and children of Utica, New York, Mrs. Hunter White, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Geddie of Hollandale, Miss., Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rice of Little Rock, Ark., Dr. and Mrs. Maxwell Fink, Opelousas, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Zeidman, of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. Robert De Crosta, Mr. and Mrs. Jo Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Romeo all of Baton Rouge.

Feet Need Pampering In Summer

Ouch, my aching feet!

There is no doubt about it, summer is hard on feet. It's a temptation to go barelegged even when wearing street shoes, so one is likely to get blisters at the heels and toes, unless foot protectors are worn. Few girls take the trouble, so bandages at the heels are likely to mar pretty feet.

It seems incredible too, that girls who engage in active sports go sockless, but occasionally one sees a bicycler, tennis player and even a girl golfer without socks, inviting blisters and athlete's foot. Socks are absorbent and help soak up the moisture to prevent fungi from thriving.

If you are an avid hiker, don't attempt to walk any distance in beach sandals or sneakers. You'll need foot - supporting oxfords plus absorbent cotton socks, such as the mercerized type. Be sure your socks extend a good half-inch beyond your longest toe to permit comfort in action.

Why do feet hurt more in summer than winter? Foot doctors answer that one by explaining that heat expands blood vessels, so shoes feel tighter, constricting circulation. If you choose shoes especially for summer wear, they should be a half - size longer and a size wider to accomodate your summer foot stretch. If feet hurt after a strenuous day, prop them up higher than the head for a while, then give them a bit of exercise.

If a water blister occurs, apply an antiseptic around the blister with a cotton swab, and cover with a bandage.

Serve whipped evaporated milk shortly after it's been beaten because it does not hold up well.

Annual Colvin Family Reunion To Be Held

The annual Colivn family reunion will be held on Saturday, August 16, at the Fellowship Baptist Church, located three and one - half miles northeast of Dubach. The meeting will be an all-day affair beginning at 10:00 a.m. Baskets will be packed with wonderful food for the "picnic style dinner, to which all Colvins are invited.

One of the topics for discussion in the business meeting will be the furtherance of plans for the tabernacle which is to be located at the site of the old Unionville Baptist Church. Upon completion this will be the site for all the Colvin reunions in the future.

A program of interest to each member of the family has been planned and the guest speaker will be Dr. Paul J. Pennington of 124 Calvin Street in Ruston. Dr. Pennington is a professor and head of the speech department at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. Before coming to La. Tech in 1952 Dr. Pennington attended Henderson State Teacher College from which he received his B. A. degree, M. A. degree from Oklahoma University and his Ph. D. from Louisiana State University.

History of Colvin Family

The majority of north Louisiana Colvins are descendants of William Colvin and his wife, Martha Feaster, who settled in Chester county, South Carolina, in 1751. William's son, Andrew, never came to Louisiana, but four years after his death, his wife, Jemima Petri Colvin and eleven of their thirteen children migrated to Louisiana and took up land in what is now Lincoln parish, in 1853.

A total of 113 children were born to these eight sons and three daughters of Andrew and Jemima Colvin, and it is speculated that today there is probably not a town in north - central Louisiana which does not count a Colvin in its population. They comprise a large part of the population of Ruston Bernice, and Dubach. This family though large in number, has kept alive a feeling of kinship in remote branches and has brought about a remarkable family fellowship.

From 1916 to 1942, a reunion was held each year, but due to wartime restrictions the reunion was called off in 1942 and did not start again until 1953.

Rev. Rodney Colvin, who lives in Arcadia, is the president of the clan and urges all members of the Colvin families to be present for the reunion.

Japanese Art Enjoying New Round Of Popularity

LONDON — Cubism, surrealism and other forms of abstract art are strictly out as far as a growing body of European connoisseurs is concerned. For them, Japanese art is the thing nowadays.

Two major exhibitions opened recently in Paris and London are likely to accelerate the trend, these partisans predict.

Undoubtedly the exhibitions will direct the attention of a wider public to the fascination of the paintings, drawings and objets d'art produced by the Japanese—works hailed as unique in character.

Some 60 or 70 years ago, Japanese art was the vogue in Europe, and this was due primarily to the opening up of Japan that occurred in the second part of the 19th Century. The rage reached its peak before and just after World War I.

Then, unaccountably, the demand droppe doff. It was not until 1945, after World War II, that Japanese art began again to attract attention.

As a result of the growing demand, for prints especially, prices have tended to soar. Today, they stand five or six times as high as the average in 1939 and two or three times as high as they were just after the war.

Greatest interest lies in the earliest masters. Two prints by Kaigetsudo sold recently for more than $2,800 each.

Any prints from the early 18th Century, in fact, usually fetch at least $280 in London salerooms.

RADIATOR PAINT TIP

In painting steam radiators, remember that more heat comes through a flat paint than through a glossy paint. Metallic paint finishes keep the heat in.

Leftover cooked rice in the refrigerator? You can glamorize it by mixing it with well drained crushed pineapple and folding in sweetened whipped cream. Have the pineapple chilled before adding and garnish the dessert with cherries.

USE INTERIOR VARNISH

On interior floors don't make the mistake of using spar varnish. Spar varnish produces a flexible, weather - resistant fillm but it will not stand up under heavy foot traffic. Use an interior floor varnish instead.

They do say that the only way to forget discomfort is to stay busy. So the custom hereabouts is to stay occupied with such a round of social activity that we haven't time to think about the heat.

One set of parties this week has been those in honor of SYBIL SMITH of Memphis, and her sister, JOHNNIE GREENWOOD of Orlando, Florida. Sybil and her four children, ZELL III, CAROL, KATHLEEN, and ANN, have been the guests of her mother-in-law, HERNDON SMITH. Last Sunday they attended a family reunion in Union parish.

On Monday Herndon honored the sisters with a dessert bridge in her home. Three tables played, with BETTY HARRIS winning high, and VIRGINIA WARNER the cut prize. Lemon pie was served, with coffee.

JEANNETTE ACKEL entertained with a luncheon at the Italian Village on Tuesday. White African daisies centered the table, where places were laid fo rseven guests. The hostess presented the honorees with dainty hand - painted bracelets.

A family group of four grown-ups and seven children enjoyed the party hosted by WINNIE SHAVER on Wednesday. Winnie took her cousins to Bayou DeSiard Country Club for a swim, with a hamburger lunch later.

For dessert she served a marvelous lemon cake with orange and lemon filling.

Hostesses on Thursday were BENNIE ABEL and KAK SHELTON, who entertained with a luncheon in the Abel home on Deborah drive. The dining room made a lovely setting with the painted brick wall and the view of the bayou. Hanging above the buffet table was a length of material matted like a picture on burlap and swung from a brass rod. The brown, aqua, bittersweet, and mossy green napkins picked up the colors of the wall and of the material. At the opposite end of the table was an arrangement of bittersweet zinnias done in a white bowl on a brass stand . . . Feature of the menu were baked potato shells stuffed with shrimp, bell peppers, and pimientos. With this Bennie and Kak served frozen fruit salad and a cold vegetable platter of marinated beans, tomatos, and cauliflowerets. Pound cake and coffee were the finishing touch. Twenty - eight guests attended.

RHODA NORMANN and her four children have been the guests of her mother, LOUISE LEIGH, this week. Monday evening Louise invited relatives and a few little friends to supper on her grandson Mike's birthday. Japanese lanterns were swung in the trees where the children played on the patio. Favors were fans and miniature umbrellas for the girls and "purple people eater" hats for the boys. Fried chicken, potato chips, deviled eggs, and peppermint sticks were served picnic style.

A sherry party Wednesday afternoon was JUNE M'HENRY's compliment to Rhoda. June used all silver serving pieces, making an interesting picture against the bare, polished table. Watercress sandwiches, cheese straws, and fudge were served. About twenty friends enjoyed the party and the chance for a visit with the honoree.

LAWRENCE SHIPMAN, who is leaving this weekend for a vacation in Wisconsin.

Two of Monroe's favorite citizens, MARY LEE and "DOC" MILAM, were honored last weekend with a reception at home on their silver wedding anniversary. Hostesses were JOHNNIE SMITH ELBERT and LOUISE THOMPSON. White flowers were used throughout the house. Twin arrangements of white glads, stock, and Majestic daisies were placed on the high mantel in the living room. The same flowers were used in silver epergnes on the refreshment tables in the dining room and on the sun porch. A pyramid of fresh fruit sprayed white was used on a side table. Silver, of course, was used exclusively in the table appointments. A real conversation piece was the German silver nut dish encircled with tiny cupids.

Here, in old plantation language, are three of "Daddy Do-Funny's Wisdom Jingles" by Ruth Stuart:

If the hoarse old rooster wouldn't crow so loud
He might pass for yousg in the barn-yard crowd;
But he strives so hard and he steps so spry
That the pullets all winks whilst he marches by.
And he ain't by hisself in dat—
And he ain't by hisself in dat.
With so much Christian blood in his veins
You'd think Brer Skeeter would take some pains
To love his neighbor and show good will,
But he's poisoning and back-biting still.
And he ain't by hisself in dat—
He ain't by hisself in dat.
Brer Crawfish throws a reckless bluff
And he sho do look like fighting stuff,
But turn him loose on a battle-ground
And he'll bow hisself out and never turn round.
And he ain't by hisself in dat—
He ain't by hisself in dat.

On the other end was placed a crystal punch bowl, footed with lace and rosebuds. Miss Jane Buckles and Miss Wanda Stevenson served the cake.

The bride's book in the foyer was on a console decorated with bridesmaid's bouquet and a single taper, set in silver candelabrum. Miss Mary Beggs of Monroe presided at the register.

By GAY PAULEY

PARIS (UPI) — Look what's sneaking back into fashion—the sexy sheath.

This little dress, a lost waif during the brief reign of the sack, emerged cautiously and is not yet offering competition to the high - waisted empire silhouette which had dominated almost all Paris designers' collections for fall and winter.

But the sheath is there, hugging every curve, in both daytime and cocktail clothes. One of its major boosters is Serge Matta, who made his debut this week. Other designers have returned to figure flattery with the waist cincher

Whether more of the same is on the way will be determined today with the powerful House of Christian Dior shows. Yves Saint Laurent, the late Dior's successor, commented just before "curtain time" but gave no hint of what was coming.

"I'll just show clothes I like," he said.

This was Saint Laurent's second Paris collection.

The one for the Dior New York wholesale firm, shown three weeks ago, placed belts high. But otherwise there was no hint of the empire.

Matta, a native of Chile, was one of three of the younger set of designers to show Wednesday. The others were Guy Laroche, 33, and Michel Goma, 25.

All three hampered a girl's midriff. Goma left waistlines where nature put them in his daytime clothes but lifted them for evening.

Laroche showed both the normal and the you-know-what (I'll be darned if I'll say empire again) but the latter dominated.

Paris Fashion Shows Put Accent On Youth

PARIS — Youth has its day in the current lineup of the French haute couture.

Two newcomers are opening fashion houses to join the famous names of Paris designers during the showings of fall fashions for international buyers and press. A third shows his initial collection for an established house.

Michel Goma, a slender, soft-spoken youth of 26, joins Serge Matta, 35 - year - old Chilean, and Roland Kral, 24-year-old German, in the newcomers' list. Goma and Matta head their own houses, while Karl designs the Jean Patou collection.

In spite of their youth, none of the three is a beginner. Matta worked with Schiaparelli and Fath, Karl has been with Balmain for four years, and Goma designed for the association (A.C.P.) which took over Lafaurie when that house closed six years ago.

"Actually," says Goma, "I've been designing since I was 3. That's when I got interested in dressing dolls. My father was very much against it, but I've never liked doing anything else."

The new Goma house, in Lafaurie's old quarters at 12 Faubourg St. Honore, will be a neighbor of Lanvin and several smaller couture houses. The young designer admits that he has an angel — "We're very healthy financially, you may say" — but declines to reveal the identity of his backer. Speculation may inevitably turn to Boussac, the textile collosus who owns the house of Dior and who has just converted a smaller couture house, Pierre Clarence, to ready-to-wear.

To wean young Michel away from his dolls, his father enrolled him in the Beaux Arts school of Montpellier. At 20, Goma left without a word to his family and came to Paris to seek an interview with Christian Dior.

Though Dior did not hire him, he praised Goma's talent and encouraged him to work toward a house of his own.

Goma has one older brother, a businessman "who isn't interested in fashion at all." Since his father's death, Goma's mother has joined him in Paris. They share a small flat near the Champ de Mars and the Eiffel Tower.

Although he speaks not a word of English, Goma is hoping to make his first trip to America in September.

The young designer has his own unique system of working. All his clothes are first made up in miniature for a plaster doll, about twenty inches high. And the sketching and draping is always done to music — inevitably Mozart. Goma says he has made his first independent collection to the melodies of Mozart's "Ariane Anaxos." Next to music, he most enjoys rambling in the French countryside

MRS. BENJAMIN WILLIAM BROWN

Miss Rives Is Wed To Lt. Brown In Chapel Rites

A simple and beautiful background setting in the picturesque Wesley Chapel Methodist Church was used for the single ring ceremony when Miss Catherine Ann Rives became the bride of Lieutenant Benjamin William Brown. Rev. Arthur M. Baker of New Orleans officiated at the ceremony which took place last Saturday evening, July twenty sixth at half past six o'clock.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Rives of St. Joseph and the groom's parents are Mr. George Brown and the late Mrs. Brown of Mount Joy, Pennsylvania.

The altar rail was draped with Magnolia leaves, as was the archway in the back ground. Tall baskets of white gladioli, stock and mums flanked the seven branches candelabrum. White satin loops marked the pews outling the bridal aisle.

Music for the ceremony was presented by Mrs. Paul Page organist. She also accompanied Mrs. Loren Enete who sang.

Miss Letitia Murrell of Amite, was the bride's maid of honor. She was gowned in a waltz length royal blue organza. It was detailed with a scoop neckline, small cap sleeves, and a fitted bodice. The waist was cinched with a wide belt. The slim skirt was overlaid with a voluminous poof which ended just above the hemline. She wore a matching hat of organdy and tulle and matching satin shoes. She carried a crescent shaped bouquet of white carnations and violet blue agapanthus.

Other attendants were Mrs. Frank Zink of Mount Joy, Pa., a sister of the groom, and Miss Jewel Vegas of Westwego. They wore gowns fashioned identically to the maid of honor and carried matching bouquets.

Miss Gail Rives, sister of the bride, served as junior bridesmaid and was gowned in white organdy and carried a bouquet of white carnations and blue agapanthus.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of organdy and satin. The fitted princess bodice was of satin with a sweet heart neckline and short sleeves trimmed with Swiss lace. The flowing skirt of organdy was gathered at the hip line and fell into a chapel length train. It was trimmed with bands of satin, and Swiss lace. The tiered fingertip veil of illusion fell from a cap of lace and satin encrusted with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of purple throated white orchids embedded in white satin ribbon and nylon tulle and surrounded with white caladuim leaves and lilies of the valley.

Mr. George Brown of Mount Joy Pennsylvania served his son as best man. The groomsmen and ushers were Thomas Smith of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania; Mr. Robert Butteria of Morristown, Pennsylvania and Lt. David Carson of Strausburg, Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Rives chose to wear for her daughter's wedding, a pale blue silk organza dress with a lavender orchid corsage. Miss Ester Henry, of Mount Joy, aunt of the groom was attired in tucked chiffon and lace model in soft mauve.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's family on Delta Plantation.

Miss Peggy Cook presided at the brides book.

The brides table was laid with a starched linen cloth detailed with a lace panels. In the center was a columnar wedding cake embossed with white sugar spun roses and dainty green leaves. Serving the cake were Mrs. L. H. Cook and Mrs. Margaret Davis. Presiding at the punch service were Mrs. Ed Y. Berry, Miss Catherine Ann Berry and Mrs. C. A. Loyd.

Following the reception the couple left for a honeymoon trip thru the Appalachain Mountains. The bride chose for traveling a navy blue silk shantung sheath trimmed in white, with accessories of navy and white.

Upon their return, the couple will be at home at Fort Walton Beach Florida, where the groom is stationed at Eglin Air Force Base.

Out of town guests for the wedding included Mrs. Kohl Brokaw of Palm Beach, Florida, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Roper, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Crigler of Ferriday, Mr. and Mrs. Burie Hammond of Tallulah, Mrs. Margaret Davis and Miss Ferry Anderson of Natchez, Dr. and Mrs. Pollard Coleman of Ferriday, Mr. Elliot Evans of Baton Rouge, Mrs. Thelma Hopkins of Houma, Mrs. A. D. Bennett of Midland, Texas, Lt. William Blackman of Waco, Texas, Mr. Frank Zink of Mount Joy Pa., Miss Corinda Zink, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Curtis of Baton Rouge, Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Earnest of Monroe, and Miss Nancy Bruton of New Orleans.

MISS FLORENCE SCIVICQUE'S engagement and approaching marriage to Charles Ray Crowder is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Scivicque, of Denham Springs. Mr. Crowder is the son of Mrs. C. R. Pipkins, of Pioneer. The ceremony will be solemnized at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church in Denham Springs, with the Rev. Fuller B. Saunders officiating.

DRINKING DIVIDENDS

BOSTON (AP) — Advice to a drunk from the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Assn. news letter:

"Since you cannot refrain from drinking, why not start a saloon of your own in your own home? Be the only customer and you will not have to buy a license.

"Give your wife $55 to buy a case of whisky. There are 240 drinks in a case. Buy all your drinks from your wife at 60 cents a drink.

"In 12 days (when the case is gone) your wife will have $89 to put in the bank and $55 to buy another case. If you live 10 years and continue to buy your whisky from your wife and die in your boots, your widow will have $27,125.47 on deposit.

"That's enough to bring up your children, pay off the mortgage, marry a decent man and forget she ever knew a bum like you."

Love Must Undoubtedly Be The Only Answer

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Husbands, sons and lovers lead harrowing lives, in the opinion of many male critics. After reading a file of current periodicals, one might conclude that America is developing a race of woman-haters.

The U. S. female is accused consecutively of making sissies out of her sons, of dominating her husband, of driving her menfolk to early graves, of demanding minks, automobiles and diamonds in return for her affection, of idling away her days in beauty shops and at bridge clubs, of being spoiled, selfish and generally unbearable.

Comes now John Fischer, editor in chief of Harper's magazine, who finds a new bone to pick, in an article entitled "The Non-sexual Behavior of the Human Female." He says all the Kinsey reports on sexual behavior are a waste of time, because most adults know all about such things anyway. It's the other traits of females which deserve study, in his opinion.

All women are deciduous, says Fischer. That is, they shed gloves, lipsticks, handbags and handkerchiefs like a tree sheds leaves, and men must spend a large part of their lives picking up after them.

This observation is no doubt well taken. Women often do have the habit of leaving a trail of small objects in their wake. But what about men?

Any wife will testify that much of her day is spent gathering up her husband's socks from under the bed or on top of the television set, removing his soiled shirts from the closet floor and putting them in the laundry hamper, collecting assorted trousers and shorts from the corners of closet doors and hanging them where they belong, collecting the cuff links, lighters, matches, empty cigarette packages, soiled handkerchiefs and tie pins he sheds about the house as he makes his way from the front door to the bedroom to change clothes when he gets home from work.

Yet women keep on marrying these untidy males, and men keep on courting these deciduous women.

And the reason must be that they love each other, despite surveys, statistics and editorial heckling.

The bidding:

West, 1 diamond; North, Double; East, Pass; South, 2 spades; West, Pass; North, 2 no trump; East, Pass; South, 4 spades; West Pass; North, 5 spades; East, Pass South, 6 spades; West, Pass; North, Pass; East, Pass.

Opening lead: Diamond king.

In the successful manipulation of the squeeze play, the diagnosis is at times more difficult than the actual execution. A delay of even one trick in recognizing the possibilities of the play may spell defeat.

In today's hand declarer had to make his decision at the very first trick. Had he faltered for but a moment he would have lost a very rich harvest.

The bidding sequence was normal enough. The only call of special interest is North's bid of five spades. On simple logical deduction South concluded that the message intended was: "Partner, everything is under control but the suit the enemy has bid; how are you fixed in that department?" Since North had not chosen a slam try by showing an ace it is evident that he had them both.

The king of diamonds was opened and declarer paused for a moment to map his campaign and found that his worries were centered around two possible club losers.

The opening bid made it clear that West held the king of clubs and that the only way to win the hand was on a squeeze. The successful operation of a squeeze calls for the concession of the inevitable loser to the opposition, and there was not better time than this to give up the trick.

West was permitted to hold the king of diamonds, South discarding a club. West shifted to a trump. Declarer ruffed a diamond, entered dummy with a heart and ruffed a fourth diamond. This time East failed to follow, marking West with the remainder of that suit.

Declarer then ran down all the trumps and the high hearts, coming down to two cards in his own hand, the queen and another club. At this point West held the ace of diamonds and the king and another club, with a discard yet to make. Since dummy still held the ten of diamonds, West found it impossible to discard and declarer made the balance of the tricks.

FALL FASHIONS

Any Shape Will Do For This Fall

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—The American woman may be shaped like a pear, a balloon, a bell, book or candle next fall.

Such are the shapes of fashion as previewed to the nation's fashion press today in the opening of a hectic week of fall showings by New York's couture group of designers.

Commentators avoid the use of the word "chemise" like a plague. But the unfitted silhouette, by many another name, is still the predominant influence in the fall fashion lineup, with the high-waisted Empire silhouette the favorite variation.

Women who have been afraid of their husbands ever since the arrival of the potato bag silhouette may take comfort in the fact that new fall fashions offer many versions of the no-waistline look, and that designers have modified and adapted the more bizarre styles to suggest at least if not accent the lines of the human body.

Although belts never appear at the natural waistline and seem to be added as afterthoughts, they are present and accounted for, placed just below the bust or anywhere from the hips to the hem.

The Empire silhouette, which appears in every collection, takes various forms. As a "camise," it features a soft, slender line, with drawstrings at neckline and just below the bust. As a Directoire silhouette, it may have a high sash and flowing skirt. As a Trapeze, it may flare sharply, pyramid style, from shoulders to hemline.

Skirts are shorter than ever, revealing the knees of the wearers, and posing difficulties in sitting or stepping into taxicabs without undue exposure.

Suits have brief bolero jackets or short, boxy jackets ending at waist or hipbone, with most skirts attached to a bodice to achieve the important high-waisted, loose look. Even in suits, few skirts hang from the natural waistline. Suit blouses are mostly overblouses ending just below the bust usually done in matching or coordinated fabric, sometimes matching the jacket lining.

The new fashions demand new attitudes on the part of the wearer. This fall, for instance, you never, never cinch in your waistline, and you learn to walk with that slinky debutante slouch popular in the 1920s. Your costume should not touch your body except at the shoulders and perhaps the hipline. The waist is sternly ignored.

DEAR ABBY

Big-Hearted Husband Presents A Problem

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a big-hearted, empty-headed husband. Our former neighbors wrote and asked if they could visit us for a week this summer. We said yes, so they came. Every meal was a banquet. I washed and ironed their clothes, picked up after them and made them feel at home. I am 63 and get tired easily but I never complained. I got up at 5:30 packed my husband's lunch bucket and waited on the company all day. When they left, my husband asked them to STOP ON THEIR WAY BACK and visit us again (in about six days) which they sure did. He said he never dreamed they'd take him up on it. I am very mad at him. Did he have the right to invite them back as soon without consulting me? DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: The only thing bigger than your husband's heart was his mouth when he put his foot in it. The incident is now history, but don't let history repeat itself. Brief your husband, Lady—BRIEFLY but FIRMLY.

DEAR ABBY: I am getting engaged next month. My fiance can't afford a diamond so he is buying me a pearl ring. My mother refuses to give an engagement party for me unless I get a diamond because she says if I don't get a diamond it will look like I gave the party only for the presents. She says I should insist on a diamond because an engagement without a diamond is no engagement. Please give me your opinion, Abby.

DEAR TO BE: A pearl, a fraternity pin or a simple reply in the affirmative to a proposal of marriage constitutes an engagement. A girl who insists on a rock for her finger, has rocks in her head.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine called me up one night when my husband was supposed to be at a Lodge meeting and said if I wanted to see my husband and his girlfriend to go to a certain bar. I took the bus down there and when I walked in and he saw me you'd think he'd seen a ghost. I made a pass at her and he stopped me with his left. We had a few words and next thing I knew I was in the hospital with four broken ribs and six stitches over my eye. I spent three days and nights in the hospital. My husband came up to see me the first night with his parole officer and he brought me a dozen carnations and a watermelon. It's sweet things like that that make me love him so much. Do you think I should press charges against him, leave him, or give him another chance?

A FOOL IN LOVE

DEAR FOOL: If a dozen carnations and a watermelon can make you forget four broken ribs and six stitches in your head, I think you ought to see one more doctor—a psychiatrist. Women who love men in spite of physical beatings are sick.

DEAR ABBY: I have a boyfriend who wants to grow a "Vandyke" beard. I am very much against this idea. He claims it will aid him in his profession as it will make him look older. As far as I am concerned, I think he should consider my feelings in the matter since he is supposed to love me. Which should come first, his love or his profession?

MRS. BOBBY J. SIMMONS

Bobby Simmons Takes Bride In Arkansas

In a candlelight service at 8 p.m., Thursday July 3, in the First Methodist Church in Clarksville, Arkansas, Miss Sandra Sykes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sykes of Clarksville, became the bride of Bobby J. Simmons of Arcadia.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend David P. Conyers, before an altar decorated with candelabra, palms, and white stock with gladioli.

Mrs. Winston May, sister of the bride, sang "Until," "Through the Years," and "The Lord's Prayer." She was accompanied by Miss Margaret Sibert, organist.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a white waltz-length dress, with an embroidered polished cotton bodice, and a full chiffon skirt over satin. The dress was styled with a round neckline, and small cap sleeves. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a small crown of seed pearls and she carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

Miss Iris Walker, serving as maid of honor, was dressed in yellow polished cotton with matching cummerbund. Her flowers were a bouquet of yellow roses and fluer-do-mour.

Reubin A. Simmons of Monroe, served his cousin as best man. Tommy Sykes of Independence, Missouri, and David Sukes of Clarksville, brothers of the bride, served as ushers, and were also candlelighters.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. The bride's table was covered with a white organdy over white satin, and arrangements of yellow rosebuds and white and yellow pompoms were used in the decorations.

Serving at the reception were Miss Louise King of Little Rock, Arkansas, Miss Barbara Thompson, Miss Arlie Jean Stokes and Miss Ouida White. Miss Norma Beth Frost presided over the guest book.

Mrs. Sykes and Mrs. Simmons, mothers of the bride and groom, were both dressed in pastel blue lace with white accessories, and each wore an orchid corsage.

DIRECTORS FREE KITTEN

MILAN, Italy (UPI)—It took three days to free a kitten imprisoned under a power station basement stairway. Why? Because a directors' meeting had to be called to discuss the issue. After deliberating, they decided to free the kitten by demolishing a wall laced with important power lines. The company provided free meals daily for the prisoner, pushing them through a narrow slit.

MR. AND MRS. RAY MORRIS TRISLER

Trisler-Epps Troth Pledged By Candlelight

At seven o'clock in the evening on July 26 nuptial vows were exchanged between Miss Barbara Ann Epps of West Monroe and Ray Morris Trisler of Start and Jackson, Mississippi.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Madison Holly, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Noah Redick Trisler of Start.

Myriads of cathedral tapers in five standards of sevenbranched candelabra lighted the Start Baptist Church for the double ring ceremony. Floor baskets of yellow asters and marigolds against nandina foliage flanked the altar. Ivy garlands were entwined on the wrought iron bases of all the decor. Above the bridal party on the ledge of the baptistry and in alternate windows along the sides of the auditorium stood seven white candles.

Rev. James S. Deal heard the plighting of the troths.

Mrs. Andrew Cole played the lovely, "If I Could Tell You" while the tapers were lighted by William Moore and Fred Watson, the ushers. She also played the traditional wedding marches.

Preceding the bride down to the altar where the groom waited with his best man, Harold Watson, and groomsman, William Wade, were Miss Patsy Epps, sister of the bride, and Mrs. William Wade, twin sister of the groom. Both wore dresses of yellow flock - dotted nylon organza over yellow tiered taffeta. The shirred shoulder droped neckline and bouffant skirt added old South touches to the picturesque setting. Bandeaus covered the same material as the dresses were worn by each. A nosegay of cream colored glamelia with strips of yellow maline and streamers of yellow satin ribbon completed their ensemble.

Allen Wayne Trisler, nephew of the groom, carried the rings on a white satin covered pillow.

The radiant bride who was given in marriage by her father, entered wearing a gown of Chantilly lace overlaid on net and taffeta. The basque bodice which extended into the bouffant skirt had a scalloped Sabrina neckline. The scallops were repeated in the hemline of the lace skirt which was caught up in the back to reveal tier upon tier of net ruffles, matching lace mitts and an Elizabethian coronet of seed pearls. The nuptial bouquet was a gigantic white orchid, tube roses, white foliage and white net with satin ribbon.

Mrs. Holly was becomingly dressed in navy crepe with navy and white accessories, while Mrs. Trisler, mother of the groom, was attired in a blue and white cotton mesh dress with white accessories. Both wore corsages of white tube roses.

Immediately after the ceremony the reception rooms of the church were filled with well - wishers.

Miss Virginia Wiggins of West Monroe presided at the bridal registry.

The parents of both families and the wedding party received the guests.

The bride's table was laid in heavy lace over yellow.

Serving the four tiered wedding cake was Mrs. Bobby McElroy, Mrs. Jerry Fuller served at the punch bowl.

The couple will make their home in Jackson, where Mr. Trisler is attending a business college.

Baptist Church Setting For Recent Vows

The New Chapel Hill Baptist Church was the scene of the marriage of Miss Mariam Louise Williams and Jerry L. Harrell.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Williams of West Monroe and Mr. Harrell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Harrell.

Reverend Earl Williams, brother of the bride, performed the afternoon ceremony before an arch entwined with greenery and flanked with baskets of white gladioli backed by rows of tall white burning tapers. Mrs. Clara Nolan presented the organ music and accompanied Mrs. Billie Little, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of lace and silk organza over taffeta. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a crown of pearls and she carried a bouquet of white sweetheart roses tied with satin ribbons.

Miss Barbara DeLouche was the maid of honor and Miss Sarah Little and Miss Shelby Garner, bridesmaids. Their dresses were of orchid cotton satin made with billowing over skirts of matching nylon organza. In their hair they wore similar headdresses to that of the bride and carried bouquets of purple and orchid asters caught with orchid ribbons. Nancy Lou Foote dressed in turquoise chrystalene with net overskirt, acted as flower girl.

Jerry Kenneth Saxon, cousin of the bride served the groom as best man. The ushers included Johnny Williams, brother of the bride, Tommy Saxon, her cousin, and Albert Terrell Fike, nephew of the groom Miss Ann Saxon and Miss Charlotte were candle lighters.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Williams wore a dress of pink lace accented by a white carnation corsage. Mrs. Harrell chose to wear a summer dress of lavender with a corsarge of white blossoms.

A reception followed in the parlors of the church. The bride's table was covered with a white cloth and centered with sweetheart roses and tall white tapers.

Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Harrell left for a trip to New Orleans. She traveled in a fitted biege suit with biege accessories and a corsage of white sweetheart roses.

Girl Scout News

While memories are still fresh, we have some odds and ends of day camp news that we'd like to use. The second session was a delightful adventure in friendship, as 23 campers, five program aides and four staff members were from Farmerville. From all reports the girls enjoyed Pine Wood as much as the local girls always have, and, in turn, the local girls made new friends and learned to appreciate Scouts of another community. The pattern has apparently been set for a continuation of the joint camp. Many adults from Farmerville who were present for the closing campfire expressed their appreciation of the opportunity for their girls. We're lucky to have a beautiful site, made possible by individuals in our community who have given money, material, and effort to build and maintain it. Without volunteer staff there would be no day camping, nor without United Givers to provide an office and professional leadership to direct camp. Credit goes to the Louisiana Forestry Department and the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries for furnishing men to help with camp program. Union parish officials keep up our road, test the water, spray our grounds. It takes all this for a successful camp.

Troop 24, Southside Junior High, Mrs. Edmund Middleton, leader, gave money to buy another red wagon to be used for hauling ice and other loads around camp. Troop 51, Sherrouse School, Mrs. Woodrow Hathorn, leader, gave an electric clock for the main building.

Camp Council is the representative governing body for a Girl Scout camp, planning all - camp affairs and making suggestions. For the second session Frances Byrd was representative from Century Oak Unit, Elizabeth Phillips from Pine Tree Korner, Gwen McPhail from Pine Grove, Helena Horn from Home-in-the-Woods, Ashlie Pickett from Home of the Brownies and Stephanie Davis from Happy Pines.

Pine Wood campers are bound to be outdoor citizens after this year's camp program on the "Outdoor Good Turn." They will be particularly conscious of protecting the trees, planting more trees, leaving the ground cover instead of raking it off, planting or leaving cover and food plants for the birds.

Caldwell Parish camp closed Friday with a campfire at dusk with visitors invited to picnic, as is done at Pine Wood. Directed by Mrs. W. M. Causey, the eight-day camp at Thompson's Acres enrolled 45 girls, with nine staff members and nine program aides. They have had trips with Forestry men and a trip to the game preserve, as well as campcraft, firebuilding, outdoor cooking, lashing, singing, campfires, hikes to explore the nice hills and gullies around the camp.

A visit to the camp found one of our Pine Wood campers, Diane Stringer, among the number. Diane had attended Pine Wood for her third summer, went to visit her grandmother and went right on camping. There's something about Girl Scout camping!

FALL'S MOST TRAVEL - WORTHY CASUAL
... ARTFULLY CUT BY DAVID CRYSTAL

PROMINENT DESIGNER "BY DAVID CRYSTAL" is another way of saying "the most distinguished casual fashions in America"—a reputation held by this renowned house for over fifty years. Today's pattern typifies the Crystal art—relaxed, but elegant in design and detailing. Sloping from narrowed shoulders, the top blouses easily above a sleek, skinny skirt. Good news for home couturiers—there are no waist seams. An elastic casing creates the blousing, eliminating fitting worries. Note the kimono cut of the sleeves, the collar that lightly curves away from the neck. Original was in a grey tweed; and in an electric-blue wool. We also love the idea of dark-toned cotton, challis, surah, tie-silk, or jersey.

Thousands Will See Passion Play

By HAROLD S. MILNER

SPEARFISH, S.D. (AP)—Each year, hundreds of thousands of persons — religious or just plain curious — make a pilgrimage to what has been called the American Oberammergau.

The event is the Black Hills Passion Play, the story of Jesus' last week on earth presented thrice weekly from June through August in Spearfish and from January through Easter in Lake Wales, Fla.

Since it was first staged in 1932, the Black Hills Passion Play has been presented about 5,000 times and has been witnessed by more than five million persons.

The steadily mounting attendance is gratifying to Josef Meier, a German immigrant who brought the play to the United States in the depths of the depression and many times saw the cast outnumber the audience.

Meier, who has portrayed Christ in the production several thousand times, says it's faith that holds his small interdenominational troupe together. Often he has seasoned short rations with the admonition: "The important thing is that they (the audience) go home with the story of Jesus."

The Black Hills Passion Play is a slightly modernized verson of one presented for centuries in Germany. Embellishments include delicate lighting and the realism of three camels, numerous horses, donkeys, a flock of white fantailed pigeons, stirring organ music and a select chorus.

Performances are given at Spearfish every Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday on a 2½ block long outdoor stage.

The elements definitely have been kind. Over a 20-year period at Spearfish only 13 performances have been canceled because of rain. In Lake Wales, five performances have been rained out in six seasons.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I joined the Church more than two years ago but do not see much difference in my life. What is the matter?

ANSWER: There could be several reasons. When you joined the Church, did you become a Christian through faith in Jesus Christ? Joining of the Church is an act of association with others who are Christians, it is a fellowship of believers, of people who believe in Christ as Savior and make Him the Lord of life. For that reason it is essential that you recognize Christ as the Son of God and your Savior from sin. But Christian experience begins here, not siops. The Bible says: "Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: Old things are passed away; behold all things are become new." When Christ comes and lives in your heart, your desires, hopes, pleasures should center in Him. He should be first in everything. This does not mean that we will not be tempted for as long as we live in our present bodies we will be subject to temptations. But it does mean that we now have Christ to help us when temptations come and He will give the strength to overcome and show the way to escape. It is possible that you have noted no difference in your life because you have neglected daily prayer and Bible study. No one can grow without food to eat, water to drink and air to breathe. No Christian can grow spiritually without daily prayer to God and study of His Word. Try this after you have surrendered your heart to Christ and I promise you there will be a great difference in your life.

THE HOME SHIFT

Time To Treat Dried Plants

By MILDRED SWIFT

Now is the time to gather and treat dried materials for winter arrangements and compositions. One yearns for beauty in the home in the winter months. That is the time when we must depend on foliage, berries and dry materials we have gathered and dried earlier in the year.

Four Methods

The four generally recognized methods for preserving plant materials are:

(1) The upside down method. First strip the stem of foliage. Hang head down in a warm, dry place. If you wish to keep the color; cover with a paper bag. Some of the plants that may be dried by this method are acacia, baby's breath, caster bean, cockscomb, clover, crepe myrtle, dock, dusty miller, fungus, goldenrod, hydrangea, double marigold, onion flower, okra, pampas grass, statice, spider flower, thistle and vitex.

(2) Leaves of magnolia, aspidistra, eucolyptus are prettier if cured with glycerine. Use a deep container, put one - half water, one - half glycerine. Hammer the ends of the sems so they are soft and will absorb the glycerine. Keep in a cool place. The leaves turn a gorgeous bronze and can be used year after year. Don't try to preserve enormous limbs as the glycerine can't reach the tips before the leaves die.

Plants that can be preserved by this method are: aspidistra, eleagnus, forsythia, holly, ivy, Japan plum, Japanese yew, ligustrum, magnolia, oleander, pottisporum, vibernum.

(3) The sand or borax method is best for preserving flowers. Strip the stem of foliage. Sift sand or borax over material gently until well covered. Time needed is two to five weeks for complete drying. This method preserves the natural color of plants.

Flowers that can be preserved this way are: balsam, balloon flower, butterly bush, candytuft, chrysanthemum, clematis, cosmos, cornflower, dahlia, gladiolus, liatris, lupine, morning bride, pansy, poker plant, rose rose Montana, stock sunflower, violet, zinnia, Queen Ann's lace.

The fourth method is by pressing between sheets of rough paper and under a weight. Plants preserved by this method are: Acacia, coleus, fern, forget-me-not, geranium leaves, mimosa, montbretia, and parsley.

Other Methods

Cattails should be allowed to dry a couple of weeks after gathering. Then dip them in a mixture of half clear varnish and half thinner. Hang on the clothes line with a clothes pin holder, until dry.

If you want the cattails colored, dip them in thin paint. You'll have to dip them several times, letting each layer dry. I painted some pink once, six years ago, and they're still in perfect condition. If cattails are not painted or varnished they shed within a few months. Believe me that's a job to clean up.

Certain materials dry better if put in a vase in about an inch of water and let stand until water evaporates as: dusty miller, asperdistra, berried plants.

Croton, ginkgo and maple leaves hold color if dipped in melted paraffin and pressed with a warm iron between sheets of paper.

Some leaves such as magnolia, rubber plant and dracena may be varnished or painted.

To skeletonize magnolia leaves: Use leaf just matured, bright green leaf, not too old. Make a solution of 3 quarts of water and 1-3 cup of lye. Bring to boil and drop leaves in solution. Boil for 15 minutes and let stand for 30 minutes in solution. Rinse well. Remove green leaf tissue with soft brush. Bleach in strong Clorox solution. Press between absorbent paper under weight for several days.

There are several books on drying plant materials. Call on your library or the garden center. You'll pick up any number of new ideas. Don't foret ornamental gourds. There are a number of methods mentioned in the books.

Around the House

If you're planning to repaint those porch or kitchen chairs, here's a way to prevent the legs from sticking to the floor when the paint has dried: Simply turn the chair over and drive a small nail a short way into the bottom of each leg. Then spread newspaper and stand the chair on the nail heads and paint away. Once the paint has dried, the nails can easily be pulled free with a pair of pliers.

Renew old windshield wiper blades that no longer wipe clean by giving them a sandpaper treatment. Lay the sandpaper on a flat surface and run the blade lightly across the surface, lengthwise. When you've finished, the edge should be straight, square and free of grease.

A good way to keep a wired brassiere fresh and dainty is with a well lathered brush. Scrub seams and welting with soap or detergent suds after each wearing. You can't squeeze a wired bra in the suds and get it clean as it should be.

Keep your jewelry shining with soap or detergent suds. Whether its precious jewelry or fake, washing is good for it. If stones are glued into their settings, or beads are strung on elasticized threads, don't submerge the jewelry. Instead lather it thickly with a soft brush or sponge, rinse with a clean damp cloth, and wipe dry.

When washing frothy summer curtains, put all the tie backs together in a mesh bag or pillow case so they won't get "lost" in the wash water. Then pin them together on the line. This will save hunting each pair when its time to hang the curtains again.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

By MARY M. JARDINE

Designs by Mrs. John P. Lewis

Table designs were featured by the talented Mrs. John P. Lewis of West Monroe in her "one-man show" at the Garden Center this week.

Garden flowers and foliages were used in all of the arrangements. The design for an informal luncheon table staged in its proper setting, was greatly admired. The boat shaped container was earth tan in color. Banana blooms and foliage were arranged to follow the lines of the container. Accenting the red - violet banana blooms were spikes of lavender liriope blooms. Beige and brown woven straw mats were used with rose - beige pottery plates. Placed on a mahogany dining table the entire ensemble was harmonious in color, texture and design.

Free - Standing

All table designs should be free-standing (viewed from all sides) whether for a centerpiece or used at one end of the table, as is frequently the case in buffet suppers. Syrena is certainly blessed with a "seeing eye" for she can visualize the inherent beauty of commonplace materials as demonstrated in her design for a buffet supper. This design could be used indoor or on the patio. The container was a dark green metal bowl set on its own stand. A pyramid triangle pattern was achieved with tall placements of chartreuse French mulberry, green and white caladium leaves and white zinnias with a chartreuse center. Low in the bowl were yellow - green Osage oranges (known locally as Bois D'Arc Balls). Clusters of light green mimosa pods were placed on the left and another green and white caladium leaf on the right. So that the design might be interesting and beautiful from all sides the reverse side was filled in with buds and blooms of light yellow canna followed by zinnias in a deep golden yellow. Bronze foliage of castor bean and a seed pod of magnolia in light green touched with bronze provided a contrast in color and texture. This was most distinctive.

Tall Compote

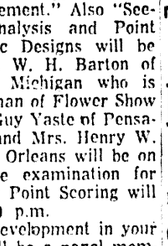
Syrena selected a tall compote of heavy crystal for her design for a formal dinner. The color scheme was a cool green and white. A crystal fruit bowl was inverted inside of the compote and the needlepoint holder placed on it bringing the mechanic about an inch and a half from the rim. The outline of the inverted crescent was created with foliage of glossy abelia, the tips tinged with yellow green. Strengthening the pattern were placements of green and white snow on the mountain. White oleanders were skillfully worked into the design and, as a center of interest on each side, delicate white crinums with a pale pink stripe were placed low. Green and white caladium leaves were placed over the rim. This design should be used with your fine china and crystal and for a cloth fine linen or damask. Tips for those arranging in crystal or clear glass: The water level should come to the very brim of the container. The mechanics must never show. If your flower or foliage stems reach to the bottom of your container they must be part of the design.

Another lovely mass arrangement suitable for a semi - formal dinner was created in an alabaster bowl. The outline of the design was formed with deep pink roses with spikes of liriope blooms for accent. Low in the design were whiz ruffled petunias striped with lavender, complementing the liriope blooms. For added interest the reverse side of the design was made entirely of deep pink roses and liriope. Wouldn't this be lovely on a pale pink damask cloth.

Today will find many gardeners from the fifth district heading for Baton Rouge and Farm and Home Week. Hope to see many of you there.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Moving Lilies Not Advisable



By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Resist that urge to divide or to move your pink spider lilies now. It is too late when they are in flower, and you will upset their growing cycle and prevent them from flowering next summer if they are disturbed at this time.

For years and years, the column has been urging gardeners to grow these unbelievably delicate and beautiful flowers. The tall pink spider - lilies are called Hall's amaryllis because they were first sent to a Mr. Hall and shown in a flower show in Boston. If you examine them, you will see that the flowers are almost exactly like those of our common red spider-lily. The name for the red spider-lily is Lycoris radiata, and the name of Hall's amaryllis or the pink spider - lily is Lycoris squamigera. They are in the same botanical genus.

All of the spider - lilies in the genus Lycoris should be moved in June and July after the leaves have died down. The very strange thing about the pink spider-lily is that, after the flowers are gone in summer, no leaves are formed as they are on the red spider - lily. This pink flower produces no foliage until the daffodils do in early spring. It is not surprising that the column occasionally gets requests for information about when to move it. The answer is: in June and July—never right after flowers.

The result of moving at the wrong time is short foliage that never gets more than a few inches long in January. No flowers will appear the following July. Left alone after that, however, the bulbs will resume their flowering cycle.

Red spider - lilies can still be moved right now, but the time is getting short. They will probably have made many new rootlets off the old ones. For this reason, have your new location ready, and transplant the bulbs directly to their new location without leaving them even a few hours to dry out. Freshly transplanted bulbs will flower normally. If you leave them out, they may not bloom at all.

There are always advertisements of all kinds of spider-lilies in magazines and newspapers during August. If you intend to order any of these, do it immediately. Soak the bulbs for an hour or more when they arrive, and plant them right away. Best results come from setting all of these bulbs out in June and July, but we gardeners often forget about bulbs until we see the advertisements.

Writing Religious Songs Pays Spiritual Dividends

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Roy E. Nolte is a success as a songwriter, but he's more interested in uplift than downbeat — spiritual uplift.

Nolte composes religious music. He has been at it 40 years and several of his works have been best sellers, as church music goes.

His specialties are cantatas for Easter and Christmas and special anthems.

Nolte is a tall, timid and self-effacing man who quit a clerk's job with the Louisville & Nashville Railroad 28 years ago to devote full time to writing church music.

It wasn't money that lured him to the field. Nolte says he earns only a "modest living," but a lot of satisfaction.

Since 1914 when Nolte turned out his first published piece at 18 years of age, he has composed an anthem or hymn almost every month. His total output is between 500 and 600, all published.

He has produced 28 cantatas. "Hosanna," his best seller, is in a printing of 50,000. "King All-Glorious" went 37,000 copies, "The Star of Silent Night" 23,000 and "Memories of The Manger" 22,000.

His over - all best - selling song is, "I Walked the Fields with Jesus." In 1927, Nolte's "Lift Up Your Heads" won an anthem competition.

Nolte says composing is more inspiration than perspiration for him. A trip to a park once suggested an organ piece. His minister's sermon suggested "By the Waters of Galilee."

Often, he says, "the whole piece comes into my mind at once and I just put it down."

He comments philosophically: "I have music on my mind."

Nolte usually composes music for words supplied him by his publisher. However, he sometimes writes both words and music.

His busiest season is summer, preparing his Christmas music.

Nolte says he likes to listen to his works — but not sing or play them. That he leaves to choir members and musicians.

OFFICER DIES

LISBON (UPI)—Frank Croix Molfo, 49, of Bennington, Vt., a merchant marine officer, collapsed and died Thursday night in the outdoor elevator which was built by the French engineer Eiffel to carry people from the town's lower shopping area to the heights above the Tagus River. An American Embassy spokesman said Molfo was here aboard the U.S. training ship Empire State III.

DRIVE MAKES PROGRESS

NEW YORK (AP) — More than $80,000 has been raised in the United States for the Protestant pavilion at the Brussels World's Fair, the U. S. section of the International Christian Committee reports. Goal for Protestants in this country is $100,000 for the project.

Pink Wrap Tomato Crop In Business

CROSSETT (Special) — Although heavy rains this spring have hit it a low blow, Ashley county's half - million dollar new industry is in business in Hamburg.

With the pink-wrap tomato crop at the half - way mark in the Hamburg auction shed last week, it was estimated that, even with the heavy rain damage, it should bring a total income of $300,000 this year to Ashley County farmers. The prolonged rains have caused an estimated $60,000 damage to the crop, according to the county agriculture agent, D. M. Vaught.

Elbert Butler, state federal inspector, stated that Bradley, Drew, and Ashley counties' tomato crops were hit hardest in this area by the spring rains. The first rains caught the plants just as they were blooming and caused severe damage by destroying blooms and flooding out many fields. Rains again the end of June hit the tomatoes just as they were turning pink, and caused much splitting of the fruit. There is as yet no estimate of the amount of damage caused by the rains of Sunday and Monday of this week.

Buyers representing Ambert of Little Rock; Sachs, of Cleveland, Ohio; and Roy Farrar, of Pharr, Texas, were bidding for the ½ bushel baskets which went for an average of $2.25 per half bushel last week.

The Ashley tomato acreage has jumped from 50 acres in 1955 to 500 acres planted this year. The Hamburg Jaycees helped open the first market in the county fair building in 1955. The following year, when the acreage increased to 150, the Jaycees constructed a shed east of Hamburg on Highway 82. The following year 200 acres were devoted to the tomato industry by Ashley farmers, and this year they planted 500 acres over the county. During '56 and '57 the market was run by a chain buyer, Sachs, of Cleveland. However, early in 1958 the farmers organized the Ashley County Pink Tomato Growers Association, and raised about $8,000 through the sale of stock to construct a loading dock and auction shed adjacent to the Jaycee shed. James Watson of Route 2, Crossett is president of the association; C. C. Evans, of Fountain Hill, is secretary - treasurer, and Lindsey Watts, of Crossett, Route 1, is official auctioneer. Billy Ray Watson, of Hamburg, is yard man, and collects a yard fee of 4 cents a basket which goes to the association.

Although rain damage has destroyed almost twenty - five per cent of the crop this year, and damaged much of the fruit that is marketed, it is estimated by the county agent that it can be a half a million dollar a year crop on the acreage currently devoted to tomatoes — "with good prices and normal weather conditions."

Time To Grow Grass Is In Fall Season

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In spite of all the writing on the subject, in spite of the logic involved, in spite of everything, amateur greenskeepers insist on starting their lawns in the spring. In the northern two - thirds of the nation, the better time to sow grass is in the fall.

If you want spring bulbs, you have to plant them in the fall, but you can get some kind of a stand of grass with a spring sowing. Autumn is kinder to young grass: there is usually more natural rainfall, which eliminates the necessity of so much watering; the sturdy annual weeds are on the wane and no longer fierce competition, and the weather is growing cooler, which encourages a healthy stand.

Before seed - sowing, there is a preparation period necessary and this can be hard work if one is not lucky enough to have a thick layer of top soil, a reasonable amount of alkalinity and gentle grading to assist drainage.

New home owners, particularly, would do well to take special care and spend money in starting a new lawn, for it is a long range economy. This involves clearing the area of builder's debris, large rocks and stones. The canny homeowner made certain the precious top-soil was bulldozed aside when the grounds were cleared for building. If this was not done, chances are the infertile subsoil is mixed with topsoil and often will not support anything but weeds. In this case it is essential to buy screened topsoil if lawn is wanted immediately. If the lawn can wait, the poor existing soil can be improved by growing a plowing in legume or rye cover crops to enrich the soil, adding peat moss, humus and other organic material to turn it into fertile soil. There there is proper grading.

The absolute minimum amount of top soil needed is four inches, and five or six is twice as desirable. Where the lawn area is larger, it is best to hire or better still, borrow) a tractor to plow over, grade and otherwise prepare the soil. Smaller areas can be dug over with spade or shovel. Do this work a few weeks before preparing the ground for seeding so that it has a chance to settle.

Then, before putting in the seed, rake the area smooth, removing stones.

Choice of seed is important. Some perennial grasses like a lot of sun; some do well with little. Some lawnmowers like clover and others find it as objectionable as dandelions. Best solution for the beginner is to consult a local nurseryman or seedsman, explaining about the light and shade situation; whether the lawn must have a lot of wear and tear. These professionals know local conditions and probably have several good grass mixtures made up. Follow directions carefully as to sowing.

Mark the area off, and discourage children and pets from trampling across the big seed bed. The same applies to smaller repaired spots.

Comparatively few of us have a big lawnmaking job ahead of us for fall. Most of us, however, have some fall patching to do. This is much simpler because we usually want to get a stronger stand in some sparse spots. Preparation involves a rough scratching over the area with an iron lake, sowing of seed followed by another raking to dig in the seed, followed by a thorough watering to settle it in.

For the party punch bowl, freeze a fruited ice ring. Drain canned fruit cocktail, saving the syrup to go into the punch. Spoon the fruit into a ring mold, fill carefully with cold water and freeze solid. Unmold to float in the punch.

Buying Washing Machines

Esther Cooley, our specialist in Consumer Education, reminds us that an important point to check when buying a washing machine is how much water it requires. Washing machines vary from 6 to 20 gallons in the amount of water used for one filling of the tub. Laboratory tests show no definite relationship between effectiveness of washing and amount of water the machine uses.

If you live where water is scarce or is expensive then the amount the machine uses will be important. Ask your dealer how much water it takes to fill the tub of a non automatic or semiautomatic machine or ask how much an automatic washer uses in its washing cycle.

Varnished Furniture

When varnished furniture has taken on a dull, cloudy look, its finish can sometimes be restored with linseed oil and gum turpentine. Cloudiness caused by poor quality varnish cannot be removed without removing the varnish. But if the finish has been dulled by smoke, dust and grease, then linseed oil and gum turpentine should revive it successfully. First clean surface, one section at a time, with one teaspoon gum turpentine and three teaspoons boiled linseed oil in one cup of hot water. When this has cooled, prepare a new mixture. Rub it on with a soft cloth or with very fine steel wool. Wipe with a clean cloth wrung out of warm water. Then rub with a dry cloth. Revive the finish by applying a 3-0 steel wool pad dipped in equal parts of raw linseed oil and gum turpentine. Wipe off with dry cloth and the cloudiness should be gone.

Be sure to use boiled linseed oil for cleaning and raw linseed oil for the final rubdown. For both purposes, use gum turpentine. Distilled turpentine should never be used for this job.

Spots and Stains

Cleaning spots and stains on rugs and upholstery is complicated these days by the variety of fibers used in today's fabrics. If you haven't saved the labels that contained cleaning instructions it will be best to have rug or upholstered pieces cleaned commercially. Home cleaning, when permissible, can be done with a shampoo, a powder or a solvent. Though vacuuming should precede any of these cleaning methods. An effective shampoo can be made with eight parts of warm water and one part synthetic detergent, not soap, beaten to a thick foam. Apply the foam with a sponge or brush, scrape it off with a sptaula and wipe off with a sponge and clear water. Avoid getting the rug backing or upholstery stuffing wet. One type of powder cleaner can be rubbed into the pile of the fabric to absorb grease and then vacuumed out. Another powder cleaner is similar to sawdust in consistency. Dampen it with a solvent and vacuum the rug or upholstered piece. Solvent cleaning should be carried out according to the manufacturer's directions.

Reducing Rough On Fast Eaters

LOS ANGELES —(UPI)— Fast eaters have a harder time reducing than other people, according to the Los Angeles County Health Department.

The explanation is that persons who don't take time to chew their food thoroughly generally overeat because the brain is slow in registering that the stomach is full.

A Health Department article said dieters can lose weight with less discomfort by:

— Getting up from the table feeling slightly hungry. (The hunger feeling will disappear in about half an hour, the article said, and as the body grows used to the lower food intake, the after-meal hunger feelings disappear).

— Diets containing high protein foods such as meats, fish, eggs and skim milk are more satisfying than other diets.

— Bulky salads also are helpful in decreasing hunger because they take a long time to chew.

— Fruits and vegetables of low calory content are good as "space fillers" and also provide many necessary food elements.

ADJOURNMENT

Congress Makes Quitting Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 85th Congress plans a head-long dash toward final adjournment this week, but it is anybody's guess whether the goal will be reached by Saturday.

Many senators and representatives said Saturday they continue hopeful the session can end Saturday night. Others, eyeing a big stack of unfinished business, said they may still be here the week starting Aug. 18.

The House disposed of most of its major bills in the past week but the Senate spent much of its time on minor legislation.

However, acting Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) told his Senate colleagues Friday they could expect to come in early each day and stay late in an all-out adjournment drive.

Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), called home in midweek because of the illness of his mother, is expected back Monday to devote his talents to the cleanup push.

Key measures remaining are the bill increasing social security benefits, the $3,518,000 foreign aid appropration, and federal aid to education.

All three have passed the House. The education bill is expected to be called up for Senate debate Monday or Tuesday.

The social security bill still is in the Finance Committee, but Chairman Harry F. Byrd (D-Va) said it probably will reach the floor by midweek. However, Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming has testified he would recommend that this bill be vetoed unless a proposed increase in federal grants for public assistance are knocked out of it.

Congress did succeed in moving some major bills during the week.

The 39½-billion-dollar defense money bill a $1,600,000,000-military construction authorization measure, and a 150-million-dollar small business investment capital bill were sent to President Eisenhower.

Senate-House conferees broke a deadlock to agree on a four-year extension of reciprocal trade with new tariff cutting powers for the President. The House passed this, and the Senate is expected to follow suit Monday.

Conferees also reached agreement Friday on legislation setting up a new federal aviation agency.

The House passed the bill requiring public disclosure of employe pension and welfare funds. The Senate asked for a conference on it.

Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) announced all farm legislation is dead for the session after Republicans had joined a few Democrats to defeat a third attempt to get an omnibus bill through the House.

But many farm state members said they would make a last try to extend the act under which farm surpluses are disposed of abroad and to give cotton farmers relief from the sharp acreage cut they must take next year under present law.

O. Grove Man Brought Here After Accident

An Oak Grove man was hospitalized at St. Francis hospital last night, following a tractor - truck-auto three - vehicle crash on Highway 2 at Goodwill in which 14 persons, including eight youngsters and teenagers, were involved.

Wayne Benton suffered two fractured ribs in the mishap, two miles west of Oak Grove, in which five others were also injured.

Benton was driving his tractor, with a mower attached to the back, just east of Goodwill, at 7:30 Friday night. Henry Talley, 67, of Oak Grove, driving a pick-up truck west, said he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming car.

He smashed into the rear of the mowing machine, and the impact threw both mower and tractor around and into the path of a car driven by Talley's son-in-law, just behind the Talley truck.

The son-in-law, William A. Elliott, 48, of Fort Worth, Tex., slammed on his brakes but could not avoid a collision with the tractor.

Thrown Off

Benton was thrown off the farm machinery, which was nearly demolished in the mishap.

Talley escaped injury, but his wife, Mrs. Ada Talley, 64, riding in the truck, suffered slight bruises, and her brother, Jess Johnson, 73, of Lake Providence, also riding in the cab of the truck, received minor cuts.

The windshield of the truck shattered, spraying glass over the occupants. In the back of the pick-up were Mervin Frame, 15, son of Mrs. Rosaline Jenkins of Ft. Worth, a nephew of the Elliotts, and two Elliott children, David, 19 and Billy, 14, who bumped their heads in the mishap.

In the Elliott car were Mr. Elliott, his wife, Mrs. Mabel Elliott, 40, and five other Elliott youngsters, Mabel Ruth, 12, Charles Ray, 10, Tommy, 7, Marilyn, 5 and Sammy, 3½.

Mrs. Elliott received a cut on the forehead and a fracture of the kneecap. Marilyn, who was riding on the front seat, received cuts on the head and knee, and Sammy suffered cuts and bruises on the face.

Passers-by rushed all 14 persons to the Biggs Clinic in Oak Grove where they were treated. Benton, Mrs. Elliott and Sammy were transferred to St. Francis hospital yesterday afternoon.

Benton was hospitalized, but Mrs. Elliott and her son were treated and discharged.

The Elliotts, who were residents of Oak Grove until 1949, were on their way back to Fort Worth after a visit here. Their car was demolished and the Talley truck was smashed in at the front.

None of the drivers carried insurance ,according to Mrs. Elliott. The West Carroll Sheriff's Department investigated the mishap.

NEW VACCINE

LONDON (UPI) — A South African medical researcher, Dr. David Ordman, reported in the British Medical Journal Saturday that he had developed a vaccination against bee stings.

He said the vaccine is made by grinding up dead dried bees and putting the powder into solution. It is used in cases highly-allergic to the sting of bees.

See Basis For Reports Of Saucers

ALAMOGORDO, N. M. (UPI)—A civilian research group said Saturday it has physical evidence "indicating a material, extraterrestrial basis for at least a portion" of reports of unidentified flying objects.

L. J. Lorenzen, public relations director for the Aerial Phenomena Research Organization here, made the statement as new witnesses reported yellowish, starlike lights in the sky Friday night.

Lorenzen said the "physical evidence" was secured "through the efforts of our world wide organizations." He did not give further details, except to say the organization was checking the evidence.

Meanwhile, a rocket engineer at White Sand Proving Grounds, N.M. reported seeing a group of unidentified flying objects near the Alamogordo missile testing center at about the same time witnesses had seen a cluster of lights.

The engineer, whom the ARPO did not identify, said the objects were yellowish and flying from the southwest toward the testing center at an altitude of about 10,000 feet.

The ARPO said a check with airports in the area indicated no aircraft, civilian or military planes in the air at the time—about 10:30 p.m. — and no weather balloons or rocket launchings planned.

'Sex Maniac' Kills 57-Year-Old Woman

WAUWATOSA, Wis. (UPI) —A "sex maniac" walked into a neat, four-room suburban cottage Saturday and killed and then raped a 57-year-old woman who had left the front door open.

Mrs. Edna Mauch was found lying in her blood saturated bed by her husband, Aloysius, 63. Near the bed was a man's argyle stocking containing a brick. On her throat was a yellow workingman's type glove.

Detective Sgt. Alvin Basting said "A sex maniac walked into that house bent on murder."

Basting said the killer had to be a "powerful" man. "He killed his victim with one blow" of the brick-filled sock to the right side of Mrs. Mauch's head. "Then he raped her," Basting said.

Mauch recovered from hysteria and told police it was his wife who left the front door open.

"We were watching a murder mystery on television before going to bed," Mauch said. "I had left the front door open because it was stuffy. I went to bed first and figured she would lock the door. She always takes care of stuff like that.

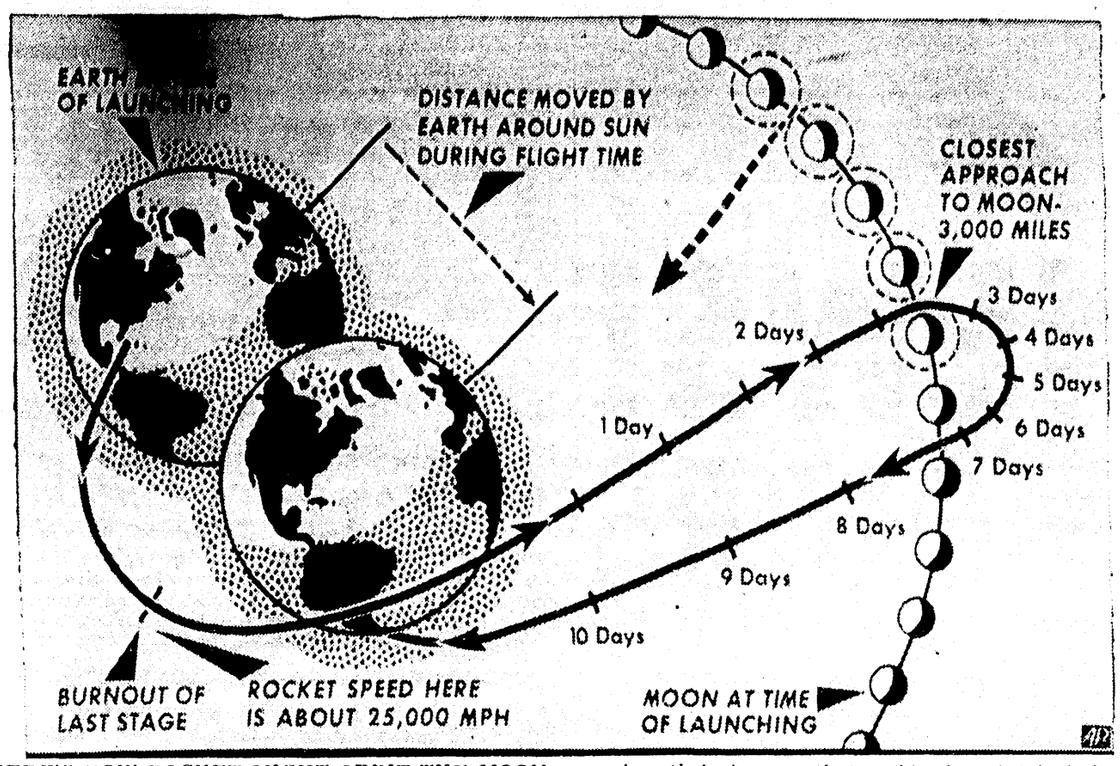
"I didn't hear a thing from the time I went to bed until I awoke this morning."

The couple had separate bedrooms, only a few feet apart, but Mauch said he was a heavy sleeper.

Police sent all evidence in the case to the Federal Bureau of Investigation Laboratory in Washington. Basting said bits of foreign hair were found under the fingernails of Mrs. Mauch, but "there was no apparent struggle."

Basting said about $250 was taken from Mrs. Mauch's purse in the bedroom, but he said rape and murder were the motives of the crime.

A barking dog at a neighbor's house apparently established the time of the killing as 3 a.m.



HERE'S HOW ROCKET MIGHT ORBIT THE MOON — Sketch by AP Artist John A. Carlton illustrates two possibilities in route of rocket Uncle Sam plans to shoot for the moon about mid-August. Under one concept, rocket might come within about 3,000 miles of the moon, swing around the moon and plunge back toward earth in journey that could take a total of about ten days. Or, as drawing also indicates, rocket might circle moon several times, dotted line, and then fall back to destruction in earth's atmosphere. (AP Wirephoto)

IN MISSISSIPPI

Clear Woman Of Murder Charge

NEW ALBANY, Miss. (AP) — A jury Saturday cleared Mrs. Iona Gates, 39, of a charge that she murdered her husband Lynn with rat poison.

The slender widow, drawn tense with strain, slumped over the defendant's table and sobbed for nearly five minutes before mustering strength to rise.

"Thank you for having faith in me in this terrible ordeal," she told the all-male jury, which the state had asked to return a death sentence.

The state said the mother of three children killed her husband by inches last year by giving him small doses of arsenic in his ice water and tea.

Mrs. Gates, in tearfully repudiating a confession made to police, said if poison killed her husband he must have absorbed it into his system while spraying cotton with an arsenic compound.

The trial opened last Monday. The case went to the jury Friday afternoon. The jurors were locked up for the night and returned their decision at 11:25 a.m. after 7 hours and 5 minutes deliberation.

Gates, of nearby Etta, died in August, 1957. His body was exhumed three weeks later and found to contain enough arsenic to have caused his death.

The state said Mrs. Gates admitted in her confession hat she killed her husband because he beat their daughter.

Special prosecutor W. P. Mitchell of Tupelo said Mrs. Gates also "admits she had an affair with another man over a period of several years, until about a month before her husband died."

Mrs. Gates said she signed the confession only after being denied food over the two-day period while she was being questioned.

Theft Suspects Apprehended

A 16-year-old white juvenile was in custody of Monroe police yesterday, after he admitted the theft of bowling equipment. A nine-year-old Negro was also apprehended for shoplifting.

The bowling articles - a pair of shoes, bowling ball and bag - were taken Tuesday from the Bowling Center on Louisville Avenue.

Jerry Johnson, who owned the goods, reported the theft.

Yesterday morning, the nine-year-old Negro boy was taken in custody at the "Y'All Come" grocery, 3000 Renwick. He was found shoplifting food.

Monroe police are also investigating the theft of a pair of light blue trousers from an auto Friday night.

Grover Aaron, 1309 S. Second St., told officers that he parked his car for a few minutes in front of the Moonlight Inn, 510 Winnsboro Road. When he returned at 8:15 p.m., he discovered that the clothing had disappeared.

Set Appearance In Court Here

Two Monroe women are due to appear in court next Wednesday, on charges of selling beer after hours, following their arrest yesterday by Monroe police.

Mrs. Evie Watts, 49, of 907 Jackson St. and Miss Cecil Erleene Sykes, 36, of 809 S. Third St., were arrested at 1:30 a.m. yesterday at Watts Cafe on the corner of Louise Anne Avenue and S. Second St.

Both posted $360 bond and were released.

EX-PRESIDENT

Hoover Works 7 Days Each Week

NEW YORK (AP)—"ust what does an ex-president do?"

Herbert Hoover, who celebrates his 84th birthday Monday, chuckled as he answered the question he said was most often asked him.

He said he works seven days a week, 10 to 12 hours a day and puts in just about as much time as when he was president.

Seated in his suite on the 31st floor of the Waldorf Towers, white - haired, ruddy - complexioned and firm of voice, he told newsmen that in the last year he and his office had written 55,952 letters, not including birthday, Christmas, or speech acknowledgements.

He made nine major speeches and 21 minor ones out of 1,620 invitations received. He published a book, "The Ordeal of President Wilson," and participated in dedications of the Truman Library, seven boys' clubs and a public school named for him.

One of his main occupations is on the Commission for Government Reorganization. He served as director or trustee of 12 educational and scientific institutions and participated in eight fund-raising drives.

Hoover also found time to represent President Eisenhower at the Brussels exposition, visit the St. Lawrence Seaway and to make fishing trips to Oregon and the Florida Keys.

The former president, who underwent a gall bladder operation last April, appeared lively and alert. He said he was feeling well.

Often regarded as stern and serious, Hoover was in a cheery mood.

He quipped that Florida has a fish for older persons—the bonefish. He said the fisherman simply sits in a skiff and waits for infrequent bites.

"You have time between bites to read government documents," he said.

From his living room, with pale yellow walls, light gray woodwork and spritely green upholstered furniture, Hoover can look out on the East River and the gleaming United Nations headquarters where the General Assembly is meeting in emergency special session.

"I hope some good will come out of this meeting," he said.

He said there were two ways Russia could contribute to the peace of the world:

Stop conspiring to upset free governments.

Stop "the hate talk" about the United States and other free countries.

BY COTTON FIRM HEAD

End Of Farm Supports Seen

HOUSTON (AP)—The head of a worldwide cotton firm said Saturday failure by Congress to pass a new farm bill that would prevent sharp 1959 cutbacks in cotton and rice acreage allotments could mean the end of farm price supports.

Lamar Fleming Jr., chairman of the board of Anderson, Clayton and Co., said the threatened acreage reductions would be catastropic to the entire South.

"If this cutback holds it will be so disastrous and the cost of the program so scandalous there will be an explosion," Fleming said.

Fleming said the threatened reduction would take nearly four million acres of the nation's 1958 cotton crop out of production.

R. H. Stansel of Alvin, secretary of the Harris County Rice Growers Assn., said the cutback would be disastrous.

"The threatened 40 per cent cut in rice acreage would put a whale of a lot of growers out of business," he said. "And they wouldn't be alone. Driers, mills, implement dealers and farm laborers would be affected tremendously."

Stansel said, however, he expects a new farm bill to be approved by Congress, thus preventing the cutbacks.

Fleming said the combined threat of a 22 per cent cutback in cotton acreage and over 40 per cent in rice would crucify the economy of the Texas Gulf Coast.

"The area would be in a bad fix, but the situation would be felt most strikingly between Houston and Corpus Christi," he said.

Harmon Whittington, president of Anderson, Clayton & Co., said cotton and rice growers want more freedom to operate at capacity.

"I think 80 per cent of the cotton growers and 100 per cent of the rice growers would prefer to take a lower price to get added acreage plantings," he said.

Fleming said the political overtones would match those of economy.

"I can't believe the government can be so irresponsible as to let this thing happen," he said.

"It would take a mighty brave or very stupid man to come home from Congress and face the farmers who would be affected by such a great cut in production acreage."

EMBARRASSES PRINCE PHILIP

LONDON (UPI) — Lt. Cmdr. Peter Dillnot started the sailboat Bluebottle in the wrong direction in a race Tuesday — but what made it really bad was that Prince Philip, husband of the Queen, was one of the three crewmen.

"I misread the program and directed Prince Philip to the northeast," Dillnot said. "It's going to take me a little time to live this thing down."

THEY'RE ALL SAYING YOU AUTO SAVE NOW

ON A '58 FORD FROM BROWN-RIVERS-SCOGIN

Open This Afternoon

"We weren't even ready for a new car, but we just couldn't afford to pass up the offer we got on a '58 Ford from Brown-Rivers-Scogin . . . and we're tickled pink with the car."

"Our new '58 Ford is the most! It wows all my friends. We haven't been so knocked out with anything since Elvis Presley . . . and the folks got a super trade from Brown-Rivers-Scogin."

"Brother, when Brown - Rivers-Scogin says 'Closeout on '58 Fords', they aren't kidding. They gave me an allowance on my '55 that's unbelievable. I heartily recommend a close-out deal on a '58 Ford from Brown-Rivers-Scogin."

"I made the happiest deal of my life on a '58 Ford during Brown-Rivers-Scogin's Closeout Sale. Frankly, I don't see where they could have made a dime on our trade.

"I'm a very careful shopper in buying groceries and everything else for my family, and I think I know a bargain when I see it. All I could say when I heard the offer Brown-Rivers-Scogin made on our '56—was 'WOW'!"

"My mom and pop are telling all their friends and neighbors about the offer they got on a '58 Ford from Brown-Rivers-Scogin. I heard 'em tell the folks next door they think they even put one over on Brown-Rivers-Scogin . . . and everybody's tickled with our new Ford."

"Frankly, I was doubtful. I thought this was just another sales gimmick, but I have to admit they gave me an unheard of offer at Brown-Rivers-Scogin."

You, Too, Will Brag To Your Friends About The Trade You Can Get Now On

THEY'LL BE SO HAPPY WHEN THEY HEAR THEY DON'T HAVE TO BUY US NEW DRESSES
BOYS--YOU'LL HAVE TO COME IN THE HOUSE NOW--WE'LL NEED YOU TO MODEL FOR US
NOW, DAGWOOD--- DON'T LOOK SO GRUMPY--JUST THINK OF ALL THE MONEY WE'RE SAVING YOU AND HERB
DON'T MOVE, HERBERT--- I'LL HAVE TO RUN OVER TO BLONDIE'S AND CHECK WITH HER ON THAT PATTERN
OH, NOW REALLY-- AREN'T YOU THE SWEETEST LOOKING DOLL?
AW, BEAT IT! YOU'RE NO PIN-UP GIRL, YOURSELF
YOU HEARD ME! BEAT IT!
STAY BACK, YOU GORGEOUS CREATURE

MAMA-MAMA--TWO LADIES ARE HAVING A TERRIFIC FIGHT IN OUR BACK YARD
WE'LL NEVER BE ABLE TO MAKE THEM OVER NOW
THAT SETTLES IT-- THEY'LL HAVE TO BUY US BOTH NEW DRESSES
I'LL TAKE THIS ONE
THEY'RE FORTY DOLLARS EACH
I'LL TAKE THIS ONE
THEY CAN BE SO SWEET WHEN THEY WANT TO BE

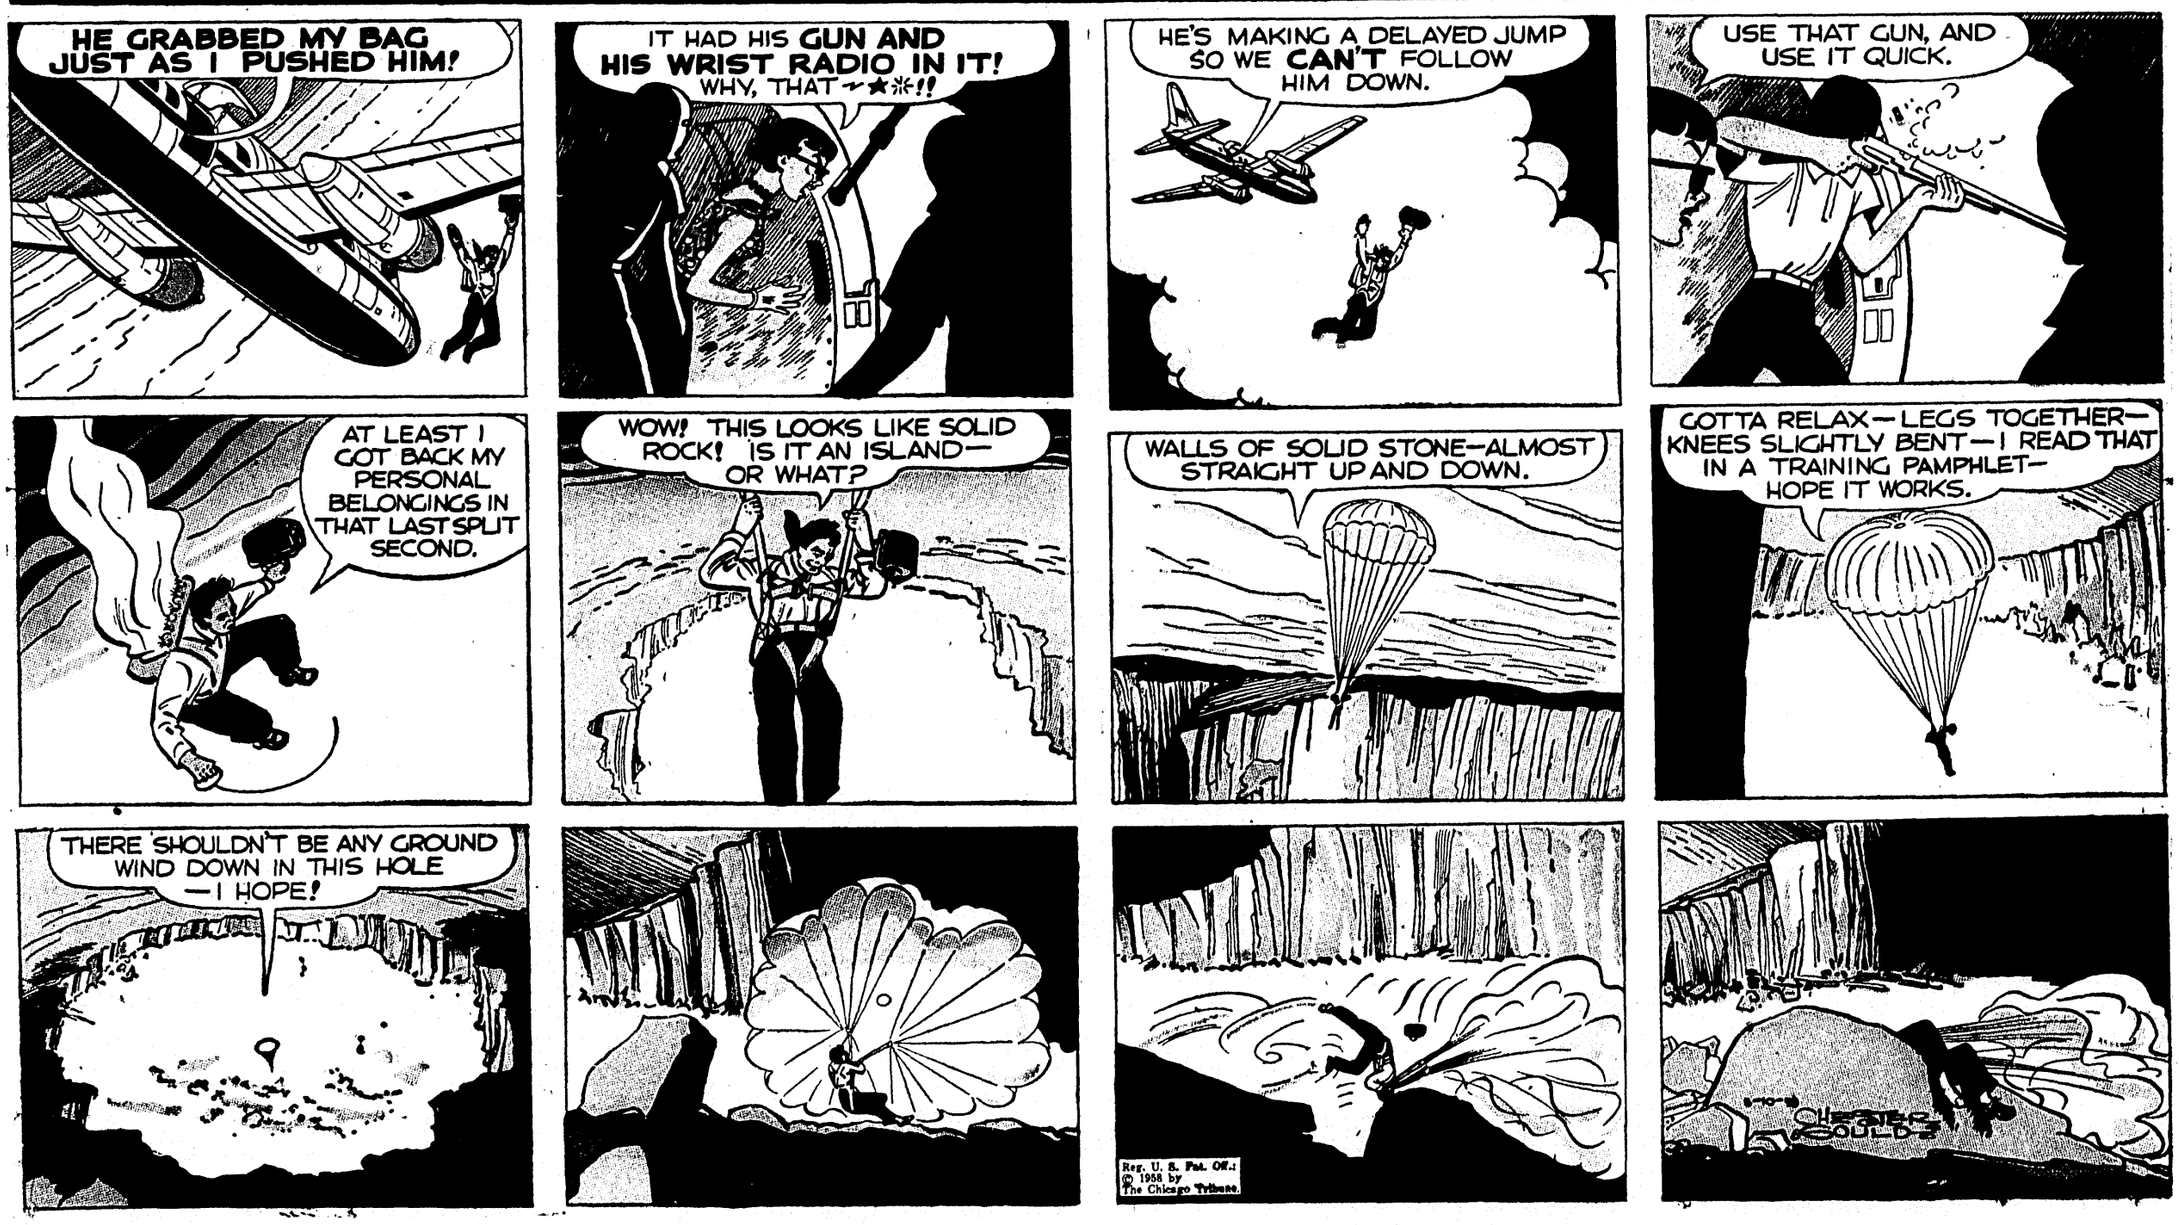
CRIMESTOPPERS TEXTBOOK
IN RECENT YEARS, THE IMPORTANCE OF THE POLICE ARTIST HAS BEEN RECOGNIZED. THE FIRST QUESTION IS: "WHAT DID THE KILLER LOOK LIKE?" YOUR CO-OPERATION WITH THE ARTIST MAY HELP SOLVE THE CRIME.
Dick Tracy



HE GRABBED MY BAG JUST AS I PUSHED HIM!
IT HAD HIS GUN AND HIS WRIST RADIO IN IT! WHY, THAT--★※!!
HE'S MAKING A DELAYED JUMP SO WE CAN'T FOLLOW HIM DOWN.
USE THAT GUN, AND USE IT QUICK.
AT LEAST I GOT BACK MY PERSONAL BELONGINGS IN THAT LAST SPLIT SECOND.
WOW! THIS LOOKS LIKE SOLID ROCK! IS IT AN ISLAND— OR WHAT?
WALLS OF SOLID STONE—ALMOST STRAIGHT UP AND DOWN.
GOTTA RELAX—LEGS TOGETHER— KNEES SLIGHTLY BENT—I READ THAT IN A TRAINING PAMPHLET— HOPE IT WORKS.
THERE SHOULDN'T BE ANY GROUND WIND DOWN IN THIS HOLE —I HOPE!

NOT BAD PHYSICALLY~BUT STILL DELIRIOUS~ STATE OF SHOCK~ RAVING~

EXPLORERS CLUB

IT'S AMAZING~HIS DELIRIUM IS SO VIVID~KEEPS TALKING ABOUT OF ALL THINGS~A HUGE, MAN-EATING PLANT! SAW A SACRIFICE, HE SAYS.

SURE IT'S DELIRIUM? MAYBE HE SAW SOMETHING.

MAN-EATING PLANT? NONSENSE! SMALL INSECT-EATING PLANTS, NOTHING MORE.

WHY BE SO POSITIVE? YOU WEREN'T THERE. MUCH OF THE JUNGLE'S UNEXPLORED.

EVERY RUMOR OF SUCH A PLANT HAS BEEN DISPROVEN AS A SHEER LIE OR HOAX!

WHY NOT KEEP AN OPEN MIND?

I'M TOO HUNGRY TO ARGUE ABOUT ANYTHING SO SILLY! GOOD DAY!

IS NOT LIE. MAN NOT SICK. I KNOW OF WHAT HE SPEAKS. PLANT GOD OF MASSAU.
